Our Editorial Trip—What we saw—What we Thought and what we wish to impress upon our readers.

When we discontinued our account of the Editorial trip to Lake Erie and back, in the last issue of this paper, we had just arrived at Put-In-Bay Hotel on the Island of that name about 40 miles from Sandusky City. After indulging in a delightful bath in Lake Erie and several glasses of what in that country is known by the name of and flows as freely as "Erie water," but what over this way would be called a very fine quality of Catawba wine, we severally retired to rest.

The next morning upon arising and looking from our window out upon the Lake, the most delightful prospect was presented to our gaze. Far away as the eye could reach, stretched the waters of Erie, and dotted about upon its surface, reposed a group of bright green islands glittering in the sunshine. The air was pure and refreshing, and during our stay at this charming spot we were struck with the same pure, breezy, healthy atmosphere. Put-In-Bay Island is the principal of a cluster of islands, and furnished a secure harbor to Com. Perry during his naval campaign against the British in the war of 1812. It is about 1700 acres in extent, covered almost entirely by vineyards. On the second day of our stay we were invited by Dr. S. S. Lungren to visit his wine cellars, and from him we learned that from 600. to 800, galls. per acre are annually made from the cultivation of the grape. He has 17 acres set out in vineyards, composed of the Catawba, the Delaware and the Concord grape, and had in his cellars when we first arrived more than 9000 gallons of wine, the product of the last vintage. How much he had when the Maryland Editorial Association reluctantly left the shade of his hospitable trees, this deponent cannot say. This wine he sells at from 75 cts to $2.00 per gallon.

Over against Put-In-Bay Island, about 300 yards distant, lies Gibraltar, the fairy western home of Jay Cooke, the celebrated American Banker. Mr. Cooke telegraphed to Mrs. McMeans, an accomplished lady formerly of our own State, to extend to us the hospitalities of Gibraltar, and we spent several hours on this little island, about 5 acres in extent, at the palatial dwelling built upon it by the owner. A sumptuous banquet was spread during our visit, and excepting that the sentiments were varied, there was pretty much a rehearsal of the reception at Columbus.

The second night of our stay was distinguished by a ball given in our honor by the hospitable proprietors of our Hotel, Messrs. Sweeny, West & Co., and until a late hour we infested the handsome ballroom which swarmed with much of the beauty and fashion of the West. The following day, a grand dinner was extended to us by the same gentleman, and there was a rehearsal of the Columbus and Gibralter affairs after dinner, varied only by a very handsome and uncommonly eloquent speech from Gen. Ward, a prominent politician of Ohio.

Our entire stay upon the island was occupied in visiting the vineyards of the proprietors, Perry's Cave (of no inconsiderable extent,) the neighboring islands which also abound in vineyards, and the various objects of interest in the vicinity. It is certainly one of the most favored spots upon the earths surface, and must in time become the great summer resort of the people of the West. There are already two extensive and admirably kept Hotels upon the island, accommodating some 2000 guests, the Put-In-Bay House and the Bebee Hotel, from the polite and enterprising proprietors of which latter, by the way, we received a cordial invitation to extend our visit and become the guests of the house. A portion of the party accepted the invitation of the Press and City authorities of Sandusky to pay them a visit, but the writer with a number of his brother Editors left Lake Erie on Friday the 11th inst, and on Saturday at 9 A. M. after journeying through the same magnificent country, had safely arrived in our own city of Baltimore.

We observed that the farms seldom exceeded 100 acres in extent, and were in the highest state of cultivation. The corn standing two and three to the hill and the hills from a foot and a half to two feet and a half apart, would hide the tallest man on the tallest horse, and more frequently than otherwise bore two years to the stock. The wheat had been garnered, but the stubble gave ample proof of a luxuriant harvest, and the shocks of oats stood thicker in the fields by far along the entire route than we have ever seen them on the richest lands in Maryland. While extensive tracts of country are as level as our own, the general character of the soil is rolling, and the hills are covered with thick verdure to their very tops. The primeval forests, in many instances, furnish pastures equal to our very best clover fields on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

We have come back from this trip thoroughly convinced, and it is a conviction that has fastened itself upon every gentleman in the numerous party, that it is vain for us to endeavor to contend with the West in the growth of wheat, corn, oats, in short everything that comes under the denomination of "grasses." The sooner our people realize the fact the better. What chance, we ask every candid man, has a farmer in Dorset against a farmer in Ohio who will without any fertilizer and by simply ploughing the soil God gave him, raise on his average land from 50 to 60 bushels of corn per acre? It is absolute madness for us to contend with them, when we further reflect, that scattered about all over the vast States of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, are immense belts of forest and prairie which stand to day as they stood thousands of years ago when the "Sons of God shouted for joy" and a new star blazed in the Heavens. The country is comparatively unpopulated. Your children driven by stern necessity, will realize, if you do not, that the hope of this Peninsula lies in improving our situation as to the great truck markets of the Atlantic cities. We have a genial climate and a fine soil for every discription of what are known as "small fruits" and vegetables, and a constantly increasing and inexhaustable market lies before us. In the cold and comparatively Sunless climate of northern Ohio we saw men rolling in wealth derived from the cultivation of the grape. In this climate of the vine we neglect it. We aver that the wine produced by William Grason, Esq., and Mr. James Wallace within sight of Cambridge in small quantities, is as superior to these famous wines of Ohio as is Falernian to Cider. Why is this? Nothing but a lack of intelligent appreciation upon part of our farmers of their own best interests stands between our people and prosperity. For their own sakes, for the sake of their children, for the sake of the public good, we urge upon them experiments at least to test the truth of our assertion.

INGLESIDE, Aug 18th 1871.

Mr Editor:—Believing that my information in regard to the action of the County Commissioners was correct, I was anxious to learn the reason for their change of purpose, and reduction of appropriation. I knew the change could not have been made in the interest of the schools, and feared that policy, politics, or party, had governed their action and hidden from view the great question of education. Believing this, I wrote as I did in your issue of the 9th inst, without any disposition to criticise official conduct without cause.

In reply to this article B. M. J. makes a quasi denial for the Commissioners.

If I was misinformed, then that question is removed from the arena of discussion, and so far as the action of the Board of Commissioners is concerned I should have nothing further to say. But I fear there was more truth concealed, than revealed in the article of B. M. J. and that his purpose was to cover up, rather than bring to light the whole action of that Board. "The little knowledge he has of the members of the Board" may however explain this apparent want of candor.

If it is a fact, as stated, that the Commissioners have increased the levy for schools, one or two thousand dollars on each proceeding year for the last four or five years, have they increased the appropriation to schools in the same ratio?

We all know the condition of our schools during the past year, and the appropriation being nearly the same this as it was last year, we can hope for no improvement. Had a few thousand dollars more been given, a few suitable school houses could have been erected. And this is nearly the great want of the schools at the present time.

As well might you expect a shipcarpenter to build a splendid steamer with an old cutlass, as to suppose that teachers can build up flourishing schools with the material placed at their hands.

If the home life of the child makes or mars the man, so also does the school leave its impress for good or for evil. The comfort and taste of the pupil should be consulted in the erection of every house, so that the labor of study might be lightened, and the place rendered so attractive, that it would ever remain a green spot in memory.

In an old rickety building with cracks and crevices in every direction, without glass to exclude the summer sun, or winter storms; insufficiently lighted or ventilated; with benches for seats, & boards for desks, and these latter so constructed as to give no comfort of body, is it not unreasonable, if not inhuman, to expect mental growth & development?

Better, far better would it be to reduce the term to six, or even three months in the year, and save money to build suitable houses. But better still would it be to increase the school levy or tax until it would meet every want, and supply every demand for the education of the children of this County.

There are some old fogies, and rich ones too, who would whine and complain and tell the oft repeated story of how they have succeeded without an education, and how they have educated their children at the best schools, and that it is unjust to compel them to educate other people's children.

The education of the people is a question that rises above and beyond the interests of any class of men, and the State, the County and the cause of human liberty has a right to demand, and does demand that the people be educated.

There may be some politicians who would prefer to avoid, or ride astride of this question and not get down on either side. To such let me say, it is too late, the time is past, when the few can lead the many, and the cause of education be a mooted question.

Do not the people, the voters of this County know that their interests are involved in the education of their children? Is there a father or a mother in the land who do not wish to see their little ones developed into refined and educated men and women? And if they do, will they not favor the best means to accomplish this end?

Had the Dorchester & Delaware Rail Road never been built, the school master might have been kept at home, but he is abroad, and has a rod in pickle for old fogies, and politicians who want to ride two horses at the same time.

I am no politician, no aspirant for any office, and am not feeding at the public crib. I hope B. M. J. can say the same and that ceasing to be the apologist of the Commissioners he may become the friend and advocate of the great cause of education.

PROGRESS.

[For the Chronicle.]

Legislature.

Mr. Editor:—I am glad to hear that the name of our highly esteemed friend—Dr. Eugene Hodson, is to be in nomination for the above office. I am sure we will all admit there is none more worthy. He has been indefatigable in his zeal in the democratic faith, and his efforts for propagation of its tenets constant and arduous. His name is now before you for your suffrages for an office he is well qualified to fill with credit to himself, to his constituents and to our State.

He is one of our most faithful and prominent members of the School Board. I wish the School Board consisted of members so well qualified to discharge the duties of such a responsible position.

He has ever been a consistent Democrat, with no political or social affiliations with other parties. You know exactly where to find him. Give each his term in the rotation of office, extend to all a just proportion of its benefits and emoluments.

Let us have standard-bearers who can command the respect of all, and who can carry dignity into the position in which we shall place them.

Yours truly

A Democrat.

Our Post Master General.—We take from the letter of a Washington Correspondent of a New York Republican paper, the following note of the notorious Marylander now occupying the position of Post Master General.

"Creswell, the Postmaster-General, spends most of his time figuring in politics in Maryland. The Department is almost wholly run by his assistants, who, it is hinted, will soon run it to the devil. There is more jobbing in the different contract and the appointment bureaus than was ever known before. Look out for another explosion in that direction. The majority of defaulters of that Department are immediately removed to the insane asylum, but this will not always be the case. Creswell is looking after Grant's interests in Maryland."

Peterson's Magazine for September more than maintains its reputation as the "best and cheapest" of the Lady's Books, as well as the supreme authority in matters of fashion. The steel engraving "The Miller's Granddaughter," illustrating a charming story, is one of the prettiest we have ever seen. The double-sized colored steel fashion-plate is of rare beauty, and gives the latest and most elegant Parisian styles. In this number is begun a new copyright novelet, "The Tragedy of a Quiet Life," which is unusually good even for this magazine; and there are other original tales and novelets, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Daisy Ventnor, and other first-class story writers. We do not see how any lady can do without "Peterson." It is the leading guide in fashion. The price is but $2.00 a year, with great reductions to clubs.—Address, Charles J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

Godey's Lady's Book.—This choice magazine for September has been received, and as usual is filled with articles, rich, rare, and racy. The steel and fashion plates are finely executed and very beautiful. Among its contents we notice the charming stories entitled "Nurse Brown's Story," "Florence Knowlton's Fortune," Juliet's Victory," &c. We also notice a number of very fine poems, and "Rappahannock Polka," composed and arranged for the piano-forte, which of itself is worth a year's subscription price. One copy, one year, $3.00.—Address L. A. Godey, N. E. Corner Sixth and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia.

The Pope has issued another circular, asking the prayers of his faithful people for the freedom of the Holy See and the peace of the Church. It is officially announced in Rome that two Convents and three plats of ground, the property of religious bodies, have been taken possession of for public use.

—As a specimen of Republican taxation we give the following from official reports. "The state taxes in Charleston City, South Carolina for 1870, are greater than were the taxes for the same purpose in the whole state in 1856. "The popular demand is Retrenchment and Reform."

A citizen of the interior of Tennessee went to a Memphis hotel, and being served with vermicelli soup, repelled it indignantly, desiring to know if "you 'uns eat those infernal wurrums."

☞ "This world is all a fleeting show," said a priest to a culprit on the gallows. "Yes," was the prompt reply, "but if you have no objection, I'd like to see the show a little longer."

Trustee's Sale

OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

IN DORCHESTER COUNTY, MD.

By virtue of competent authority, the undersigned Trustee, will sell by Public Auction, in front of the Court House door in the town of Cambridge, on next, at the hour of 2 o'clock, P. M., all those VALUABLE FARMS or TRACTS of LAND in Dorchester County, Maryland, known as "HOPE" and "NICOLS' CROSS ROADS." These farms adjoin each other and contain in the whole somewhat upwards of 1,000 Acres of Land.

MONDAY, 11th day of SEPTEMBER

A careful survey and plat will be made, and the exact number of acres in each farm ascertained, and ready for exhibition to persons disposed to examine the premises before the day of sale.

There is a Dwelling House with the usual outbuildings, on each of said farms, and the "Hope" farm has a variety of very choice fruit trees.

These farms are well situated on the northwest fork of the Nanticoke River, and have a fine landing on navigable water.

They are also within about four miles of each of the Depots at East New Market and Hurlpck's Station on the Dorchester and Delaware Rail Road, and are admirably adapted to the production of early Fruits, Vegetables, &c.

The Whortleberries annually gathered from said farms and which grow wild on about fifty acres of said land, are estimated to bring not less than one thousand dollars and some years probably largely over that amount.

These lands are very productive and are estimated as very valuable. The importance of this section of the country, for the culture of fruits and early vegetables, has now been fully demonstrated, the yield being larger than perhaps in any other portion of the United States in proportion to the outlay.

LIST OF CANDIDATES.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

BEFORE the Democratic Nominating County Convention for a seat in the House of Delegates, of Maryland.
aug30-tc H. T. WINTERBOTTOM.

For the Legislature.

Mr. Editor.—As the time for nominating our ticket is near at hand, the claims of the different candidates will be brought in review, and it is with peculiar pleasure that his many friends urge the name of Dr. EUGENE HODSON for the House of Delegates. Dr. H. is so well known, as a high-toned honorable gentleman, of fine business capacity and strictly temperate habits, that he really needs no recomendation, yet, as the times require specific explanations, I would say that Dr. Hodson, by his admirable management of school affairs in his district, and his attention to his duties as a School Commissioner, (never once being absent from a meeting of the Board,) has proved his devotion to the true interests of the people and his fitness for the faithful performance of legislative duties.

Possessed of a fine mind, of liberal education, with great fondness for books, of incorruptible probity, agreable manners and pleasant address, Dr. Hodson, if elected to the next House of Delegates, will reflect credit upon himself and the county he will represent. B.

For the Legislature.

To the Public.—Upon the reiterated solicitation of many of my friends, I have consented to allow my name to go before the Democratic County Convention, as a candidate for the House of Delegates, and I embrace this opportunity to deny emphatically the truth of a rumor which has reached my ears, started doubtless by parties from interested motives, that I am concerned in a scheme to injure the prospects of our county choice for the next U. S. Senator, the Hon D. M. Henry. That Gentleman has my most cordial support, and upon this important question my personal views are in entire accord with the sentiments of the county which I aspire to represent in the councils of the State.

W. T. VICKERS.
