the success that I shall immediately make such arrangements as will enable me at all times to fulfill the duties of the office and fulfill towards the agent occasionally to advance a quarter interest to the State. —

Whether I get the agency or not my obligations to you will never be forgotten and I do trust that you will afford me an opportunity of showing you that I am not ungrateful for the friendship and favors so kindly bestowed upon me. —

Prof. Mayer says he has gone and by that arrangement and as he is interested in the "Telegraph" and has been professor Wheatstone since he came to town I presume you will hear on the subject. — Mr Cooke is still engaged on the Great Western Railway and notwithstanding the vast opinion as to expands the value of the patent as before expressed, and of its decided superiority over the inventions of Morse or any other party. —

Now sir as any scientific man can probably form a pretty correct opinion of its advantages over others, by examining the model drawings &c. which are now in your possession and I shall be perfectly —
