My dear Emory: Aug. 24 1891

I have been absent from the City for a few days and have just received your letter. I am sorry that I can not see you and talk rather than write. But you know me well enough to know that I would write you just as I would to Wales. The question which you submit is not one that I could decide nor one that the nominators in the 2 yr old stake could decide. but the Board of Directors only could give authority for you to substitute another colt in the stake in place of Happy Lady Do you recall your letter to me when I wrote you asking if I could accept Mr Holtons entries after the stakes closed?
