ADDITIONAL LOCAL ITEMS.

Political.—The republican club numbers about one hundred members, and additions are constantly making to the list. It is proposed to hold a grand banquet in this place at an early day, and among the guests will be Hon. B. Hermann, member of Congress from Oregon, and several other destinguished strangers.

Cumby News.—The trial of young McMillan for the killing of Philip Lemmert will have to go on in Frederick next month, the Court of Appeals having denied his appeal against removal.

Among the pensions granted last week was one to Mrs. Ann Metts' mother of Isaac Metts, of Barton.

Died.—Saturday afternoon, Jan. 7, 1888, Mr. DANIEL BROWN, son of J. R. Brown, of Cumberland, aged about 25 years. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at the Centre street M. E. Church, Cumberland, Rev's Richard Norris, of that city, and J. M. Rollins, of this place, officiating.

In this place Sunday morning, January 8, 1888, WILLIAM GUNTER, aged 85 years, 10 months and 20 days. He had been a long time resident of this place. Four sons and one daughter—all adults, survive him, viz: William, Richard and John, of this place; Samuel, of Pittsburg, Pa., and Mrs. Joseph Stewart, of Lonaconing. Deceased died at the residence of his son, John.

Midwinter Excursion to Washington City.—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company announces a popular excursion to Washington for Thursday, January 19th. The round-trip fare will be $4.75 from Cumberland. Tickets will be valid for ten days, including day of sale. They will be good going on trains leaving Cumberland at 1:50 a. m., 2:50 a. m., 10:15 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Through parlor cars on day trains and sleeping cars on night trains. The tickets will also be available to and from Baltimore but must be used for continuous passage in both directions. No better time could be chosen for a visit to the capital. Congress will be in session and the galleries of both Houses, as well as all other public buildings, will be open to visitors. The long limit on the excursion tickets allows ample time for visiting Alexandria, Mt. Vernon, Richmond, Old Point Comfort and other points of interest within easy reach of Washington. For tickets and parlor or sleeping car accommodations call upon or address agents B. & O. R. R.

LOCALS IN MINION.

Publications.—A silver lining to every cloud! With the short, dull days of early winter comes the cheery holidays and Vick's beautiful annual, and lo! spring appears not far distant. We can almost see the greening grass and the blooming flowers. In the way of catalogue, Vick's Floral Guide is unequaled in artistic appearance, and the edition of each year that appears simply perfect, is surpassed the next. New and beautiful engravings, and three colored plates of flowers, vegetables and grain, are features for the issue for 1888. Its lavender tinted cover, with original designs of most pleasing effects, will insure it a prominent place in the household and library. It is in itself a treatise on horticulture, and is adapted to the wants of all who are interested in the garden or house plants. It describes the purest flowers and the choicest vegetables. If you want to know anything about the garden, see Vick's Floral Guide, price only 10 cents, including a certificate good for 10 cents worth of seeds. Published by James Vick, Seedsman, Rochester, N. Y.

"Which is the True American Mother?" asks Babyhood in the January issue, after a number of contributors have expressed their opinions on "Shunning Maternity," and "The Mother who is Tired of Little Children." The spirit of this discussion is an eminently proper one. No less interesting and valuable will be found the illustrated medical articles, "How Children may Have Sound Teeth," by Dr. Leslie; and "Children's Heads," by Dr. Yale. "Worms, and Worm-fever," by Dr. Dodge, furnishes much needed enlightenment on this subject. An important paper on "Lisping;" editorial remarks on "The Outrage of Lifting Children by the Arm;" on the fallacies of "Fruit Diet," etc., are other features of interest. For a change the mothers have this month given place to the fathers in the airing of grievances, the result being an entertaining "Fathers' Parliament." The departments of "Nursery Problems," and "Nursery Helps and Novelties" contain the usual excellent advice and many practical suggestions. Altogether the number is one that no mother with young children can do without. 15 cents a number; $1.50 a year. The Babyhood Publishing Co., 5 Beekman St., New York.

The Writer, that helpful and entertaining Boston magazine for literary writers, begins its second volume with the January number. It has, as always, an excellent table of contents. The leading article, "The Stranger in New York," by F. G. Burton, an experienced New York journalist, gives valuable advice to writers who have an idea of trying to live by the pen in New York city, and shows them in detail, both the difficulties and possibilities that are before them. William J. Fowler has an interesting article on "Character in Journalism," and George B. Perry writes entertainingly about "Composing-Room Slang." C. M. Hammond, of the Boston Globe, gives helpful advice to those who have literary aspirations, but are unable to give their whole time to the work, and tells them how they may make writing pay. A. E. Winship, editor of the Journal of Education, has a pointed article on "The Literary Focus," and there are other articles by well-known writers on "The Use of Type-Writers," "How to Keep Letters," "Signed Editorials," "Preparing Copy," "The Literary Workshop," "What Readers," "The Use of 'And,'" and other practical topics. The "Helpful Hints and Suggestions," and the answers to "Queries" are full of interest to all writers, and the reference list of "Literary Articles in periodicals," is a unique and invaluable feature. With the January number is included a title-page and full index to the first volume of The Writer, showing what a surprising store of information on literary topics has been gathered within its covers. The Writer is edited and published by William H. Hills and Robert Luce, both on the editorial staff of the Boston Globe, and is invaluable to all who write. A sample copy costs ten cents; yearly subscription one dollar. Address The Writer, P. O. Box 1905, Boston, Mass.
