LAW OFFICE OF
DAVID P. GUEST,
ROOM 509 COLUMBIA BUILDING.

Norfolk, Va., April 30th 1895.

E. B. Emory, Esq.,
Dear Sir:

Several days ago I wrote telling you I had obtained judgment against Lines on the note given you and had issued execution, the levy having been made since on a colt. Also that the Constable required a bond of $300. in order to sell the property; and asked you, too, at what time the question would be determined, and that I could report the homestead claimed by Lines.

I also asked you to tell me what you could do about the bond required, but have heard nothing from you. I will be obliged if you will direct me to someone here who will give the bond for you. If you, as hitherto, will pay no attention to my letters, you cannot expect anything but delay in the prosecution of your claim. Kindly let me hear from you on receipt of this.

Yours very truly,
David P. Guest.
