Dispersal Sale of the Pomfret Stock Farm.

When Mr. McKinley selected Mr. Thomas S. Harrison for a foreign mission he robbed the ranks of the trotting horse breeders of a valuable comrade, though he doubtless gave the country a good diplomatic servant. In consequence of this, the dispersal of the Pomfret (Ct.) Stock Farm will be a marked feature of the great two weeks sale by Messrs. William B. Fasig & Co., to be held at Madison-square Garden, New York, immediately after the Horse Show in November. At the head of the Pomfret stud is that good race horse, Brignoli Wilkes (2.14½), the youngest and fastest entire son of George Wilkes. He has already proved his high merit as a sire, though his opportunities have been very limited, as but few of his get have been campaigned. His son, Blue Brigg (2 21¾), also in the Pomfret stud, has quite as much speed as Brignoli Wilkes. The mares are of the highest breeding, and among them are many famous producers of speed. The consignment also includes a number of record animals, and in every way merits the careful attention of buyers.

Every owner of a fine horse who wishes to keep his animal free from skin diseases, and at the same time give it a delightful appearance, ought to send to Goodwin & Co., 38 Hanover street, Boston, Mass., for a bottle of Glosserine, price $2. It has a wonderful success in treating eruptions, such as cuts, scratches and sores, and makes the hair very glossy.

There are Other Pebbles.

Horses that have proved their speed and racing quality always sell satisfactorily, even in times of depression, when the highest breeding and individuality fails to attract the buying public. Except under stress of circumstances, owners of very high-class trotters and pacers are prone to hold on to their best and to offer at sale their prospects. The Messrs. Hamlin have decided to reverse this course, and have consigned to the coming sale by Messrs. William B. Fasig & Co. practically all of the grandly successful racing stable that has earned them a fortune during the present season. Nine trotters and pacers—the slowest with a record of 2.13½—are included in this consignment. The average of their records is 2 10⅓, and seven of them obtained their records in 1897. This is certainly without a parallel in the history of great sales. But it is well known that even the astute Geers, when he selected these to carry the Village Farm colors in 1897 expressed serious doubt as to whether he had chosen the best—as there were so many other good ones to select from. This magnificent reserve will supply the Village Farm's stable in 1898, although a number of them are included in the 50 head consigned to Fasig & Co.'s sale at Madison-square Garden, in November next. That there are green ones in this consignment as good or better than The Monk, The Abbott or Passing Belle, Mr. Geers has no doubt.
