"Courts neither have nor can have any other rule for their political conduct than the acts, documents and public treaties which found and establish the interests and respective obligations of powers towards each other. Now, by the treaty of Presburg, you engaged to cede Venetian Dalmatia to France, forty days after the signing of this treaty. His Russian imperial majesty, from respect to the emperor of Austria, not only waited till the time was elapsed, but placed an interval of several weeks between its termination and his hostilities against France in Dalmatia. Russia could attribute the delay of Austria only to two causes; either a change in the disposition of the treaty of Presburg, or a condescention towards France, who, not yet having time to collect all her forces, and take measures to defend the point menaced, had required this delay from Austria, in order to evade the attack of Russia, who was then ready: that as to the first of these suppositions, it could be of no avail, because neither Austria nor France had officially notified this change in the stipulations of the treaty, a necessary condition in the law of nations. And that as to the second, which he believed to be the true one, it became precisely a motive for the cabinet of St. Petersburg, to act with more vigor in order not to risk a delay which would have defeated its projects."

The same ambassador is said to have added, that if a passage through the hereditary states were granted to the French, it was expected that Russia would demand the same favor whenever her security might require it.

BOSTON, May 28.

Captain Hopkins, from Tarragona, arrived yesterday, spoke on the 5th April, in the Gut of Gibraltar, ship Eliza-Ann, Hutchinson, of Norfolk, from Messina, (Sicily,) and was informed, that the English troops held possession of Messina, and that the Russians had gone home in huff. This is mere bagatelle. We know the Russian troops have been ordered to quit Sicily, and return to the Ionian-Islands, to be ready to aid the Russian operations in Dalmatia.

NEW-YORK, May 29.

MIRANDA, again—Captain Wadsworth, of the schooner Mary, arrived yesterday in 23 days from Curracoa, informs, that gen. Miranda, in the Leander, accompanied by 2 schooners, left Aruba (where he stopt 12 days) on the 15th of April, for Bonaira; and that one of the schooners was afterwards taken on the Spanish coast after a severe engagement, in which the captain of the schooner and several of his crew were killed. This news was received at Curracoa on the 4th inst by a dispatch-boat from Porto Cavello.

Admiral Berkley, is appointed commander in-chief on the Halifax station, in the room of the late sir Andrew Mitchell.

Under the Strasburg head of the 13th April, is stated the marching of troops for Dalmatia without intermission

Marshal Ney was at Memmingen with a corps of 10,000 men. It was said, in case of necessity he was to march through Swabia and the Tyrol to Italy. Berthier with his army remained at Munich.

Stocks—at London, 29th April—Consols 60; reduced 59 1-4 3-8; omnium 2 1-8 1-4 premium.

May 30.

Capt. Holmes, of the ship Eunice from Surrinam, informs, that on the 10th inst. in the lat. 18, long. 61, he was boarded by 3 French 74 gun ships, and two frigates, full of men; they were under British colors and said they were last from Barbados. After robbing captain Holmes of a great quantity of small stores, they had the condescension to permit him to depart.

Capt. Ledet, from Guadaloupe, on the 12th of May, off St. Martins, was boarded by 4 French frigates, one of them the Hermoine. Capt. L. could not learn where they were from nor where bound.

By the arrivals yesterday from Havana, we learn that it was reported there that Miranda had landed at New-Barcelona, on the Spanish main.

CHARLESTON, May 21.

A few days previous to the sailing of the Julius Cœsar, capt. Hall, from Rotterdam, it was officially made known that his imperial majesty Napoleon, had determined to declar Holland an independent kingdom; and had appointed his brother Louis Bonaparte to the sovereignty, under the title of king of Belgia.—this intelligence was by no means pleasing to the Hollanders; who were thus deprived of the only consolation previously left them, that of being governed by one of their own countrymen

May 22.

Sloop Aberly, Hubbell, which had sailed some days since for Baltimore, returned yesterday on account of head winds.

GEORGETOWN, May 31.

The brig Franklin is preparing at the Navy Yard for a trip to Tunis. She is to take the suit of the Tunisian ambassador to Boston, where the ambassador himself will be taken on board in order to proceed to Tunis.

We were led into an error in stating a few days since, they intended to reside in this country, from a report current at that time.

The president is expected at Washington next Thursday.

A brig from Liverpool, a large schooner from Newburyport, and the sloop Harmony, Elwood, from Philadelphia, came up this morning.

FEDERAL GAZETTE.

MONDAY, JUNE 2.

The brig Betsy and Peggy, of this port, was spoken 11th May, in lat. 24, 57, long. 60, out ten days, bound to Trinidad.

Schooner Fortitude, Holmes, has arrived at New-York, in 7 days from this port.

Brig Sophia, ——, sailed from Leghorn, on the 22d March, for Baltimore; and at the same time were left, ready to sail, ships Cora, Jones, for Baltimore; Henrietta, Lee, of do. for Bremen.

The roots of another continental war, says the Boston Centinel, appear to be vegetating. The Russian troops have taken possession of Cattaro, in Dalmatia; a domain lately ceded by Austria to France; but which France had not possessed herself of. This movement had occasioned an interesting correspondence between the Russian and Austrian ministers, in which the former accuses the latter of conduct calculated to evade the attacks of Russia on the ceded territory. The consequence was, that the French troops, who were on their march home from Germany, had been ordered to halt; and others to hold themselves in readiness to march through Germany. Added to these, the best informed English editors say, it was in the contemplation of the new British ministry to try once more the effect of subsidizing the continental powers; and troops were getting in readiness for the Mediterranean.

The London Courier, of April 19, says: "The first flag of truce from France, bro't a dispatch from Bonaparte, containing general expressions of a desire to put an end to the calamities of war. An answer was returned by our cabinet, expressing a similar wish, but adding, that no negociation for peace could be entered into unless Russia was a party to it. This last stipulation, it is reported, was insisted upon by lord Grenville, contrary to the wishes of Mr. Fox.

It appears by the English papers, that Mr. Munroe, as pure a republican as he is, attends all the royal levees and drawing rooms, and kisses the soft hands of the British king and queen, as obsequiously as any royal minister whatever; and yet we do not hear one democratic denunciation on the subject.—Our very consistent democrats should recollect the vile epithets they bestowed on Messrs. Adams, Jay and King, on the same score. [Boston Centinel.]

A London paper of the 16th of April, contains the following interesting paragraph on the subject of Neutral Rights:

"Whatever real grievances America has to urge against us, will, we are persuaded, be redressed and atoned. There are points however, on which we cannot flatter her with much hopes of success. She cannot expect that the English government will so far concede to the clamors of her merchants, as to sacrifice the principles of our navigation laws to their pretentions of what they call "Neutral Rights."

CHERBOURG, May 1, 1806.

To the Editor of the Mercantile Advertiser.

"We have the pleasure of advising you, that in consequence of the solicitations of our house and some of our friends, government has just now given to this port the privilege of entreposing all permitted foreign goods in the private stores of the merchants, so that the duties thereon need not be paid before they are sold. This favor has been granted on the simple condition of renouncing the re-exporting, which is now the only difference existing between this port and the other regular entrepots of France. All American products are in demand, and rising; Guadaloupe and Martinique coffee, 62 to 63s. St. Domingo, 60s.; Upland cotton, 45s.; W. I. brown raw sugars, 95 at 97 10s."
