...alien and sedition laws, and a reso-

...opposed to the resolutions, to send them
...a request to have them laid before other
...slative bodies. He now not only declines
...obligation of the late Viginia, but refuses
...obey himself his own precedent in regard
...forwarding them as Governor. We quote
...azewell's precedent in 1798 against his late
...oceeding. The cases are identical, as will
...e seen from the following parallel cut from
...e Richmond Enquirer:

From the resolutions of John Taylor, of Caroline, which Governor Tazewell voted for on the 21st of December, 1798, in the House of Delegates, and which passed the Senate the 24th of the same month, to wit:

"That the Governor be desired to transmit a copy of the foregoing resolutions to the Executive authority of each of the other States, with a request that the same may be communicated to the Legislature thereof.

"And that a copy be furnished to each of the Senators and Representatives representing this State, in the Congress of the United States."

From the expunging resolutions, passed the 20th of February, 1836, to wit:

"Resolver, That the Governor of the Commonwealth be requested to transmit the foregoing resolutions to each of the Senators from Virginia, in the Congress of the United States, with a request that they lay the same before the Senate."

Mr. Leigh's case is still worse than Governor Tazewell's. The former not only drew up the Virginia report, establishing the doctrine of the right of instruction, but since he reached the Senate, has declared that he would vote for the Bank of the United States, although he believed it unconstitutional, if instructed, or if he obtained what he considered "tantamount to instructions."

So exceedingly obligatory did he hold the will of his constituents, that he looked to it as a law above the constitution, which he would carry into effect even upon implication, and against the express letter of the constitution!!

We omitted on Saturday noticing a scene which took place in the Chancellor's Office at Annapolis a day or two ago, in substance as follows:

Chancellor—crier, keep order in the office. The crier, said nothing, looking at Mr. Merrick and Mr. V. Maxey in conversation at the time.

C. Put those persons out. The crier did not move, but looked first at the Chancellor, and then at the gentleman.

The gentleman now left the office, and Mr. Merrick proceeded to take his seat in the House of Delegates:—he rose and said, I have been on a visit to a professional scoundrel—then detailing what took place at the office, moved the abolishing of the chancery office, which was sustained by a large majority.

The famous steamboat Champion, which plied between Baltimore and Norfolk last summer, is now on the route between Mobile and New Orleans, and is advertised to run through in day light. On her first trip from Mobile, she was expected to carry 100 passengers "on a visit" to New Orleans.

THE SALMAGUNDI AND NEWS OF THE DAY.

EMBELLISHED WITH A MULTITUDE OF

COMIC ENGRAVINGS.

A...w...and ...
...ical, of a novel character, ...ies of above appellation, will be com...the beginning of January, 1836 —...will furnish its patrons with the leading features of the news of the day, its principal objects will be to serve up a humorous compilation of the numerous lively and pungent sallies which are daily floating along the tide of Literature, and which, for the want of a proper channel for their preservation, are positively lost to the reading world. Original wits and humorists of our time will here have a medium devoted to the faithful record of the scintillations of their genius. It is not necessary to detail the many attractions which this journal will posess, as the publisher will furnish a specimen number to every person who desire it—(those out of the city will forward their orders, postage paid)—☞ and he pledges himself that no exertions on his part shall be wanting to make each succeding number superior in every respect to the preceding ones.

THE SALMAGUNDI will be printed on large imperial paper, equal in size and quality to that which is at present used for the Gentleman's Vade Mecum. It is calculated that more...

will be furnished to the patrons of this Journal in the year—they, in addition to an extensive and choice selection of Satire, Criticism, Humor and Wit, to be circulated through its columns, will form a Literary Banquet of a superior and attractive order; and the publisher relies with perfect confidence on the liberality of the American public, and the spirit and tact with which this expensive undertaking will be prosecuted, to bear him successfully and profitably along with it.

The terms of the Salmagundi will be TWO DOLLARS per annum, payably invariably in advance. No paper will be furnished unless this stipulation is strictly adhered to.

☞ Clubs of three will be supplied with the paper for one year, by forwarding a five dollar note, postage paid. Clubs of seven will be supplied for the same term by forwarding a ten dollar note. ☞ The papers that are sent out of the city will be carefully packed in strong envelopes, to prevent their rubbing in the mail.

☞ THE SALMAGUNDI will be published on alternate weeks—or if it would be impossible to procure the numerous embellishments which each number will contain—and the general interest it will need must be enhanced by this arrangement.

☞ All orders must come ...age paid.

☞ Address, CHARLES ALEXANDER, Athenian Building, Franklin Place, Philadelphia.

...able subscription may be obtained, we request those who propose to patronise the work, to transmit by mail at once to the publisher.—Small notes of solvent banks of the different States, taken at par.

 New subscribers, by enclosing a five dollar note, can be supplied with the Gentleman's Vade Mecum from the commencement of the present volume, and also the Modern Acting Drama for one year—or instead of the latter, they may order the Salmagundi, and News of the Day—the three are entirely distinct works, their contents forming no part of each other.

 A five dollar note will pay for two copies of the Vade Mecum for one year—or two copies of the Modern Acting Drama—or three copies of Salmagundi, for the same period.

in his line of business, which added to his former stock, renders his assortment general and complete, all of which will be manufactured at the shortest notice and on the most pleasing terms. The subscriber flatters himself from his experience in his line of business, and his personal attention to the same, that he will be able to give general satisfaction to those who may see proper to give him a trial. He has also on hand

SHOES.

Wear shoes so large that the feet and toes have room to move, and easily expand themselves; for tight shoes are a crippling, dangerous, and dreadful fashion. They injure and ruin the feet, and prevent the free circulation of the blood, forcing it too much up into the head, causing sick head-ache, and other bodily afflictions which few people know, or think of.

Indeed 'tis difficult to say which is the greater injury to both—mind and body—

TIGHT-SHOES OR TIGHT-CORSETTS,

Both are great curses—the one ½ cripples—and the other, ½ kills—the wearer.

SENTIMENT.

The Philanthropist, Doctor Green, ...ject of Rettingsdorff, in the dominions ... North America.

The man whose mind (moved by divine light) first conceived a remedy for intemperance.

Whose writings first enlightened America on the subject, and awoke into life our European Temperance Societies.

Let the christan hand (Christliche hande) be extended to this man throughout Christendom.

Rev. Von Shorenstein,
President.

The translator will consider it necessary to explain and state, that Rettingsdroff, in the European German language, signifies Reading.

'Tis a city, situated on the river Schuylkill, in Pennsylvania, where the Doctor resides who is the originator of what is termed the "Cold Water System," as a remedy for intemperance: and which system gave rise to the Temperance Societies throughout the world.

WAS committed to the Harford county jail on the 10th February as a runaway, a negro man who calls himself JEREBOAM ARNOL, he is of a very light complexion, appears to be about 50 years of age and is a little gray, he stands full five feet 11 inches and has a robust and hearty appearance; upon the outer corner of his right eye there is a small scar, which appears to be occasioned by a burn—he refuses to give any information respecting himself except the assertion that he was born free. He had on when committed a pair of pale yellow linsey pantaloons and short coat of the same; a wool hat and a pair of long boots considerably worn.
