tice your wishes as to what kind of business Lloyd should be put at, I have felt some little difficulty as to what course to pursue with him — I shall however use my best exertions to get an eligible situation for him, and if successful will first advise you of it before entering into any positive engagements for him. In the mean time, I shall [illegible] to the Academy unless I should be so fortunate as shortly to fill the vacancy in my school occasioned by the melancholy event of the death of my late highly valued Tutor Mr. Peters, who died this day week — We are all well, and I still subscribe myself

Yours truly

John Leighman
