MORE OF THE NORTHERN MIND.—If the black republican press of the North has not gone stark mad, it is bereft of all prudence, and in its senseless ravings throws off all disguise; so, that whatever our future may be in the hands of the party, we certainly shall have no cause of complaint that we were not fairly apprised of its character. We could quote column by column of the New York Tribune and Courier and Enquirer to show the abject position we hold in their esteem; but when we find the more conservative press, as it is styled, rank with the heresy of despotic toleration, we cannot be insensible to the importance of the earliest settlement of the status the border States are to be permitted hereafter to sustain. It is quite manifest that the republican party are thoroughly inflated with the idea that it is to be just what they choose. Instead of moderation, and some decent indications of respect for the subordinate position we necessarily occupy as a helpless minority, the tone and language used with regard to us is insolent and commanding to the last degree. It seems that we are to be punished by humiliation at once, preparatory to any farther process of subjugation that may be deemed expedient.

In a late number of the Boston Daily Advertiser it is remarked that "the course to be pursued in dealing with the States that have seceded, or in retaining those that have not, has been left open," &c., and adds, "Mr. Lincoln must now take upon himself the whole responsibility, and must call upon the people of the country to say whether they are for or against the government as it stands?" In this we have the language of arbitrary power, and the issue presented merely as to whether it shall be used or not. There is not the least sign of recognition or hint about the rights of the seceded or of the border States. The question is simply as to "dealing" with the one and "retaining" the other. One is regarded as a refractory party, and the other as an ap-

FROM WASHINGTON.

The President's Intention in Regard to Appointments—Resignation of Commodore Stewart's Commission as Senior Flag Officer—Formal Visit of the Army Officers to the President.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—It is known that the intention of the President is to first fill the vacancies which exist and which must be filled during the present session of the Senate. Excepting in a few instances, other appointments will be deferred until this is done. In the meanwhile applicants are required to file their papers in the proper departments.

Commodore Stewart, just before the close of the late administration, returned to Secretary Toucey his commission as senior flag captain of the navy, dated 1859, a step which he contemplated shortly after the passage of the act which conferred this mark of distinction.—While Com. Stewart highly appreciated the friendly feelings which superinduced this expression of national esteem, he looked upon it as intended to ameliorate the wrong inflicted upon him by the naval board. But it seems he prefers that, irrespective of the Congressional resolve, his distinguished services to his country shall be his best defense.

The officers of the army met at the War Department at noon, and in company with Lieut. Gen. Scott and Secretary Cameron, proceeded to the White House, and formally paid their respects to the President.

Washington Items—Fort Sumter, &c.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Gentlemen in prominent positions still confidently express the belief that Fort Sumter will be abandoned in obedience to the peremptory opinion of Genl. Scott, and some even go so far as to say that this will be done next Monday. The information is not, however, derived from an official source.

A report prevails that the nomination of Mr. Crittenden, to supply the vacancy in the Supreme Court is now probable if not certain.

What the Confederate State Commissioners have done so far, has been in an informal manner, and in the direction of peace.

Senator Latham has succeeded in getting a tri-weekly mail service of four-horse coaches from San Francisco to Los Angelos, with a weekly service to San Diego. The contract has also been closed for the removal of Butterfield Company to the central route, with a ser-

The Virginia Convention.

RICHMOND, March 12.—In convention to day Mr. Summers made a powerful and effective speech of three hours' duration. He presented strong arguments in advocacy of the peace propositions, commenting on each article, and urged such action as would meet the views of the whole State. He showed the folly of passing an ordinance of secession for reference to the decision of a divided people. He said Virginia ought first to command peace on all sides, and then call a border conference, with the peace propositions as an acceptable basis of adjustment; and then the convention should adjourn over to await the result. He expressed his full confidence in the eventual restoration of peace.

Ex-President Tyler replies to-morrow.

Affairs in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, March 11.—General Twiggs declares that the government shall not reverse its decision against him. He considers it as being the cause of the most distinguished honors ever conferred upon him.

The Louisiana convention has adjourned to Wednesday. It is waiting to receive the constitution from Montgomery, which was completed on Saturday. The opinion is entertained that the convention has plenary power to ratify or reject it, and, per contra, that it should go to the people.

The news from Washington this morning that the administration would order the evacuation of Forts Sumter and Pickens, is viewed as a settlement of the question in favor of a peace policy.

From Texas--Federal Troops Preparing to Withdraw.

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—Texas advices say the troops formerly stationed at Camp Ringgold have arrived at Fort Brown on their way to the coast. The steamer Daniel Webster was waiting outside the Brazos to transport the federal troops. It is reported that 1,500 Texans were stationed on the Rio Grande, and that reinforcements were still arriving.—The collector of the district of the Brazos has resigned and resumed the discharge of his duties under the authorities of the State.

Important Judicial Decision.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The Post of this evening states that the United States Circuit Court of Wisconsin has rendered a decision in regard to the Lacrosse land grant bonds seriously affecting the validity of numbers above 2,500. The first issue, being numbers below
