who cannot be too highly praised, and the day before yesterday, in Sandis absence, Tankle designed to have the whole matter fixed, and the Company bound. This contract is most extraporous and bare faced fraud that ever was practised; and bidding the board, did not understand it, were would be imposed upon, I determined to defeat him. The Rackle trick was so stile; which made me determined in my purpose; and on Monday, the day before the Directors met, I told him the whole affair was a direct and pulpable fraud which neither should, nor would be carried into effect; that I was preparing a memorial to the board exposing and his fraudulent practices; and if that body was so foolish (as I think I did not fear) as to sustain and sanc
