napolis pretty thoroughly, and had his friends on hand to back up his claims for a poll of votes for a Legislature candidate. He made his speech and his motion, and the question was put. Among the "I's" was Mr. Riley and probably half a dozen others. The "no's" were several hundred of the Annapolis Democracy. It was quite clear that the Democracy had had a sufficiency of Rileys.

Mr. Samuel Brooke was nominated by the writer who was a delegate, and "whose elastic will would bend" (not to Riley) but to the recommendation of a large number of our best citizens from all parts of the county, and to his known abilities and qualifications. The four gentlemen who were delegates "merely to reflect," agreed upon Mr. Brooke without consulting Dr. Wells. No one suggested Mr. Riley (young or old) although many protested against either. The writer has been to three County Conventions and always voted his own sentiments, and no one has ever attempted to influence him. Mr. Riley has been to many more. If in that capacity he has only "reflected the wishes of the head of his delegation" we have no complaint to make, but rather think that the party was the better for it.

A large number of Democrats have at times thought that the leader of the Annapolis Democracy was sometimes unreasonable. But never has that sentiment been so strong in the land as when he insisted upon having the editor of the Record upon the ticket. The load was too much for the Democracy, and the result is well known.

In days gone by, when Dr. Wells was in a position to get patronage for the editor of the Record, the Record was full of compliments to the "gallant Doctor" as it was pleased to call him, and even among the first pages of Mr. Riley's celebrated History of Annapolis we find these words:

"To Dr. George Wells whose unremitting and unsolicited efforts were largely instrumental in securing the option of a State's subscription to this History I hereby record my high appreciation of his friendly and invaluable services, that were rendered in that lofty spirit which, when conferring a favor seems to be receiving one."

Now that the Doctor is not in a position to give the Record printing, the story is entirely different, and he is a miserable "boss."

Of all things to be detested it seems to us that the ingrate is at the head of the list.

term, two years, and during that term it cost the people of the City of Annapolis more money for litigation than for twenty years previous—and since. While he was Counsellor he assisted in having passed the Legislature at the session of 1894 a bill providing for the erection of a school building in the City of Annapolis and the issue of bonds for the purpose, and at the meeting of the Corporation of the City of Annapolis held to consider the matter he advised the board to resist the issue of the bonds, which was done, and, of course, legal proceedings were resorted to with the result of defeat to the Corporation.—The city was put to the expense of employing additional counsel to assist Mr. Riley out of his dilemma and the result of the whole matter was that the people of Annapolis were deprived of a new school building for two years and besides had to pay several hundred dollars for costs in the courts, fees to the special counsel to assist Mr. Riley and an extravagant fee to Mr. Riley for not knowing how to perform the duties of his office.

We find Mr. Riley again, after he was nominated by the boss and turned down by the people at the polls, presenting a bill for $500 for professional services rendered in the collection of a claim from the U. S. Government which the city as a matter of fact had not received. The board refused to pay the bill and we find him next in the Circuit Court for Anne Arundel county suing the city for $1500, but upon a demand made for a bill of particulars he could only get his conscience up to $900, an increase of $400 over the original bill presented to the city.

It is well to mention also the fact, that he suggested his own name as one of the committee to be appointed to press the claim of the city of Annapolis against the U. S. government, and that no charge was made by any other member.

We think also that the true way to judge a public man or a public officer is by his acts, and for this reason we will give the people the benefit of another transaction which we also think will show further how unnatural it must be for Mr. Riley to believe that men in political and high positions can resist temptations, and further to show how elastic is his conscience which seems to be his only guide. In the City of Annapolis we have a very estimable old lady, Mrs. Julia Macabee, who is compelled to ask assistance from the county in the shape of a pension, and through an error or oversight in 1896 her name was omitted from the general list of pensioners. Mr. Riley appeared before the Board of County Commissioners in her behalf, and of course as soon as the matter was explained the Board granted the pension, amounting to $15. The certificate was delivered to him, and the original order now in the Commissioners' office is endorsed "Julia Macabee per Elihu S. Riley." Mr. Riley collected the money and it is a notorious fact that he retained $5. as his fee. Now did Mr. Riley do this for the fee he received or for "Sweet charity sake." We do not believe there is another member of the Annapolis bar that would charge such a fee in a similar case for appearing before the Commissioners and making a statement that any other person could have made just as well.

It is true that Mr. Riley has only held one office by the will of the people, and but for the influence of a certain person whom he terms the "Supreme Boss," he could not have held that one. He has received more money from legislative jobs and public printing than any one man in this petty crime, wouldn't that lawyer be an accessory to the murder?

The administration crowd is really alarmed at the extent of the "nigger" animosity to Mr. McKinley, and the word has been passed around to the "nigger" office holders to whoop it up for the administration at every turn, and especially to try to counteract the anti-McKinley talk at the gathering, in Chicago, to be known as the Afro-American Council. The negro voters of Ohio have it in their power to make it impossible for the McKinley-Hanna candidate for governor to be elected; consequently, they are being "jollied" by everybody connected with the administration, but some of those "niggers" are just smart enough to make it plain that an office with a good salary attachment is the only sort of a jolly they will take from the administration.

The revival of the story alleging the intention of ex-Czar Reed to remain in Congress and lead the fight against expansion, on the floor of the House, probably had no more substantial basis than a desire to worry those republicans who for one or another reason welcome his retirement from Congress. Even if he remained in the House, he would not lead the fight on imperialism; that patriotic duty will be performed by a democrat.

Representative Bankhead, of Ala., was in Washington this week. He was indignant because of a publication several days ago alleging that he attended an anti-Bryan meeting at Saratoga. Speaking of it, he said: "I havn't been in Saratoga and it is well known that Alabama is a Bryan State. We will send an instructed Bryan delegation to the next national convention. Bryan is the logical candidate, and he will be unanimously nominated, and he will be elected, too.

The Sampson clique, taking advantage of the absence of Mr. McKinley and Secretary Long, is again scheming to get orders issued for the Navy Department for Sampson's squadron to go to sea to meet Admiral Dewey and escort him into New York harbor. Sampson isn't satisfied with his attempt to rob Schley of honors bravely won, but has the nerve to try to share in the honors that will be bestowed on Dewey, and unless the clique is called down by McKinley or Secretary Long, he may succeed in getting the desired orders. Already Acting Secretary Allen has ordered Sampson to prepare plans for the participation of the navy in the reception of Dewey.

Adding five additional Sections to Article XLI. of the City Code of Annapolis, title "Water and Gas Companies," to be known as Sections Seven, Eight, Nine, Ten and Eleven, regulating the storage and supply of Water to consumers in Annapolis by the Annapolis Water Company, and providing for the cleaning and inspection of the reservoir and supply dams of said company.

WHEREAS, the condition of the water as furnished to consumers in Annapolis city, by the Annapolis Water Company, has been very bad for over two months and it is feared that if something is not done to improve its condition, it will become a serious menace to the health of the city, the condition of the water at present being such as to render it unfit for drinking purposes or general family use; and it is generally believed that the condition of said water is due to the condition of the two reservoirs and supply dams and the storage therein of large quantities of water for a long period of time; therefore,
