Political Items.

Ex-Congressman Van Horn Joins the Liberal Ranks.

The Hon. Burt Van Horn, of Genesee county, New York, has written a long letter to "The Batavia Spirit of the Times," in which he defines his position as follows:

One great object now is to purify our politics and political parties. To do this men have got to stand out independent, it may be, of party, when reform cannot be secured inside of party. I see no hope of a change for the better in the Republican party as it is now ruled, and to indorse or affiliate with some men who are now in office and shaping its course, I cannot do it. I have protested against many things for two years and more, and so have many others, but to no avail. I wear no man's collar, and ask no favors. My desire has always been during my public course to do my duty honestly and faithfully, and merit the approbation of my fellow-citizens. I can face my record, and am willing to stand the test of the closest scrutiny. Believing Horace Greeley to be an honest man, and desiring the best good of his country, I am willing to trust him, and shall give him my support. I have no words of bitterness against General Grant. His country owes him a debt of gratitude for his services during the war, and I have no desire to pluck one laurel from his brow. As a statesman, I cannot say as much.—He has no right to cast aside good and true men of the Republican party, whom States and the people honor, men who have struggled long years for its success and the success of its principles before he ever espoused our cause, and in doing so to take to his embrace men who, to say the most that can be said of them, are no better than those thus cast aside. In this way he has divided the party that has honored him in almost every State, and no other result could have been expected. The country has but little confidence in many of the men who surround the President, and to whom he seems to cling, and whose favor is all the position they have in the communities where they live. We must have a reform in these matters, and good men must unite to secure it.—Men who will sell their manhood for money or other consideration must be hurled from place and power, and rest forever in the disgrace which ought to attach to their crimes. We want bold, manly independence of thought and action from men who will consult the right and do their whole duty, whatever party or the multitude may say. Political proscription is a curse of our times, and we have all given too much favor to it.—I rejoice that a manly purpose is seizing upon the people, and they are at last acting upon their judgment, fearless of the dictation of party or party leaders. They are their own masters, and I rejoice in the prospect of a new and better time coming.

Plain Words of Admonition.—The New York Herald, which has, so far, in its political expressions, indicated a leaning towards Grant without being unfriendly to Greeley, takes occasion to give some very plain words of admonition to the former. In the course of its article the Herald says:

"But in the States south of the Potomac, under the baneful influence of the corrupt coterie which lives on the unclean drippings of political power, President Grant is allowing his Cabinet and office-holders to combine the solid voting negro power with the persuasiveness of federal bayonets to secure his re-election. Thus would he and the party into whose hands he has surrendered himself place the white population of the late Confederate States under the ignorant sway of the late slaves. For many years the republican party labored to effect emancipation. Now, when the lash and the manacle have lost their use, that same party seeks to place a chivalrous and cultivated race of white Americans under the unbridled rule of the blacks and mongrels, who until lately wore servile chains, and a set of thieving carpet-baggers who pander to them. Was there ever a more monstrous proposition? Such a position is utterly unworthy the Chief Magistrate of this great nation."

"Unfortunately for him and the country his natural modesty has allowed him to let the practical control of the administration drift into the hands of the party hacks whose only reliance for that power which they seek with greedy avidity is in the impure channels of party manipulation. They have run the governmental craft into dangerous whirlpools and among threatening rocks. On all sides, from their meddling and dishonest management, stand imminent perils to the ship of State. Our foreign relations are no way satisfactory; our finances, with a large debt and onerous taxation, are not altogether reassuring; and at home we see States under the rule of bayonets."

The Testimony of his own Household.—The Easton Argus says: Censure from a friend is very likely to be deserved; and it goes to the bone. Well for him who can afford to take it in good part. Then, it is like bitter herbs—disagreeable to take, but wholesome in its effects. It is medicine which Gen. Grant cannot endure. He doesn't take his bitters in that way. Yet some of the tersest and some of the most searching characterizations of Grant, as a magistrate and a man, have been uttered by those who were, or had been, his near friends. They know him well.

"He is not fit to govern this country," were Stanton's dying words.

"Grant has no more capability than a horse," says fighting Joe Hooker.

"He is a bad man and unfit for the Presidential office," says Senator Sumner.

"There are sixteen weighty reasons why Grant should never be President," wrote Colfax in 1868.

"He has no more soul that a dog," said Ben Butler, less than a year ago.

"He is not controlled by constitutional law, but by political rings," said Trumbull.

"I can have no more to do with such a man" says Alexander T. Stewart.

"His San Domingo business stamps him as a first-class conspirator," says Governor Palmer.

"He is a man without sufficient knowledge to preside over a caucus," said Logan in 1868.

"He is making money out of his position, and that's all he cares about it," said Senator Carpenter to a Herald correspondent.

Pickings and Stealings.—Dishonesty among public officials has been exceedingly prevalent during the Grant administration. In the Internal Revenue Bureau at Washington there are defalcations to the amount of $1,302,958, and that sum has been disposed of by twenty-two officials in sums of $200,000 down. In the Pension Bureau four officials, two in New York city and two in Philadelphia, have abstracted $278,000, while other pension agents have been charged with misappropriating $640,300 to other than Government purposes. Thirty-eight post-office officials have made away with $242,000, while nine subordinates of the Treasury Department are accused with appropriating to their own use and devoting to personal speculations $90,500. Some of these gentlemen were the confidential clerks under Spinner, with whom he left the management of his department when he went off to Europe on the business of the syndicate. One hundred and twenty-one thousand dollars have disappeared in the hands of agents of the Department of Justice, and when the accounts for North Carolina are made up this sum will be largely increased by parties there using this fund to help carry the State election during the present week. Custom-house officials have absorbed $147,000, which the people had paid in under the impression that it would go to the United States Treasury, and be used to redeem the debt. The defaulting paymasters and clerks in the Navy Department have swollen the amount of embezzlement to the tune of $476,853. The steal in the French arms sales, if the amount could be correctly ascertained, would add still another large sum to these amounts, which already reach nearly $4,000,000.

Wholesale Thieving.—Referring to a list of nearly one hundred defaulters, which it publishes, the New York Tribune says: The blame falls properly on an Administration so loose that it did not prevent this enormous thievery at the rate of a million a year, and so careless or so corrupt that it still leaves numbers of the criminals unwhipt of justice. The total amount lost by peculation and defalcation for the Presidential term is put down at $3,194,247.

THE EUREKA FANNING MILL.

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY!

Farmers Look to Your Interest!

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public.

It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras—EUREKA!—signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention:

It combines ECONOMY, UTILITY and PRACTICABILITY!

THE "EUREKA" MILL

Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented.

IT IS THE ONLY MILL

that will successfully remove from wheat all such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of: for nearly one quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL,
Chestertown, Maryland,

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of Noland & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee that they will be put up in the best manner. je17-tf.

THE GOOD WIFE.

It is just as you say, neighbor Jones,
A treasure. Indeed, is my wife,
Such a woman for bustle and work,
I have never found in my life.
She makes the best bread in our Town,
Her pies are a perfect delight;
Her coffee a rich, golden brown;
Her cakes and her puddings just right.
She uses the "EXCELSIOR COOK;"
And with coal, with coke or with wood,
My breakfast and dinner will cook;
I am sure of each meal being good.
