BALTIMORE, SUNDAY, MARCH 23, 1913

EASTER

THE Light of the world was dimmed that day
To break in radiance brighter far;
The veil of the Temple was torn away
To loose forever that mystic bar
That held base man in his humble place
Too frail to gaze on his Father's face.

The Peace of the world was torn that day
With thunder crashes and bitter cries;
But the Prince had chosen this sacred way—
Love and Peace are the gifts of His agonies.
And the thorny pathway His feet have trod
Led straight from earth to the Throne of God.

The Hope of the world was crushed that day,
The King was hid in the grave alone!
But oh, the glory that swept away
The chill of death and the sealed stone!
Halleluiahs swell! Let the whole earth ring!
Our Lord has risen! Our Savior King!
