Dickinson College, March 20, 1839.

My dear uncle,

Yours of the 13th inst. (postmarked 18th) was received this morning.

Your note was left with uncle Saml., as well as I recollect, at the time I saw you in Baltimore, and if I did not inform you of it by letter, it was because I supposed you would recollect the conversation. However this is of no moment now.

Before you went to England you paid me two years' interest at one time; - this will explain the arrangement of the note.

It was at the same time, that you gave me the money for Mr. Biddle. The note was taken up forthwith, but I had entirely forgotten the transaction. It is still in my possession, & I will bring it with me, when I come to the Eastern Shore, which I expect to do in a few weeks.

Albert's last monthly report, which I sent to you, at Centreville, contains a full state-
