I wish to call the special attention of my friends and the public generally to the fact that I am still in the plumbing business, and am furnishing and putting in all kinds of force and suction pumps.

NOTICE TO THE FARMERS.—If you have a well that is a considerable distance from the house, I can put in your kitchen a pump that will draw the water with very little labor and at a very small expense. I am satisfied that if the farmers knew how much labor it would save, there would be a very few in the community, in the course of a short time, that would not take advantage of such a convenience. Farmers' wives, read this advertisement carefully. Just see how much work it would save you in the course of a year, to have a pump right in your kitchen.
