The Kent News.

SATURDAY - - - - JULY 19, 1873.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NOSES AND MOUTHS.

The nose is comparatively a passive feature of the face. Unlike the eyes and mouth, there is little or no movement to indicate expression; occasionally in some the nostrils will dilate, but this only occurs when the nostrils are large. Indeed, some noses scarcely appear to have a connection with the face; they seem stuck-on appendages, whose only use is their convenience for pulling. Great snuffers often acquire this immobility of nose though the snuffing would act somewhat as a guard against the pulling. Poets have sung and novelists have written of many kinds of noses, but it remained for the Poet-Laureate to somewhat ennoble the hitherto much abused "snub," under the more euphonious title of "tip-tilted." We have known many charmingly attractive girls with snub-noses—and, indeed, have always had a penchant for them, for we have found the owners to be possessed of amiability, humor, drollery, and common sense. The snub nose, when in conjunction with other good features, will indicate a person who will frequently rise higher in the world than those with larger noses, who lack good humor and common sense. A perfect nose, we are told, should be as long as the forehead is high, and have a gentle indent at the top, between the upper eye-lids. The front should be level from the forehead to the tip, which latter should be neither hard nor soft. It should be at least half an inch broad between the eyes. The bottom of the nose should not be more than one-third of its length. The nostrils above should be pointed, round below, gently curved, and, seen sideways, be divided into two equal parts by the upper lip. As to the size of the nose, the medium is better; but a very large nose is preferable to a very small one—the large nose seldom sinking below mediocrity. The hooked nose is a very unpleasant one to look at. It is also called aquiline, perfectly arched from the forehead to the tip, denoting great energy, acuteness, craft, unscrupulousness and ambition. A nose arched near the forehead denotes great power of command and energy. This is the nose of Cæsar, of the Conqueror, and of the late Duke of Wellington. This nose must not be confounded with the hooked nose mentioned above. The famous Grecian nose, which forms an almost straight line with the forehead, has been much lauded; but such noses are in women indicative of coldness and affectation, and when owned by a man, a shallow mind. Small noses denote comparative weakness of mind and character, though otherwise such persons may be highly estimable. The tips of such noses turned up, denote busy, bustling activity, great self-conceit, cool assurance and great talkativeness. Look for such noses in law clerks, pot-house politicians, town councillors and beadles, or other jacks-in-office. A nose with a broad bridge, whether level or arched, always indicate great powers. Large breathing nostrils are certain signs of mental power and energy; small unmoving nostrils are, on the other hand, certain signs of little mind, and want of energy and enterprise.

Eating Without an Appetite.

It is wrong to eat without an appetite, for it shows there is no gastric juice in the stomic, and that nature does not need food, and not needing it, there being no fluid to receive and act upon it, it remains there only to putrify, the very thought of which should be sufficient to deter any man from eating without an appetite for the remainder of his life. If a tonic is taken to whet the appetite it is a mistaken course, for its only result is to cause one to eat more, when already an amount has been eaten beyond what the gastric juice is able to prepare.

The object to be obtained is a larger supply of gastric juice, not a larger supply of food; and whatever fails to have any efficiency toward the cure of dyspeptic diseases. The formation of gastric juice is directly proportioned to the wear and tear of the system, which is to be the means of supplying, and this wear and tear can only be the result of exercise.—The efficient remedy for dyspepsia is work—out-door work—beneficial and successful in proportion as it is agreeable and profitable.—Hall's Journal of Health.

PRODIGALITY.—The Shah of Persia is very prodigal of the money which he wrings from his own oppressed people, giving thousands of it to well-fed servants of royalty and policemen in England.—He is thus generous before he is just.—The Shah kept his twenty millions of treasury locked up in his vaults whilst his starving people were perishing by thousands only a year or two ago for want of food which those millions (extorted from them) would have purchased. There is nothing worthy of admiration left about Persia excepting her antiquity and ancient history, though if his barbaric majesty carries out his internal improvement schemes she may yet rise again.

AN Irishman, tried for marrying six wives, on being asked how he could be so hardened a villian as to delude so many, replied with great nonchalance: "Why, pleas your worship, I was trying to get a good one."

SAID a woman to an old maid: "My husband is not so good a husband as he should be, but he's a powerful sight better than none."

A STARTLING TRUTH!—Thousands die annually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal disease of the lungs: when by the timely use of a single bottle of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry their lives might be preserved to a green old age.

August Flower.—This great Dyspepsia Panacea has the largest sale of any other preparation in the world. Why? because we say to every one afflicted with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Costiveness, Headache, Heartburn' Waterbrash, Sour Stomach, Indigestion or any disease depending upon pure blood, healthy Liver and Stomach, to call at C. F. STAM & BRO.'S Drug Store, in Chestertown, and get one of our sample bottles free of charge. Regular size 75 cents. Two or three doses will relieve any case. Try it. For sale by Druggists and Dealers generally. At wholesale by C. F. Stam & Bro., Chestertown. eow.

THE EUREKA FANNING MILL.
THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY!
Farmers Look to Your Interest.
THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public.
It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras—EUREKA!—signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.
In this Mill are all the former improvements to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention:
It combines ECONOMY, UTILITY and PRACTICABILITY!
THE "EUREKA" MILL
Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented.
IT IS THE ONLY MILL
that will successfully remove from wheat all such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.
Should an extra quality of grain for seed or grinding purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of: for nearly one quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.
HINES & BURCHINAL,
Chestertown, Maryland,
Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of Noland & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee that they will be put up in the best manner. je17-tf.
