A Romantic Marriage and What Came of it.

A DORCHESTER COUNTY GIRL'S STRANGE AND THRILLING STORY—SHE MARRIES A MUSIC TEACHER, WHO PROVES TO BE A VILLIAN.

Baltimore Bulletin.

A beautiful and highly connected young girl, who contracted an unpropitious marriage, has recently returned to her home in Dorchester county, after an eventful tour around the world and a temporary residence abroad of several years. Her story is very sad, and filled with eventful incidents. She spent a few days in Baltimore this week, visiting her relatives and friends, who are among the best families of Baltimore, but went home last night by the steamer Georgeanna.

She is a native of Dorchester county, highly educated and accomplished. Her musical education was acquired partly in Europe. Some six years ago an adventurer went to Dorchester county to teach music. He was a man of fine appearance, good address, great versatility and of good conversational powers. He therefore succeeded in getting pupils among the best and most conservative families. Among them was the subject of this sketch. An intimacy sprang up between tutor and pupil, and the family of the unfortunate girl tried every method of persuasion to prevent it; but the tie was too strong. The girl loved the professor tenderly and devoutly, and a separation could not be effected without breaking her heart.

The marriage ceremony was performed amid many misgivings of the girl's mother. The bride was only sixteen years old, and her troubles began before the honeymoon was over. Her husband soon undeceived her as to his identity, and told her he bore a different name from that under which they were joined, and that his true name was a matter of no consequence either to her or himself. For the present they would go by the name of Buck. His business was precarious and changeable. Music was only a passion or an accomplishment with him, not a profession.

In spite of these startling revelations the bride clung to her husband, and they went to New York to live. Here he got money by robbery, forgery and all kinds of rascality, and beat hotel-keepers and others out of their just dues. The couple would frequently change quarters and start under a new name, the poor wife being constanly bewildered as to what to call herself.

After a few months' residence in New York they started upon a tour of the world, and lived a short time in various European cities. They finally turned up in New South Wales; the husband having murdered a woman in cold blood, that was thought a good place to escape justice; but the villian was arrested and put in prison and properly dealt with.

The young wife was now thousands of miles from her dear old home among the verdant fields and forests of Maryland. No old and tried friend was near to guide and advise her. The fruits of the marriage was a broken heart and deep misery and embarrassment. A beautiful boy was born, which was the only trophy of her happy days of her profound love and devotion. She does not to this day know his real name, since the father has sailed under so many aliases. The wife being highly educated and accomplished, she taught music, &c., in Australia, and got on very well and made many friends.

Mr. Nevitt Steele, Archibald Stirling, and other citizens of Baltimore, hearing of her circumstances sent her means to come to her home in Dorchester county, where she arrived recently, and she did not fail to visit them during her trip to Baltimore to express her gratefulness for their kind-hearted generosity.

She is now but little more than twenty years old, and, notwithstanding her many hardships and worry of mind, much of her original beauty and cheerfulness remain. Providence has been good to her, and it is believed she will greatly improve in spirits now that she is among the early associations of childhood and friendship.

She has obtained a divorce from her husband and goes by her maiden name.

THE CENSUS IN THE COUNTRY.—Gen. Francis A Walker, superintendent of the census, with a view to securing greater accuracy and uniformity in the agricultural statistics to be compiled for the tenth census, has just issued a circular setting forth the aims and wishes of the bureau with regard to the method of arranging such statistics. As the enumeration of the census of 1880 commences on the first of June and closes on or before the 30th, all the crops which are gathered once a year will fall pretty clearly on one side or the other of the dividing line. Thus the cotton crop reported in the census will be that of 1879, gathered in the fall of that year; while the wool clip or "wool crop" will be that of the spring of 1880, except in portions of California and Texas, where both a fall and spring clip are secured. For certain of the productions of agriculture, however, there is no harvest in the usual sense of that term; but the product is gathered week by week, day by day as it matures. Milk, butter, cheese and meat fall into this class. In view of the requirements of the law, and of the great importance of accurate statistical information relative to agriculture, it is deemed highly desirable that farmers should prepare themselves in advance to give the information with promptness and accuracy. It is urgently recommended, therefore that agricultural journals and the officials of agricultural societies and clubs give publicity to the announcement, and that all persons engaged in agriculture who shall receive this circular or see it in the public prints make notes from time to time of the quantities and values of their several crops gathered, and the number of acres of land planted, and produce of the dairy, vineyard, orchard, etc., in order that their statements when made to the enumerators may be of the highest possible value.

THE Legislature to be chosen in Louisiana this year will have the power, in the event of the adoption of the new Constitution, to choose the Presidential electors for the State, and the people, therefore, may be voting this fall for President. In this view of the case the New York Tribune urges the Republicans of the North to send all the "aid" to Louisiana that may be asked for. It says they should have plenty of it. In addition to the "aid" which will be sent down the Baltimore Gazette suggests that John Sherman and Stoughton, Garfield, Hale and Harlan might make themselves useful during the canvass. They were very serviceable in stealing the vote of the State after the election in 1876, and as there will be no Returning Board for them to manipulate this time it would be well for them to get in their work before the fact.

A YOUNG lady, on being asked where her native place was, replied, "I have none; I am the daughter of a Methodist minister."

The Poison Germ of Malaria.

ITS DISCOVERY.

Innumerable attempts have been made to ascertain the poison that produces malaria, and in every instance until recently they have failed. This poison is not cognisable by the senses, nor could it be detected by chemical tests. The air of malarial districts has been analyzed, the soil has been submitted to microscopical investigation, but no light was thrown on the subject by any investigation that had been undertaken. It was not difficult to describe the places favorable to the production of the malarial poison, or to prescribe the proper medical remedies for those who were suffering from it. It was easy to say that the poison was generated in salt and fresh water marshes, in wet meadows, from vegetation decaying under a hot sun, in lands alternately flooded and drained, in the moving of earth rich in vegetable matter, and in the drying up under certain atmospheric conditions of stagnant pools. But what the poison was that produced these remitting and intermitting diseases which are known by the various names of marsh fever, malarial fever, fever and ague, and popularly as "chills" and "shakes," no physician could explain. At length, however, a series of investigations into the origin of malaria, has been crowned with success. Two men of science, Signor Tommasi, of Rome, and Prof, Kieb, of Prague, after spending three weeks in that fever stricken region, the Roman Campagna, experimenting on its soil, its atmosphere and its stagnant waters, "have succeeded," it is said, "in discovering a microscopic fungus which, being placed under the skins of healthy dogs, caused distinct and regular paroxysms of intermittent fever, and produced in the spleens of those animals that peculiar condition which is a recognized part of the pathology of this disease." The report of their investigations and experiments, and the success that crowned them, was read a short time since in the Academy of Rome, and if further tests substantiate the truth of their discovery, the next series of experiments will have for their object the means whereby these poisonous fungi may either be destroyed or rendered innocuous. It is doubtful whether anything can be done in this direction. The practicable agricultural remedy for draining and liming must remain, we apprehend, the only certain one. But the discovery of the source of malaria in a minute fungus, discernible only under the microscope, merits nevertheless the applause with which it has been received, and will strengthen very materially the belief in the germ theory of disease which has found in Tyndall one of its ablest advocates.

AT the close of the touching remarks with which General Grant concluded his sojourn on the Pacific slope he told his hearers of his hopes: "If I should never have the happiness to visit our city again," said he, "I shall at least meet one and all of you elsewhere, and if it should not be in this life I may be in a better country." This seems to divide the Californians very neatly into two classes—those whom Grant expects to "see" after his election and those who must expect their reward not in office nor divvy but in mansions in the skies. The latter class, as the natural course of events, must be larger, for all the Californians who imagine that they will get fixed when the "Old Man" comes in cannot possibly be accommodated and many of them will be greatly disappointed when they are told to look for their reward not in earthly office but heavenly dwellings. Applications for office, filed away with the indorsement M. S. (Mansions in the Skies), will amount to an official assurance from the Old Man, "I will see you later."

A NEW HAMPSHIRE YANKEE A RUSSIAN ADMIRAL.—How a Meredith boy became a Russian admiral makes an entertaining romance. The son of the Rev. Simons Finly Williams, a celebrated Massachusetts clergyman, called to Meredith in 1790, ran away from a Laconia employer because the latter thrashed him for spending his evenings with the girls. He took also $300 belonging to his chastiser who pursued him to Portland, reaching there two days after the youngster had shipped on a Russian bark. The vessel was attacked by pirates, but the boy of 17, with the assistance of two sailors, mounted an old swivel, filled it with iron and scraps, and sank two boat loads of buccaneers, thus saving his ship. For this the Czar trained young Williams up in the royal navy, of which he became the head, his title being Count Zincherschoff. He subsequently visited this country and paid the Laconia man his $300 and interest all in gold, saying he should return to Russia an honest man.—Springfield (Mass.) Rep.

SENATOR BAYARD has never supported and never will support any bill for the benefit of the Texas Pacific railway or any other corporation which is inconsistent with the "true democratic doctrine that Congress has no constitutional right to vote away the proceeds of taxation" for the benefit of corporations. One of the many reasons on which the World founds its often-expressed belief that Senator Bayard may be safely trusted with the leadership of the democratic party in 1880 is its knowledge of his unswerving hostility to all such bills, and its absolute confidence that no consideration whatever can induce him to abandon his convictions of duty on this or any other point.—N. Y. World.

BALTIMORE, March 19th, 1878.

W. E. THORNTON, ESQ:—I can cheerfully and heartily recommend your Laroque's Anti-Billious Bitters having used them for a long time in my family.

E. S. LINDSAY, 184 W. Balt. st.

Thousands of letters of the same nature as the above have been received by Mr. Thornton, and any one troubled with the diseases for which these Bitters are recommended, viz, Nervousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, and all diseases of the Liver and Stomach, should give them a trial at once. All druggists sell them at 25c. a package, or $1 per bottle.

JUDGE PINKNEY, of the Circuit Court of Baltimore city, recently ordered all the costs in a criminal case to be taxed to the party upon whose complaint the indictment was formed. When the case came to be tried, neither the prosecuting witness nor any of the other State's witnesses knew anything about it, and the State was forced to abandon the case. Judge Pinkney's action was wise and just, and will doubtless have a salutary effect.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that is that any person afflicted can get a sample bottle for 10 cts. and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cts. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing every one that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by C. F. STAM, Chestertown, F. M. GOODING, Millington, and all druggists.
