Though frequently exercised with levity and very commonly in prejudice or passion, the elective franchise is the most important right of an American citizen, and it should never be used without abundant forethought and reflection. At this time particularly, when not only important questions of public policy are agitating the nation but the fundamental law itself is being fiercely debated throughout the country, it is the especial duty of good citizens to think well before they cast their votes at the coming election.

We are desirous of calling the attention of such persons as in a general way have acted with the republican party for the past ten years, to the probable consequences of a republican success in this county in November.

Now while we are perfectly aware that there are some men of honesty and ability, even among the leaders, in the republican party in Dorchester, we also know, and a candid man of any party will scarcely deny it, that the prevailing influences in that party are very bad indeed. It will not be denied that while they had control of the County they ran up our taxes from 60 cents to $1.35 on the hundred, and yet left to their Democratic successors a very large debt which has since been liquidated. Nor can they say truly that it was on account of bounties &c., for while they levied only $4,000 to the use of public schools the Democrats have levied $20,000, and the difference is very largely in excess of any sums that the republican Commissioners were obliged to levy on account of the drafts. The democrats have had but two Boards of Commissioners, and yet they have paid off some $16,000 of debt left them by their immediate predecessors, they have paid the interest on the County rail road subscription ($3,000) they have raised the school levy as stated above, they have built bridges and drained roads, and at the same time they have reduced the taxes from $1.35 to $1.06 on the hundred dollars. If this simple statement does not carry conviction to the mind of any man that in Democratic hands the financial affairs of the County are safe, we would no more pretend to argue with such a one than to ask a blind man the color of our coat.

It is matter of fact that in republican hands the business of the county was not safe, but a new and dangerous element has been introduced into the politics of the County. 1500 men who can neither read nor write now exercise the elective franchise and as a rule they vote with the republican party. This fact swells the members of that party from 300 to 1800 voters, the former white, the latter colored. And though at this particular time the white element seems to control, it can scarcely be doubted that in a few years at furthest the colored element will assert its weight of numbers and claim and get a proper proportion at least of the offices, i. e. 5 to 1—it is only human nature. When in conversation with intelligent republicans we mention this circumstance, they say that it will not be so, but that if it should so turn out they would leave the colored men and that would at once put an end to the evil, for the white men are a majority. But it would not, oh! reader, because the moment the republican party gets in power here, that large class of selfish politicians, hangers on for office and timid men who cling to power, would attach itself to that party, and no matter how great the misrule it would require a long and desperate effort to recover the county from their possession. Witness South Carolina, witness Florida and Mississippi. The white republicans so argued there, and to day the colored element has complete control in those unhappy commonwealths. In the last Legislature of South Carolina, for instance, there were but 13 men who could even read and write, and paying no taxes and being therefore as a class profoundly indifferent to the amount of taxation, they have during the four years they have governed the State run up a state debt of upwards of $20,000,000, and this altogether distinct from and over and above the frightful load of debt they have imposed upon the various Counties.

That this will be our fate as a necessary consequence of republican success in our County and State, there is no reasonable room to doubt. The great misfortune of the situation is that from the circumstances of the past the colored voters are necessarily ignorant of and unfitted for the duties of government, and must so remain until another generation has grown up that has been educated in the school of liberty. We say it is the misfortune and not the fault of the negroes. If there were 1500 red headed men in the county who could neither read nor write and they were to act steadily together because they had red heads, the same argument would apply to them. The safety of the County would require us to go against red heads for office.

We have omitted all reference to the infatuated and ruinous course of policy of the republican party at Washington, and have confined ourselves strictly to our own county interests, and men ought to think twice before they vote for the republican ticket in November. Throwing aside all party prejudice and altogther apart from the national policy which will be determined next year, we urge upon intelligent and conscientious men who have really at heart the good of the county of Dorchester and State of Maryland, that upon this local issue they will vote with the Democratic party and help to save themselves and all of us from ruin. Otherwise, four years will reduce us to the tangentable condition of Louisiana and South Carolina. Think well of it, my friends, for your property, your liberty, every thing that American citizens hold dear, is involved in the issue.
