"BARNEY LEAVE THE GIRLS ALONE!"

Mister Barney Parsons was sentenced on the 4th inst. by the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia, to pay a fine of five dollars for taking summary satisfaction on the celebrated Mrs. Ann Royal, of black book notoriety. Mrs. Royal had grievously offended Mr. Barney it appears by sundry caustic applications of the pen editorial; and Barney being "half seas over" and not having the fear of the law before his eyes, gallantly appplied to the shoulders of the fair Ann a weapon, of pliant body and of colour blue, denominated a cowhide! He was recommended to the mercy of the Court!

A case of La Grippe, or Catarrhal Influenza, is reported to have occurred in New Orleans. This disease was first noticed as an epidemic, in the fourteenth century in Italy, since which period it has been making great ravages in all Europe, hurrying off its victims in frightful numbers, and depopulating whole towns in its march of death. The Germans have called it Blityhatarr (Catarrhal Lightening) indicative of its rapid attacks. It is called Influenza, meaning the influence of the elements.

The Federal Legislature of Massachusetts has declared, by an almost unanimous vote, that Congress has the right to abolish Slavery in the District of Columbia. The New York Mercantile says, that this vote—no matter as to the merits in the abstract—will be like casting another torch into the slave States, and may be regarded as the first political movement of those heedless theorists and visionary philanthropists who would not scruple to whelm the nation in ruin, to attain a single point of questionable humanity.

The Baltimore Gazette of the 13th says the "weather is so fine and business so lively and general thoughout our city that every body looks cheerful, and the good old times seem to have returned in Baltimore. We have reasons therefore to congratulate our fellow citizens that while gloom and embarrassment paralize the course of business in the great emporium of our country, and every thing seems to be at a stand or retrograding our course is onward with cheering prospects in view.

RUNNING IN DEBT.—The following remarks upon this subject are extracted from D'Israel's new work—"Henrietta Temple" —"If youth but knew the [illegible] they are entailing on themselves [illegible] they accept a pecuni[illegible] are not entitled, ho[illegible] clasp their hands [illegible] which they we[illegible] prolific mother of [illegible] the course of life i[illegible] so many unhappy m[illegible] tuted pens, and venal [illegible] small beginning, but [illegible] strength. When we m[illegible] make our master, who haunts [illegible] and shakes his whip of scorpions [illegible] our sight. The slave hath no overseer severe.—Faustus when he signed the bond with blood, did not secure a doom so terrific."

Messrs. Wise and Peyton consumed nine hours of the last day of the late session of Congress, in making violent personally abusive speeches against the late President, his administration, the Secretary of the Treasury, and Mr Whitney! They had consumed half of the session in unseemly brawls, to make it appear that the Treasury had an official agent to transact its business with the deposite banks, and in drawing horrible pictures of the corruptions of the supposed agency. When it was proved that their alarms were fictitious, and the Treasury had no such agency, they moved to have one made, and harangued the House accordingly from nine o'clock in the evening until daylight in the morning. More than two hundred bills matured for the last reading and passage were waiting for action, while these flaming whigs were wasting the last hours of the session in passionate party invectives. They will, too, doubtless go home, and complain that Congress has done nothing. Mobile Commercial Register.

RESULT OF THE INVESTIGATION OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED ON MOTION OF THE FOOLISH MR WISE.—The following resolution of the committee appointed on motion of Mr. Wise contains the whole development of the great abuses which Wise and Peyton pledged, themselves to expose, if a committee should be allowed them. The expense to the nation for this important discovery was ONLY BETWEEN fifty and one hundred thousand dollars. Yet it is such men as Wise and Peyton, that the Whigs presses, delight to honour.

Resolved, That so far as has come to the knowledge of the committee from the results of this investigation, the condition of the various Executive Departments is prosperous, and that they have been conducted with ability and integrity, that the President aimed to enforce, in all of them a vigilant and faithful discharge of the public business: and that there is no just cause of complaint from any quarter at the manner in which they have fulfilled the object, of their creation."

The crops—The Cumberland (Md) Civilian states that the prospect in that region of an average Wheat crop is somewhat promising. Though not far advanced for the season, the wheat in general is said to have such an appearance as to promise a tolerably good yield.

—o—

PADDY AT SEA.—An Irishman; while on his passage to 'this country,' in search of harvest-work; was observed to walk up and down the deck at a brisk pace, occasionally giving a look at the Captain whenever he came in sight as if to attract his observation. On being asked by the steward for his passage-money when nearing the port of destination, Pat replied, 'Arth, honey, be easy now, sure the master won't do such a dirty trick as charge a poor shairer who has walked the whole passage"

MORMONISM—ITS HISTORY.

A very interesting article has lately come from the pen of a correspondent of Col. Stone, by which it appears that the origin of Mormonism was from an individual named Solomon Spalding, who wrote what is called the Mormon Bible. Spalding was a native of Ashford (Con.) and was early distinguished above his school fellows. He received a liberal education—was educated for the ministry, ordained, and preached for three years, but, for some cause unknown, abandoned the ministry, and finaly settled at Cherry Valley, New York Failing in trade, he removed to Cannoaut, Ohio, built a forge, again failed, was received to great poverty, and finaly endeavoured, to turn his education to account, by writing a historical novel, which is the Manuscript Found," and upon which Mormonism has built its established faithful in a new revelation.

After the famous battle of Lissa, in which Frederick the Great, with 30.000 men, defeated the Austrian army of 90,000 men, he unexpectedly rode on to the castle of Lissa, a small village on the approach to Breslau, which still remained in the hands of the Austrians A party of Austrian officers were not a little surprised when their conquerer entered the room where they were assembled, modestly inquiring, "Have you any room for me here, gentlemen",

BAD MEMORY.—A village pedagogue, in despair with a stupid boy, pointed at the letter A, and asked him if he knew it. "Yes, sir." "Well; what is it?" "I know hims very well by sight, but rot me if I can remember his name."
