PRIVATE SCHOOL EXAMINATION.

FROSTBURG, MD., Feb. 20, 1888.

To the MINING JOURNAL.

A few days ago, with some other parents, I accepted an invitation to attend Miss Helen Berkey's select school entertainment in their new room at the residence of Dr. A. B. Price. It was so enjoyable that it is thought that others who missed the opportunity of being present should at least be informed of the pleasant time we had.

The school has been in session in their new home for about four months. It numbers on the roll twenty pupils. The course of study pursued is the same as in preparatory schools, with the exception that advanced studies are proposed to be introduced, such as philosophy, physiology, etc., as one or more of the pupils are competent to pursue them. In the meantime oral instruction is imparted on these subjects. Thus a foundation is being laid in new classes in anticipation of the growth of the school.

The examinations were conducted by a gentleman visiting the school in orthography, arithmetic, geography, history, &c., very much to the satisfaction of all interested. This exercise was interspersed with recitations by Miss Lulu Glotfelty, Allie Grove, Nellie Price, Maud and Master Chester Glotfelty, with a dialogue, "Playing School," in which all the pupils took part and personated the several characters to perfection; also with songs—first, by the whole school, and subsequently at intervals by Miss Mary France, the sweet little songster of the school. The song, "Where are you Going, my Pretty Maid?" was rendered with all the sentiment and coquetishness desired by the composer. Her twinkling black eyes and mischievous little face gave a most natural effect to the piece.

The parents present, among whom were Dr. and Mrs. Price, Mrs. Grove, Mrs. France, Mrs. Betz and others, were as much entertained by the exercises as the smart little folk were made happy by the compliments paid them.

The school, so nicely located, deserves the patronage of a large class of residents in Frostburg. The location is private, room is cheery, and the teacher is in love with her pupils and her important work. PARENT.

Married.—At New Castle, Pa., Wednesday, Feb. 15, 1888, by Rev. Mr. Holmes, Mr. BRADFORD BERKEY and Miss SALLIE TAYLOR, of that place. Mr. B. is the elder son of our townsman, G. Berkey, and a young man of fine promise.

LOCALS IN MINION.

Publications.—There are questions of importance before the American public on which Congress must soon act or appeal to the sovereign people to apopt amendments to the Constitution which will meet the wants, or enable the National Legislature to do so. One of these is the Immigration Question, and there is a timely article on the subject in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for March. An illustrated sketch of the late Lady Brassey and her life on the yacht "Sunbeam" will be appreciated by all who enjoyed her charming book "Three Typical Americans." David Crockett, Ben Hardin and Thomas Corwin—give Mr. McCann a theme which he treats admirably. "A Finished City," what the people of Annapolis call the Maryland capital, and its quaint old homes and ways and by-ways, are cleverly depicted. There is, too, a bright sketch of Hindoo women, by a lady who lived among them, and writes of what she knows by personal experience. We find a bit of adventure in the sketch "In the Tracks of the American Lion." "Dolls and Doll-makers" is a curious treatise that will interest the young and amuse their elders. The article on a Lump of Sugar treats the subject in a popularly scientific manner that cannot fail to interest. The stories, adventures and minor sketches will attract readers old and young. In every point of view this is a most enjoyable number of the most successful of our American magazines.

The aim of Our Little Men and Women for 1888 is to interest children just at the time they begin to read for themselves and lead them along for a year or two with pictures and stories and tasks so pleasant as to make them forget the task part altogether. The following outline includes the largest topics of the year: Pocahontas teaches a little early American history through the year. A French story, Susanna's Auction, full of amusement. A story a month entitled Laura's Holidays suggests to other little girls what they can do on holidays. A story a month on Tiny Folks in Armor; which means beetles. A flower poem in every number. Buffy's (six) Letters of his Mistress. Buffy is a coon-cat. Six Mexican stories on Little People of the Plaza; also about some Mexican animals. Besides there are many, too many to tell of stories short and bright and unexpected. With all this entertainment of picture and humor there is a serious purpose all through implied in the name, Our Little Men and Women. It is to teach and lead the children to take reading for profit; but pleasure comes first as it ought. A dollar a year. Five cents for a sample copy. D. LOTHROP Company, Publishers, Boston.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Fannie W. Hansel.

We miss thee, darling mother,
From thy familiar place;
We do not hear thy footsteps near,
Nor see thy cheerful face.

We miss thy kind words spoken,
Thy merry laugh and smile,
We miss the fond look of thine eye,
We miss thee all the while.

Our home is sad without thee;
How desolate each heart!
Oh, could we hear thy voice again,
What joy it would impart.

We miss thee, O we miss thee
Whichever way we go;
The stroke of death that snatched thee hence
Hath filled our hearts with woe.

Farewell, dear mother, victor,
Our souls were knit to thine;
The memory of thy kindness still
Around our hearts entwine.

Again we hope to meet thee
When life short journey's o'er;
Ah, yes, we hope to meet thee
On heaven's eternal shore.

RESPONSE.

O children dear, hush every sigh,
Wipe all thy tears away,
For I have reached that land on high,
Where reigns eternal day.

I've safely passed the billow's roar
Upon life's stormy sea,
And here upon the shining shore
I'm waiting now for thee. CELIA.

GENERAL ITEMS.

Eastern Views of the Coal Trade.

New York.—For soft coals the market is good, and back orders are being filled. It is expected, according to current report, by the producers that higher rates may be secured for new orders, with no sales below rates.—Mining Record.

There is absolutely nothing to say in this article. Prices remain as heretofore at $3.50@3.70 alongside. Cars are still very scarce, but are expected to be more abundent very soon.

Boston.—The demand for bituminous coal in cargo lots is reported as having been very good of, late, due in some measure, probably, to the scarcity of broken coal. The cargo rates rule from $2.50 to $2.60 f. o. b., but with very little at the lower figure. Shippers are everywhere congratulating themselves that they have adhered to the f. o. b. contract system the past season, as it has saved them from heavy losses which which would undoubtedly have occurred under the old arrangement of delivered contracts. The experience of the pool in this repect is counted upon as amost potent factor in holding the shippers together another year. There is considerable talk of advancing f. o. b. quotations for next year, but many think the action would be unwise.—Engineering and Mining Journal.
