The Bavarian forces retreated before these columns, towards Wurtzburg, in Franconia. When collected it is said they will exceed 40,000 men.

RUSSIAN WAR PREPARATIONS.

The Russian emperor, in his declaration to the court of Vienna, has avowed that he had sent two armies into Gallicia, of 50,000 men each. Those armies at the last dates, were making forced marches; and it was expected by the middle of Oct. would form a junction with the Austrians.

A third army was said to have assembled near Wilna (formerly Poland) and was to be commanded by Alexander I. in person. The Russian Imperial guards under the grand duke Constantine, (brother of the emperor) were marching through Lithuania, for the Austrian states.

The veteran general Kutusofe was at the head of one of the armies; prince Pancration, and baron Winzengerode, names of celebrity, accompany these troops. Gen. Michelson commanded another army.

Troops from the Kuban, Siberia, and Kiow, will form bodies of reserve. The regular troops of Russia exceed 500,000 men.

One of the Russian armies was at Brody, in Gallicia (about 300 miles from Vienna) the 20th August. The other was not far behind.

Thirty thousand Russians embarked at St. Petersburg, the 28th August, bound to Swedish Pomerania.

The Russian troops in the Ionian islands exceed 30,000, and were daily augmenting by recruits from the Black sea, which pass the channel of Constantinople without any hindrance. One division, lately arrived, was commanded by gen. Gerdue, a Frenchman; and a division of 12,000 ready for embarkation at Odessa and Sabastopel. It is a fact, that no less than 12,000 tons of transport shipping had been provided by Great-Britain, and were at the disposal of the Russian commander at Corfu. We have no doubt, the next news we have from this quarter, will be the transportation of these troops from the Seven Islands to Ancona, or perhaps Venice, or Trieste.

FRENCH WAR PREPARATIONS.

These preparations are on a large scale, and extend from Otranto, at the extremity of Italy, to Hanover, on the North of Germany.

The grand army, about the middle of September, was assembled on the banks of the Rhine, composed of 140,000 men, commanded by the Emperor Napoleon I. in person; assisted by his brother in law, Marshal prince Murat; Marshal Berthier, (minister of War) Louis Bonaparte, generals Oudinot and Marmont. The emperor was at Strasburgh the 16th September.

The army in Italy, is commanded by Marshal Massena, who arrived at Milan, his head quarters the 7th August. He has with him, of name, Marshal Jourdon, and general St. Cyr. This army, though stated at only 50,000 men, in M. Talleyrand's note was to be augmented to 120,000.

A southern army of observation was to assemble near the Pyrennees, under marshal Angereau.

The grand French army of reserve has three head quarters—Boulogne, Mayence and Strasburg. Marshal Brune commands at the first—senator marshal Lefebre, at the second—and senator marshal Kellerman, at the third.

Three flying camps of grenadiers will rendezvous at Rennes, Napoleon and Alexandria, under three brigadier-generals.

HAMBURG, September 17.

The Prussian minister, count Haugwitz, has been recalled from his retreat in Silesia and sent to Vienna, to settle, if possible, the differences between the two cabinets.

The Swiss have applied to the Austrian and French governments for permission to remain neutral; but their request has been rejected on both sides. The Austrians, however, are expected to be the first to take possession of that country.

By order of Bonaparte, the city of Frankfort has been obliged to demolish its fortifications.

The French have ordered away their artillery from Cuxhaven, and every day the distressed inhabitants of the banks of the Elbe expect their emancipation from the invaders.

MADRID, August 26.

The combined fleet which has put into Cadiz, will go to Carthagena, and take with it seven ships in that port. It will thence sail for Toulon, where there are still four or five sail of the line—So that the force of this fleet will be 50 ships of the line.

[The politeness of admiral Gravina will unquestionably induce him to say to Nelson, "By your leave, my lord!"]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.

Yesterday arrived ship Brutus, captain Craig, 50 days from Londonderry, with 45 passengers—furnishes nothing new.

By capt. Gardiner, we received our file of Bahama papers, from which we have the followtng:

Nassau, (N. P.) Nov. 5—Arrived the schooner George, ——, in 21 days from Glouchester, (Mass.)—The George has fish, beef and butter and touched here for a market.

FEDERAL GAZETTE.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 2.

The Harmony, Hall, hence, has arrived at Boston.

From Lloyd's Lists of Sept. 24 and 27, by the George, from Liverpool.

The London Packet, of Baltimore, is liberated, and sailed September 22. The Lady Nelson, from Virginia for Clyde, is sent into France by the Prince of Peace. At Tonningen, the Khrone de Haab, Meyer, from Baltimore. At Helvoet, Hunter, Chace, and Enterprize, Pratt, Boston; and Cordelia, Williston, Alexandria. At Varel, the Lovely-Ann, Gardner, Baltimore. At Gravesend, Merrimack, Batchelder, Virginia. At Lisbon, Antelope, Pitman, New-York. At Leghorn, Aurora, Hall, Boston. At Cherburg, South-Carolina, New-Orleans; and Martha, Petre, Virginia. At Varel, the Krone, of Bremen, from Charleston; United States, Baltimore. At Tonningen, America, Taber, N. York; Belvidere, Michaels, and Lovely Matilda, both from Philadelphia. In the Texel, Mercury, Rogers, N. York. At Deal, Sept. 26, Remittance, Law, N. York.

By a gentleman from Liverpool, says a Boston paper, we learn, that the English armament, consisting of 50,000 troops, was ready for sailing orders—their destination not yet publicly known. It was reported that Bonaparte having left in Paris a garrison of only two thousand, a formidable conspiracy had been already discovered, which had brought him back, at the head of ten thousand; where he was said to be still, when the latest accounts left Paris.—We can give this only as report.

The trial of BURFORD, suspected of having shot Mr. Peter, was to have taken place on Monday last, but has been put off, we learn, on account of the elopement of the principal evidence against him.

We have also heard that 1000 dollars of the money taken from Mr. Peter was found lying on the ground in one of the streets of Georgetown, a few days ago.

The brig Three Thomases, capt. N. Foster, from Boston to Cherbourg, with a load of sugar, &c. was captured by the private ship of war, Diana, carried into England, and after a detention of 12 days, liberated, on paying the claimant's costs. The supercargo of this vessel writes, under date of 30th Sept. "By late decisions in the high court of Admiralty of England, it would seem that the importation of goods from the enemies colonies into the United States, must be made for the purpose of introducing them into their national stock or general commerce; that where that purpose does not evidently appear, or, where an intention to export them to Europe does appear, then his landing goods, securing duties, advertising them for sale, & reshipping them in the same, or another vessel for Europe, are not sufficient to break the continuity of the voyage; which will be considered as a direct voyage from the Colony to the mother country; and therefore render the property liable to confiscation." "That the bona fide neutral purchaser of colonial produce in the United States, may export it to Europe.

FIRE!

Last evening about 8 o'clock, a fire was discovered in the cellar of a new three-story brick house in South, near Pratt-street, belonging to Mr. Jacob Myer, tobacconist. At the period the cellar was entered, it had not progressed to any considerable height, and the body of fire, among light stuff, was so small, that an attempt was made to extinguish it by throwing plank on it; but notwithstanding such exertion, it communicated to shavings hanging about the cellar, which with rapidity enveloped the whole of the interior of the building in flames. The adjoining buildings on both sides, and in the rear, took fire—the one above, sign of the Green Tree, a brick house, was much injured in the roof and upper story; a large frame on the other side and the brick buildings immediately connected in the rear of the whole, were completely destroyed—even the walls of the house in which it originated were demolished. Very providentially, the wind, which had been excessively boisterous the night before, and fresh through the day, had, a short period before the fire, subsided into a perfect calm; had it been otherwise, notwithstanding the alertness of SOME of our citizens, the injury must have been incalculably great.

It is a melancholy reflection which impels us to declare, that from every appearance there cannot remain a doubt, but that the circumstance can be fairly attributed to the design of some villainous incendiary. The house was not completely finished, and we learn had not been opened through the day. The cellar was open—and this, it appears, furnished the opportunity for executing the diabolical act.

The want of buckets, last evening, must have been so conspicuous to all, that we would hint the necessity of a speedy remedy, on the part of our constituted authority. And we would make an appeal to the same quarter, for the adoption of efficient measures, which, in their execution, would bring those to a sense of proper feeling, who shamefully stand inactive at fires, and seem to enjoy a savage satisfaction in beholding the destructive fury of devouring flames, whilst laying waste the property of their fellow-citizens. [American.]

Copy of a letter to the editor of the American, dated, Annapolis, Nov. 30, 1805.

The house resumed the consideration of the bill, entitled an act to provide for the trial of facts in the several counties of this state, and to alter change and abolish all such parts of the constitution and form of government which relate to the general court, and court of appeals. Upon the question being put shall the bill pass? the yeas and nays being required, appeared as follow:

We have been informed as a fact, (and we have no particular reason to doubt it) that THOMAS PAINE, having been visited by a second stroke of the palsy, has been deeply impressed with the heinousness of a life spent in reviling all religion, and in contemning the Author of Divine Revelation; and that he is in the daily practice of prayer and intercession for heavenly grace and reconciliation.
