there remains an excess of two hundred and eighty three dollars and fifty-nine cents—which sum was advanced by the Treasurer. Of the stock issued by the Executive, in payment for the State's Warehouse, there has been redeemed during the year which ended on the 1st December 1830, the sum of sixteen thousand five hundred dollars of this fund to be redeemed. This balance added to the stock issued by the Treasurer for the loan aforsaid, makes the sum of eighty six thousand dollars, to be redeemed.

The annual returns of the militia &c. contained in the report from the adjutant General, are now laid before you. In regard to the militia, we are convinced of the propriety of adopting one of two measures: either to enforce a rigid observance of the laws relating to the training and parades; or to dispense all militia parades entirely. And in the present situation of the country, we express a preference for the latter. The military parades as now conducted so far from rendering the militia more expert in military tactics, do have a tendency, while they draw persons from their useful avocation, often to engage in scenes of dissipation. All who have witnessed militia musters in the country, must be satisfied of their perfect inutility, and of their injurious effects upon the morals of the people. We would not be understood as recommending, by any means, that a strict organization of the militia should not be required; on the contrary, we would say, that severe penalties should be imposed for neglect in making a regular annual enrollment, to be reported at every session of the Legislature. By this course, whenever either of the cases prescribed by the constitution for calling out the militia shall occur, they will be ready to be trained for service, without being subjected to attend militia meetings, as under the present system where they are neither improved in discipline nor benefitted in morals.

The report of the Treasurer which will be made to the Legislature, presents the finances of the Sate to be in far better condition than was anticipated. Upon an examination of this interesting document, it will appear, that on the 1st December, 1830, there was in the Treasury the sum of fifty four thousand one hundred and six dollars and eighty eight cents. After deducting appropriations unexpended and chargable to that fund, the balance at the end of the fiscal year, was twenty nine thousand eight hundred and twenty-eight dollars and sixty four cents. The Legislature will at once perceive, that without the imposition of additional burthens upon the people, the State has been enabled to perform its various egagements support its necessary expense, and can now present the gratifying result.

A circular from the board of trustees of the "Rhode Island Historical Society" has just been received, and we comply with the request therein contained, to call your attention to the consideration of the plan proposed for obtaining authentic information of the early history of our country. A number of documents illustrating the transactions of that period are said to be deposited in the public archives of Great Britain, to which access could be easily obtained. And the object of the communication is to urge the delegation in Congress from each State, to use their efforts to procure the passage of a law to provide for the copying of these documents.

A memorial to Congress from the surviving officers of the Revolutionary Army has been forwarded from New York and is now placed before you It is desired that the legislature should recommend to their Senators and Representatives in Congress, the adoption of some measures of relief for those officers and soldiers who served between the years 1775 and the 1st day of October 1780, and who have never received compensation either in land or money. The relief solicited is for that class of officers and soldiers who served but few years after the commencement of hostilities & were compelled to resign from causes set forth in the memorial.

Other states have found it to their interest to foster their colleges, furnishing all the advantages for complete education, & we regret to say in Maryland the subject has not excited that lively interest which we had a right to expect from the intelligence of her citizens. The legislature has endowed these institutions with a liberality commensurate with the means, it must therefore be owing to the want of individual exertion that they have not flourished in an equal degree with others So long as superior advantages are known to be presented in foreign schools the young men from every section of the country, will necessarily be drawn to them. And the only way to check this fondness for sending them from the state for education is to make our own colleges equal to those abroad.—The additional influence & weight of character which would consequently be given to the State, the great saving of expence to all, and the facility which would be afforded to those whose fortunes would not allow them to seek an education elsewhere without enumerating other considerations, should induce our citizens to unite in their exertions to support a college which would afford all the benefits to be obtained from one in any other state.

Whilst we felicitate ourselves upon the blessings we enjoy under our excellent structure of government and upon the rapid advancement of our country, let us not be unmindful of the wonderful triumph of liberty lately effected in France. Every true Republican, every friend of political freedom must rejoice at this event: and we trust, the gallant struggle of this noble nation, will prove to all others, that tyranny & oppression will ever be successfully resisted by a people determined to be free.

THOMAS KING CARROLL.

A letter from Milledgeville, of 22d Dec. mentions that the Governor of Georgia had been that day served with an injunction from the Chief Justice of the United States, to stay the execution of Tassells a Cherokee Indian who had been tried and convicted under the law and by a Court of the State of Georgia, for the murder of a Cherokee, in the Cherokee territory, and sentenced to be hung on the 24th of December.

Times & Advertiser,

CENTREVILLE: (E. S.) MD. JANUARY 15.

☞ We got the Governor's Message after our last publication was made; consequently we could not publish it until today.

LEGISLATURE.—Nothing of interest has as yet transpired in the Legislature; save that of which we have given an account. We shall keep our readers regularly apprised of all the business of a general nature transacted there.

A Bill has been reported in the House, to abolish Militia parades; and another to remove the Court of Appeals from Annapolis to Baltimore. The House has also passed a Bill proposing a new mode of electing the Senate. Each county is to have one Senator, as well also the cities of Baltimore and Annapolis. It is hard to tell what will be the fate of this Bill in the Senate.

Almost every paper we receive from the Seat of Government, contains a list of "appointments by the President." Near a moiety of the appointed, fill the place of some poor proscribed friend of the last Administration.

☞ Gen. DUFF GREEN, it is said, is about to be rewarded with the appointment of Marshall of the District of Columbia!

☞ CONGRESS.—The business of Congress seems to drag along very slowly. Judge Peck, Mr. Monroe, and a few local bills, are still before it. Amongst its proceedings, we observe petitions from Pennsylvania, against the removal of the Indians.—Also instructions to the Senators and Representatives of Georgia, to oppose all Bills for Internal Improvement. An attempt in the house to disturb the Tariff, was put down by a vote of 111, to 73.

☞ We regret to learn, that Mr. Vachael Downes, living near Hall's X Roads, in this county, had his meat house and stable burnt, on Saturday last. His loss is estimated at $250.

☞ The war spoken of in Europe, seems less probable than at our last date.

NULLIFICATION—& REBELLION. The Legislature of Georgia has adopted a string of resolutions directing resistance to be made to the execution of the injunction of the Supreme Court of the United states, in the case of Tassels, the Cherokee Indian—and ordering his execution in despite of the injunction.

Will President Jackson tamely submit to this high handed measure? If he does we would not give a fig for our Union.

[Hagerstown Torch

The Indian, Tassels, has been executed—the Sheriff was served with no writ for staying the execution.

We join our tears and sympathies with those of the relatives of Dr. Emory, on account of his decease. He was the personal friend, and dear associate of the Editor of this paper. We indeed regret his loss as that of a brother; we regarded him as a young gentleman of rare and inestimable traits of character—He had been our nurse in the hour of gloom and sickness—and when others stood aloof, he came forward, administered a cordial to our fainting spirits, and assuaged our feverish pain. We pay this last tribute of love to his memory, in holy sadness, and we hope, (and are encouraged in our belief, by those who, in the trying hour, heard him express his reliance on Jesus,) that his resurrection will be with that of the just men made perfect.

DEATHS:

DEATH has again visited us, and summoned hence, another victim to its insatiate thirst! But a few days since, in the enjoyment of life, health, and domestic happiness, Dr. THOMAS H. EMORY, was among us. And where is he now? In eternity! His cheering smiles and affectionate attentions, no longer chase from the bosom of his devoted wife, the cares and ills with which this life abounds. His parental affections no longer shield his innocent babe, from the tumult and storms of this perplexing world, and cheer its infantile hours with fond and pleasing attentions. No, at one fell swoop, that dreaded monster, DEATH, deprived a wife of her husband, a child of its father, relatives of a friend, and the community of a member, whom time nor circumstance can e'er replace. To those who were acquainted with the deceased, eulogy is unnecessary: As a virtuous, upright man, and most estimable citizen, he was known to all, and as a professional character, his rapid advancement, in the face of those obstacles which necessarily present themselves to a young practitioner, gave evidence of his own ability, and the extensive confidence of the public.

But few men enjoy the opinion in society, sustained by Dr. Emory. In looking around, through the vast concourse of his relatives and friends, we see no countenance denoting indifference; all appear sad, gloomy, and feelingly alive to their irreparable loss; and on the features of the public is stamped, the painful conviction, that some evil has been felt, some general calamity sustained. Although the deceased was not a professor of Religion, the moral rectitude of his deportment, uniform and consistent views of christianity, strict and unvarying attention to religious duties, justify, we think, the belief, that he enjoyed a sufficient portion of the spirit of his Redeemer, to ensure him a station at the right hand of his Maker, in the mansions of eternal bliss. And oh, how many of us can look with complacency at the approach of Death, and flatter ourselves that the same Redeeming Spirit will attend us? Reader reflect; and let this sudden deprivation impress upon your mind, the mortality of your own existence, and the omnipotence of an all-wise GOD. S. C. W.

Most Horrid Murder!

From a Frederick County Paper.

On Wednesday night, the 29th December, Mr. Newey who lived in Harbaugh's Valley, in this county, was, murdered, together with his Wife, two Children, Father-in law and an Apprentice—the house afterwards was set on fire.

From the statement of Mr. Fout, who lived about 400 yards from where the act was committed, who discovered the flames and repaired to the place, it appears that Mr. Newey was lying on the floor, nearly consumed with his rifle by his side; Mrs. Newey, partly consumed, with stabs in several places; the two children partly consumed, with the bed-clothes under them wet with their blood: and the old man and the boy both consumed—Appearances seemed to indicate that the wife, sleeping in front, was first stabbed; that the husband on reaching for his rifle, was prostrated by a blow with an axe and killed: that the two children were killed in bed; that the father-in-law, who, with the lad, slept in a chamber above, on coming down to ascertain the noise, was killed as he entered the room; and that the boy, after coming down, had nearly succeeded in making way to the door, which opened to the road, when he was struck down.

It appears suspicion has been laid on one Markley, as the perpetrator of the horrid act, who was lately released from the Penitentiary, and who made threats against the deceased. It is hoped, that the guilty may not escape unpunished.

Markley was the nephew of Mr. Newey, and had been imprisoned for stealing money from Mr. N.
