Question: My name was once Frances and I was never called Francis; I was born free born; after my marriage we went to live in [redacted] Street, this city, where we lived there about a year; then we moved to Tenfle St., where we lived about 14 years; then we moved to Patterson's Court, Chapel St., where we have lived for 30 years, and where soldier died; Nov. 13, 1887; I have not remarried since soldier's death; I have never owned any property save the house I now live in, worth about $300; I have no more interest in any income save the proceeds of my own labor. I had no children under 16 on date of soldier's death; I had four children by soldier, two of whom are dead and two still living, but both over age; neither of us had ever been married before.

I fully understand my rights and privileges and claim them.

I have no other witnesses except those who have already testified.

I fully understand your questions and my answers are correctly recorded.
