Le Grand - that at second I was told he told me he was ruptured - but I could not locate the rupture as I never saw it.
I never knew him. I swear a truss after the war but in 1892 when the G.A.R. were in Washington I met Henry there & he was still wearing a bandage like he wore in the army.
The bandage was right around his loins. There was nothing attached to the bandage he wore around his loins. He wore the bandage he told me because it helped his back.
Nelson Coon drinked with us but he is dead. I do not know of any other member of my band is but my brother.
The bandage before was made from flannel & covered with canvass.
There was no pad under the bandage - that I ever knew about.
I am not related nor interested in any way. My statement is correctly taken down
