County. He is now a candidate for the House of Delegates by a convention now nominating at the head of the Legislature without contest with every prospect of success. He has received a most liberal education; the studies he is under my care, and has commenced his professional career with the most flattering prospects of success. He was married last spring to a quite lady in this state. Will you gratify me by writing to the Attorney General in