The Eskimo's Lamp.

[From Harper's Weekly.]

It is believed that the Eskimo lamp was invented before its possessors emigrated from their original home, which was probably further south and near the seacoast. But the form of the damp becomes more specialized the higher the latitude is. The lamps of southern Alaska have a wick edge of two inches, while those of Point Barrow and northern Greenland have wick edges of 17 to 36 inches. The lamp is employed for melting snow and ice to obtain drinking water, for cooking, lighting, warming, drying skins and in the arts. It is also a social factor and the sign of the family unit, each head of the family having his lamp.
