[illegible] than she is charged with the very outrages of which she has been made the victim. It is a complete realization of the old fable of the wolf which accused the lamb of muddying the water up the stream; only in this instance the lamb has found it not altogether necessary to remain within reach of the wolf to be torn to pieces.

On another subject this same "neighborly" journal gives us to understand that unconditional submission will be required of us, and that we are not to construe any reaction in the North as an implied recognition of any rights or claims. We copy the following paragraph entire:

"Reaction at the North.—Under this caption we encounter items in northern democratic and southern journals of all kinds, quoting scattered election items to show that the public sentiment at the north is against the republicans. Supposing this to be so, would the south return to its allegiance, submit to the lawfully organized national government and stop its tomfoolery of State conventions and secession? If not, then no reaction at the north can be of the least consequence.—If these people think that a reaction at the north means an organized rebellion here they are wofully mistaken. They could get nothing more from a reaction here than they could from those now in power. In this crisis, conservatism has no other meaning than the preservation of order, the enforcement of the laws and the recognition and strict observance of the national constitution. What more could a reaction bring about? If there be anything more, if it be true that some foul scheme of separating the border free States is entertained, it is the wildest and most absurd of chimeras. The only reaction they are in favor of is for the Union against all its enemies."

From all this we learn that whatever it may please our northern lords to do, we are to have no tom-foolery of State conventions and secession. Well, Maryland has had no tom foolery—or, more respectfully to his excellency, the "Governor," Thomas-foolery of that sort. Our Thomas-foolery has taken another direction entirely, has eschewed conventions most devoutly, has buzzed about the Lincoln atmosphere, and, while ignoring the people, has done what it could to lay us at the feet of this northern despotism. But be our condition what it may as the consequence of our own folly, it behooves us to consider well the possible aggravation of it at the hands of those who brandish over us the rod of national authority. The journal we quote only confirms what we said yesterday, that the reaction at the North has no reference to our rights or equality in the Union. It is merely the significant intimation that we must remain, and submit to that strict observance of the constitution which denies the equality of the States, and sustains an organized system of [illegible] Construe such [illegible] clecy has been removed, and your correspondent is enabled to give you an outline of the new features, as follows:

"No person of foreign birth, not a citizen of the Confederate States, shall be allowed to vote for any officer, civil or political, State or federal."

"Under the first census, South Carolina is to be entitled to five representatives in Congress, Georgia ten, Alabama nine, Florida two, Mississippi seven, Louisiana six and Texas six.—Each State to be entitled to two Senators."

"The State Legislatures may impeach a judicial or federal officer, resident and acting for said State, by a two-thirds vote."

"Both branches of Congress may grant seats on the floor of either House to the principal officers of each executive department, with the privilege of discussing measures pertaining to his department."

"The representation of three-fifths of the slave population is continued as in the old constitution."

"Congress is not allowed, through the imposition of duties, to foster any branch of industry."

"Foreign slave trade is prohibited."

"Congress is prohibited from making appropriations unless by a vote of two-thirds of both Houses, except such appropriations as shall be asked for by the head of some department or by the President."

"No extra compensation shall be allowed any contractor, officer or agent after a contract has been made or service rendered."

"Every law or resolution having the force of law, passed by Congress, shall relate to but one subject, and which shall be expressed by its title."

"The President and Vice-President shall be elected for a term of six years"

"The principal officers of the departments and diplomatic service shall be removable at the pleasure of the President. Other civil officers shall be removable when their services are unnecessary, or for other good causes and reasons Removals must be reported to the Senate if practicable. No captious removals to be tolerated.

"Other States are to be admitted into the Confederacy by a vote of two-thirds of both Houses of Congress.

"The Confederacy may acquire territory, and slavery shall be acknowledged and protected by Congress and by the Territorial government.

"When five States shall ratify this constitution it shall be established for said States. Until ratified, the provisional constitution shall be continued in force, not extending beyond a year."

There was nothing of interest done in Congress to-day.

Missouri State Convention.

ST. LOUIS, March 11.—Mr. Birch called attention to a communication in this morning's Republican, hinting at the existence of a secret conspiracy to force Missouri out of the Union. He offered a resolution to appoint a committee to investigate the subject, and, if possible, to ascertain the names of the conspirators. The POLITICAL.—At a meeting of nearly all the Virginia students at the University of Virginia a few days since, resolutions in favor of immediate secession were unanimously adopted.

HOLLIDAYSTREET THEATRE.—The great national spectacle, called Uncle Sam's Magic Lantern, will be withdrawn after this week. It proves a wonderful success, and is received every night with the heartiest approbation and shouts of laughter. We suppose everybody will take an opportunity to see it. This evening a new drama called The Assassin of the Rocks will be introduced, with Mr. Glenn in a new Dutch character.

THE MINSTRELS.—The New Assembly Rooms was literally jammed last night with a highly respectable audience, and the rare talents of the Company were thoroughly enjoyed by every one present. There is no doubt but this troupe of artists have brought their performances to the highest state of perfection, and the vocal, instrumental, fanciful and comical display elicits great laughter and applause. The "young lady" is very accomplished, and the young jig dancer a wonder in his way.

The bitterness of death again is proved—
The cold earth closing o'er the lost, the loved.
From hidden depth, quiet, no murmurs rise;
The tears are passing from the mourner's eyes.
My babe!—the deep, cold grave is not for thee;
Thou from the slime's earth-worm's crawls art free;
Thy light is flashing through the mortal gloom—
Thy star is bright beyond the cleaving tomb.

In Washington, D. C., on Monday morning, 11th instant, ELIZA JANET, daughter of James B. and Annette Smallwood, aged 5 months and 7 days.

At Elkridge Landing, on the 22d February, Mrs. JANE KINSTENDORFF, in the 64th year of her age.

OBITUARY.—Mr. MICHAEL HEILBRUN was born in the year 1808, in the Grand Duchy of Hesse Cassel, and arriving in the United States at an early age, selected Baltimore as his future home. Entering commercial life, his straight-forward and honorable transactions soon won for him the respect, esteem and confidence of the community. In all his business affairs his whole aim and ambition seemed to be to keep in view those two sterling traits of his character, honor and integrity. His sudden and untimely end has cast a profound gloom around his family hearthstone and over the city, and left a void not easily to be filled. He appeared in his usual health, but for the last few days had been complaining of a pain in his breast; on Sunday afternoon he retired to his room for the purpose of taking some repose, and upon proceeding to awaken him, his lifeless body was discovered; his disease was neuralgia of the heart. In all the relations of life he was exemplary. His family can no more gaze upon his mortal remains, for he sleepeth his last sleep, and left forever the scenes of earth, in the 53d year of his age. The poor and afflicted grieve for their sympathising and generous protector; the community mourn for him, as an upright citizen; and his widow and children feel that they have lost a tender husband, and a fond, kind and affectionate parent. Though the grave has claimed him, his memory will ever be verdant in the hearts of all who knew him, and his bereaved family will not be alone in rendering the homage of love to one who was a friend to all.

the stomach, acidity, belching up wind; hundreds are complaining at this time in this way; let them take a heavy cold, and before they get shut of it, then another, then it is the time to know what to do; then is the time to go to Dr. Schenck and get your lungs examined; then is the time to know what cough medicine to take. Stop that cough sudden, and then the lungs, liver and stomach are all put in an inactive state, and before the patient is aware of his situation the lungs are a mass of sores, and death must soon follow.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP is an Expectorant, but it does not contain any opium or anything to check a Cough suddenly, but if aided with the
SEA WEED TONIC
AND MANDRAKE PILLS
is sure to purify and carry off all diseased matter from the system.

Dr S. has a number of persons in this city that can be referred to that have been in the last stages of
CONSUMPTION
CURED BY HIS MEDICINES.

He does not wish to be understood that when lungs are gone that he can make new ones, but when one is sound and the other may have quite a cavity in it, it can, by careful treatment, be ripened, and diseased matter carried off and the patient get well.

His day for seeing patients in Baltimore is THURSDAY OF EVERY WEEK

For a thorough examination with his Respirometer, he charges $3, but it often happens that patients do not require an exploration with the Respirometer, as he has had such a large experience he can detect at a glance whether such an examination is necessary. All professional advice
GRATIS, and cordially invites all suffering from Coughs or Colds, or any disease of the LUNGS, LIVER OR STOMACH
to call upon him on those days. He has recently fitted up rooms over his store for the better accomodation of his patients that are waiting for advice.

A Pamphlet, containing a full treatise on the various diseases he treats, with certificates of Cures, can be had gratis at the office. Send and get one, read it carefully, go and see those giving certificates, and be fully persuaded in your own mind before using it, then give it a fair trial, and life and health may be spared you.
