May 14th

On the 30th April last, the body of a man was taken up in Magothy River, and buried on the land were Mr. John Hilton resides. He had on a blue close bodied coat, a great-coat either green or brown; two Marseilles waistcoats, black and white spots; grey casimet pantalets; black stockings, and black stock. Supposed to be about six feet high; some scraps of paper found in the pockets; the names of Wilson, Williams, and Mills, was all that could be read. Had thirty dollars in bank notes, and two and a half in silver. It is supposed to be one of the persons drowned last fall when Mr. John Pace's schooner sunk off Poplar Island.

☞ The editors of the papers at Easton and Centreville are requested to publish this for the information of the relatives.—Annapolis Gazette.

DEATH OF THE GOVERNOR OF DELAWARE.—CAPT. P. BENNETT, Governor of the State of Delaware, died on Saturday evening last, at his residence in Wilmington. He was 73 years of age. The duties of the office will devolve upon CHARLES POLK, speaker of the Senate and formerly Governor of the State.

Boston, April 25.

Suicide.—Mr. Nathaniel Brasier, a respectable and industrious man, a carpenter by trade, committed suicide in his shop in Pleasant St., yesterday by hanging himself. A paper was found in his pocket on which the following was written:—

"I have tried the best I can for a living for eight years, and every thing goes against me and sometimes I feel lost.—Post.

DANCING.

There are some persons in this world, though we are glad to say they are not as "plenty as black berries," who denounce the amusement of dancing, with as much bitterness as if it was a species of immorality forbidden by the scriptures. It is singular that no one, has discovered any immorality in skating, jumping the rope or running for exercise, but as the age becomes more refined, and bigotry more fashionable, we shall probably have moral laws passed prohibiting these amusements. Is there any immorality in a man's jumping over a fence twenty times, and as Sawney said, "back again" twenty more times—we presume not, take away the fence then, and let the man jump as much as before,—is this wicked? Are the muscles unprincipled and the feet immoral? No. But then the fiddle,—we mean violin—what can be said for that? There is nothing so horrible in the fine flowing mane of a noble steed, but only pluck the hairs from that mane, and weave them into strings for the fiddle—(we like that name best)—how, and "horrible to relate" they become instruments of evil, and doers of deeds of darkness! The case then appears to stand thus—young people may hop, skip, jump, or run, without music, and no harm is done—but if they do this gracefully, and keep time with the fiddle, they are guilty, as Mawworm would say of A-ho-mi-nation! But when the fair and the young assemble, in the cheerfulness of innocence, and "mix in the mazy dance" which gives elasticity to the form, and rosy health to the cheeks, they offend against the law of immorality! This is the inference to be drawn, for if jumping and hopping be wicked in themselves, certainly frogs and grass hoppers are in a dreadful way—and they must, according to that doctrine be very immoral animals, and should be banished from the country for setting such wicked examples!—N. C. Gazette.
