The Opposing Tickets for County Commissioners.—In putting the name of Capt. Lewis Ross at the head of their ticket for County Commissioners, the republicans must have been actuated by one of two or three motives. It is either considered by them that he is a republican in principle who is entitled to the support of republicans, that he ought to be supported because he is a man of large property and hence fitted to be commissioner, or that like their leader Mr. Tome, because he is wealthy and they expect from his heavy purse a liberal outlay for electioneering purposes and to enable them to buy up the votes of the people.

Now in the first place, Capt. Ross, an original (and according to radical phraseology a secession) Democrat, is not a republican either in principle or name, but on the contrary avows his determination to vote the Democratic ticket, as he has done all his lifetime, at the coming election.

On what ground of principle therefore, they support him, it is hard to say.

In the next place, they may say that he is a large land-holder, and therefore interested in the reduction of the taxes of the county. Do they mean by this to assert the proposition that an honest and capable but poor man is unfitted to be trusted with the administration of the affairs of the people because he has no property? Do they dare say this? And whether they say it or not, is it not patent that they think so when they run for the office a Democrat in politics, who has never been considered to possess any very remarkable business qualifications, but simply and purely on the ground that he is the richest man in Dorchester? Is it not of a piece with the radical policy everywhere to exalt capital as a god, and bow down to and worship it as did Israel of old the golden calf?

As to the third motive suggested, everybody who is acquainted with their candidate knows so well that they are mightily deceived in entertaining any such expectation, that we do not consider it necessary to discuss it.

But the republicans may have expected Democrats to be allured to the support of their ticket by the fact of Captain Ross' name being on it, and in this hope we are confident they are as much deceived as in their calculation as to receiving money from him to help elect the republicans upon it. The people of this county have been deceived and tricked by these radical leaders too often, to allow themselves to be betrayed into any such error. A Democrat who has known and respected Capt. Ross will reason about it very much as follows:

The Captain has been a good Democrat and from having large possessions will naturally do what he can to reduce taxation, but the gentlemen who have been put in nomination by a regular convention of the party are each of them to say the least, the equals of Captain Ross, as any man in Dorchester, in integrity, like him they have all a large stake in county affairs and are interested for their own sake and for the sake of their children in public economy, like him they are prudent in the management of their own affairs, and unlike him they are very generally reckoned among the most sagacious business men of the County. Again, while they have a sufficiently large stake to interest them personally in taxation, they have not on their hands ten or twenty farms and an infinite number of personal securities to look after, to divide their time and distract their attention from the necessarily complicated and laborious duties of a county Commissioner. They are men beloved by their neighbors, trusted for their integrity and capacity, property holders and their names are on the regular Democratic ticket. As a good Democrat who love my party I must support them in order to preserve the harmonious working of party organization and keep out of office the radical schemers who seek to divide and then ruin us.

Finally Captain Ross' name is on the ticket with known enemies of the best interests of the County, and every consideration forbids my support of him for the office he seeks.

What could determine the radical leaders to put him on their ticket beyond a wish to divide the Democracy for ulterior purposes, it is hard to determine, for of course they know that the strength of their party, the colored voters, will not support their old enemy of enemies. Still harder is it to say what could induce Capt. Ross in the evening of his life to take such an amazing step, but one thing is plain enough, it is our duty to vote against him like any other man on the republican ticket.

As to county taxation, any well informed man knows that the Democratic boards have in spite of an immense debt left to them by their radical predecessors, steadily reduced the rate of taxation while they have at the same time very nearly completed the payment of the public debt, and there is on that score so far from there being ground for public distrust, ample cause for public gratulation. Let the radicals divide us and get into power but one term and it will take us ten more years to get rid of the result of their impositions and exactions.

Is complete, and with cheapness in price he combines elegance of style and good workmanship.

Next in line comes his variety of

of which he has laid in a heavier stock than ever before, comprising all the latest styles Felts, Cassimers, and velvets. In

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS, TRUNKS, RUBBER GOODS

He is as usual well supplied, and as to

Boots and Shoes

He would here remark that for want of room he intends discontinuing the sale of them, having just bought enough this season to keep in assortment and sizes, which together with the stock on hand will be run off at

COST PRICE.

Having as herefore carefully searched the market and possessing every facility for buying goods on the closest terms,

HAINEBACH

Is assured that he can hold out inducements not to be surpassed in any city, and here he would particularly mention that by having most of his goods made up in time, the rise of Woollens will not effect his sales, and now all he asks is as ever a fair trial, and he feels assured that none shall go away dissatisfied,

ROAD NOTICE.

WE, the undersigned, have been appointed, by the County Commissioners of Dorchester County, to consider the propriety of opening a road at a point near the old camp ground on the county road from Jones Baptist Church to the Little Brick Mill, and running through the lands of James H. Kelley, Mary E. Houston and Wm. McBride, until it intersects the private road from Maiden Forest to Chickone Branch; thence, with or near said road through the lands of Wm. McBride, Eben L. Short, Caleb Shepherd, Tho. W. Smith, Dr. R. H. Dixon, Matilda Thompson and Samuel E. Thompson, until it intersects the county road from Vienna to Crotchers Ferry at
