NEW-BEDFORD, October 7.

Arrived, ship Ann, Gwinn, Milford Haven, (Great-Britain) 53 days.

Ship Elizabeth, Delano, St. Petersburg, 66 days. Spoke no outward bound vessels. September 14, passed the wreck of a brig with yellow sides, black stern, stanchels in her waiste for bulworks, her foremast carried away just above the hounds, the remains painted black and yellow, and the spaces between very narrow; her name painted on the middle of her stern, but could not read it as it was mostly under water, it appeared to begin with an H or an M; part of a sail, apparently her mainsail, hung over her tafferail, her yards and spars to the rigging along side. She appeared to be a new vessel and could not have been long in that situation, as her paint work was quite fresh. It blowing very hard, and a rough sea, could not quite fetch her, nor attempt to board her with a boat.

October 14.

On Tuesday morning, as Mr. Christian Brown, bookseller, in Water-street, No. 70, was opening his house, he discovered that it had been broke into by the back window, and his papers and goods thrown about the room in great confusion; but nothing has yet been missed. Mr. Dumont's house, in Stone-street, Mr. Swartwout's in Pearl-street, and several others in the neighborhood, have also been entered in the same manner: but we do not learn that any extensive mischief has been done.

Extract of a letter dated St. Jago de Cuba, August 12th, 1803.

"The government of this country has afforded us protection. It has permitted our negroes to be landed, and has offered to sell to the French refugees 16 leagues of land in the country. Each family will receive about 450 acres for 100 dollars.—The country is watered by several rivers, and is situated in the bay of Ontanam, 20 leagues distant from hence."

Cleared, ship Industry, Ingraham, Embden; schooner Volunteer, Morris, Curraco.

The brig Eliza-Ann, and the brig Fame, both from this port, have arrived at Barbados.

Arrived since our last,

Schooner William, Douglass, 25 days from St. Johns, Newfoundland. Prizes taken and carried into St. Johns, La Caroline, de Bordeaux, captain Lavaux; Les Deux Amis, de Bordeaux, captain Cailleaux; Le Mercure, de St. Maloe, captain Laureut; Demerara Packet, captain Ryk, for Amsterdam, taken by the Apollo frigate, retaken by a St. Maloe privateer, and taken again by the Iris, and sent to St. Johns; two English vessels retaken by admiral Gambier's squadron, and several schooners and smaller vessels taken at St. Pierre, Miguellin.

At quarantine,

Schooner Industry, Mariner, 19 days from Guadaloupe. Left at Point-Petre, ship Enterprize, of New-York; at Basseterre, schooner Kity and Fanny. The brig Juno, Martin, sailed on the 7th of September, for Martinique, where he was stopped and had his register endorsed by a British frigate, and arrived at Bassaterre, on the 23d September. There had been an expedition fitted out at Guadaloupe, against Antigua, which the British got information of and sent up to Martinique for succor; during the absence of the men of war from Martinique, the French sent 15,000 barrels of flour up to the inhabitants of the island. An action had taken place between the king's sloop Duxbury, and a French privateer of only half her force, in which the English were taken, with the loss of 20 men killed and wounded.

Sloop Almira, 18 days from Richmond. October 7, off Cape-May, spoke the Driver sloop of war, captain Compton.

Ship George, Havens, of Portsmouth, N. H. 47 days from Bordeaux. September 19, lat. 41, long. 56, saw the wreck of a vessel apparently a sloop, with new rigging, split in two. September 25th, lat. 42, 10, long. 63, spoke a brig from Salem, for Madeira, out 3 days. October 2, lat. 40, 30, long. 68, spoke brig Dolphin, Daniel, from Lisbon, for Boston.

In February last, the British were fitting out an expedition to Port Bunder, on the Guzurat Coast, and had in contemplation, the subjection of all the Northern Mahratta powers, and at that time had a large force in that country. The expedition was conducted with the greatest secrecy; news from that quarter being entirely suppressed; printers being prohibited from publishing any thing from that coast in their papers. The conquest of all India worth having, is undoubtedly their ultimate intention.

The English had also sent a large force against the king of Candy, in the island of Ceylon, and daily expected accounts of the surrender of all his hereditary possessions. The war was occasioned by some of the nations under the protection of the English being plundered by subjects of the king of Candy, and he refused, or, at least neglected or evaded making ample restitution.

Extracts from Paris and Bordeaux papers, received at Salem by captain Mansfie, who arrived there on Saturday evening, in 38 days from Bordeaux.

VIENNA, August 7.

By the Gazettes of Brunn, we learn that the troops of Passwan Oglou have entered Wallachia, and have advanced near Buchareſt.

Friburg, August 9.

The general Landamman of Switzerland had written to his Prussian majesty on the 25th May, to induce him to take a part in obtaining a change in the government of Switzerland. On the 7th of this month he received a letter, by M. de Montmonn, president of the council of state at Neufchatel, containing the reply of his Prussian majesty, dated 22d July, and it was read in the diet on the 8th inst. His majesty replies most tenderly, and congratulates them upon the prospect of a definitive constitution, which shall secure their independence and preserve their tranquility. In quality of sovereign of Neufchatel, he promises to give his full concurrence in every measure for their peace and prosperity.

Hanover, August 9.

The result of the audience which our deputies had with the first consul at Brussels, is still a secret. But we have reason to believe that he has consented to reduce the army of Hanover to 12,000 men.

Stutgard, August 14.

We learn from Ratisbon, that the negociations for a new concordat of Germany, progress favorably, and that the principal articles are agreed upon. But we are informed that the propositions of the elector Archancellor are much more liberal than of the imperial minister. The catholic states are very impatient on this subject.

Bruxelles, August 18.

The number of volunteer workmen increase daily, and every encouragement is given them. At Grand, upon the Scheld, and upon Bruges canal, the works proceed with astonishing briskness. Before the end of the next month we shall have a very great number of gun boats, and flat-bottomed boats ready to launch. This example of patriotism and zeal, is imitated in all the departments of Belgium. Schimmelpennick, ambassador of Batavia, will spend a week in this city, before he goes on to Paris.

Constantinople, July 19.

The khams of Erivan, Sus, and their neighbors, have sent ambassadors to complain of the encroachments of the Russians. They represent that the Russians have continued them ever since they have held the Crimea. The Porte has recommended patience.

Petersburg, July 22.

Admiral Brunstern sailed yesterday, on his voyage round the world.

Copenhagen, August 16.

The difficulty between the government of Hanover and our own, respecting the passage of Stade, has been settled to our satisfaction.

The prince royal will have his headquarters at Seldswig.

Frankfort, August 14.

We learn from Brunn that the merchants who transport goods into Turkey are in the utmost consternation. A caravan from Germany which passed Semlin was plundered near Constantinople. Another at Orsowa. Belgrade is very much disturbed by the dispute between the Pacha and his son.
