Kent News.

SATURDAY MORNING.....JAN. 19, 1884.

FROM ROCK HALL.

Editors "Kent News":—For a few days last week Jack Frost paid us the compliments of the season with a liberal hand, though we find he did not come quite as strong at Rock Hall as at Chestertown. Our lowest indication being 16° above. This is probably owing to the bay radiating its 140° of latent heat in the process of freezing. Some readers may not know that on this principle a tub of cold water placed in a cellar or tight room will prevent vegetables or plants from freezing until it is frozen over, and that the covering of ice prevents the escape of heat. By removing the water from time to time, as the ice begins to form, a room may be kept above the freezing point for several days. Most of our moving population had got into their new quarters before the cold snap, so they were much warmer than if they had continued in their old domicils. Is it not funny what an effect change has on a certain class of humanity?

Our village is still growing, though not as rapidly as we hoped last spring, owing in fact, to some of the purchasers on "Fidgety Alley," (our new street,) backing out of their bargains when they found the timber was taken off their lots before they were allowed possession. Yet we have now five very pretty houses on it.

The oystermen have had a good fall's work with a sharp demand and paying prices, so that they appear perfectly satisfied to spend a few weeks telling stories and playing checkers, which is at least better than drinking whiskey and stopping up the gutter, as was the practice before local option.

With the prosperity of our oystermen we see the usual twinkle of satisfaction in the eyes of our merchants. Friend Hadaway, who carries on the store lately occupied by B. F. Legg, runs largely to soap, keeping a supply that would shame into cleanliness a town twice the size of Rock Hall; besides all the others keep a supply for their customers, so that if we do not become champions of cleanliness it will not be for want of soap, unless we adopt the theory of "Jones of Binghampton," that the cleaner the hands are kept the more dirt they impart to whatever they touch.

As to local option one of your correspondents think it a failure in Kent county. This is a most egregious mistake; so far as this neighborhood is concerned, excepting at election times, and Christmas holidays, a drunken man has become quite a curiosity; and even then we feel perfectly safe in saying there is not a teuth of what there used to be. This is partly owing to supplies coming in limited quantities. When it is exhausted it is amusingly sad to see the poor fellows smelling the empty jugs, and then trying to lick their ndses. Jamaica or Extract of Ginger, containing a large percentage of the extractor, has been tried, but this very soon had so much the look of a rat hole, that the venders felt unsafe, till they edded the orthodox quantity of ginger, thereby making it much too hot for a comfortable drunk. Another thing that helps us is a constable who, though small in stature, has a sharp eye and the moral courage to report infractions of the law; in fact he appears so thoroughly obfusticated that he thinks it his duty to tell the truth when questioned by proper authority. May his shadow never be less.

SCRUTATOR.

LETTER FROM FAIRLEE.

The Fairlee Entertainment—Success—Repetition—Peter Poker and Local Option—The Root of the Evil—Wasted Sympathy.

On Thursday, the 10th, the entertainment for the benefit of Salem M. E. Church took place as previously announced in your columns. The Grange Hall, not yet being fully completed, it became necessary to occupy the church edifice, which was packed from the doors to the altar rail. The gratification of the audience may be inferred from the urgency of the requests they made to have the performance repeated on the following evening, and it was so arranged and announced, but the storm of Friday made it impossible, and now, with some good changes in the program, it is set down for Friday evening, 18th inst. Too much credit cannot be given to the committee of ladies to whom was entrusted the management of this attractive entertainment. It is no slight labor to make proper selections, and to adapt the various roles to the parties representing them. Besides which, the necessary stage furnishing and costuming demands careful attention. In all this work these ladies have been indefatigable, and, we are glad to say, successful. For the kind and hearty appreciation of their efforts by the public they return their grateful acknowledgment. The proceeds were a little in excess of fifty dollars. Space would fail to particularize the individual performers. Suffice it to say that Mrs. Buttermilk was herself, and her inimitable son, John, unapproachable in their respective parts in "the train to Mauro," and equally as good as Sarah Tibbs, and her young man, in "Sarah's Young Man." The music throughout, under the direction of Prof. Stratton and Mrs. J. P. Nicholson, organist, was excellent. The closing piece, "We never will morigage the farm," merits especial mention, not only for the wholesome lesson conveyed, but because of its excellent rendering. Miss Norah Bramble, as the farmer's wife, her sister, Mary, as one of the numerous daughters, and Professor Stratton as farmer and father, could not easily be excelled.

Your Worton correspondent, "Peter Poker," is a brick, (salmon, of course,) though his pseudonym would lead one to suppose that he was a ferreginous rock. He announces, ex cathedra, that local option is a failure, and advises the friends of temperance to go to the root of the evil. "Local option" is the term which expresses the action of the Legislature, in accordance with the ascertained will of the people, in any given locality, to abate the evils of intemperance. The law against theft, arson, murder and other insufferable evils, is a similar expression of power sanctioned by the presumptive will of the people of the whole State. Notwithstanding these general laws larcenies, murders and other prohibited crimes occur. Is the law against theft, arson and murder a failure? Shall we repeal them Peter? Shall we enrich the saloonist and gratify his heart's desire by the repeal of the local option laws? But Peter waxeth bold and would go to the root of the terrible evil. All right Peter, go it while you are young, and go it very strong; let us hope that you will see to it that the law we have got is rigorously enforced and thus prove that we deserve to have better. But did you ever have a troublesome old tooth, Peter? If so, you sought the dentist, and in the process of extraction the old shell broke into fragments, and then came the painful operation of probing for the root. Dear Peter, did you ever probe for the root of this great evil? I have, and I find it deeply imbedded in the natural depravity of man, in a vitiated appetite, in foolish social customs and in a prejudice against every plan and all instrumentalities which do not fully accord with varying individual notions and opinions. Against all these legislation, if possible, would be nugatory. Nothing can reach them but "the perfect law of the Lord, converting the soul." When local option ceases to be local and becomes general, as it surely will, then the "jug brigade" will find itself demoralized, and the will of the people and the authority of the State be respected. I commend to your thoughtful consideration, my dear Peter, the following extract from a reliable source:

"Prohibition means something in Pottawatomie county, Kansas. Saloon-keeper Hulen, having been convicted on twenty counts, was fined $100 on each count, and on the twenty-first count the court committed him to jail, to stay until all the money is paid. Saloon-keeper Shaw, also having been convicted on thirteen counts, was sentenced to pay $100 and costs on each count and to spend thirty days in jail, and stay there until he pays up. Saloon-keeper Pittman got $1,100 fine and a month in jail. Upon 20 dealers the court imposed fines aggregating $7,600 and $3,000 costs and 90 days in jail."

I think it proves two points, viz.: How deep-seated the root is, and that prohibition does prohibit, or can be made to do it. Your thoughtful regard for the health of that poor young man who rode so far in the bleak, wintry weather with the young lady—and—oh! crackee!—rode back again alone, proved also his infatuation and your sympathetic nature, and, being confident of the latter fact, I have ventured to appeal to your sympathy in behalf of the myriads who are suffering unimaginable woe because we have not yet reached "the root of the evil." I am, dear sir, yours to help, root and branch.

SIMON SHARP.

LETTER FROM MILLINGTON.

Messrs. Editors:—There has been quite a large number of removals in our town, a part of which I will note, viz.: Mr. J. C. Johnson has removed with his stock of store goods to Cecilton, and his brother, C. M. Johnson, has taken his place with a new stock in Millington; Mr. B. F. Vansant, of the firm of Pratt & Vansant, has taken the dwelling and store room formerly occupied by T. R. Quimby as a furniture store; Mr. Jerome Hopkins, of Centreville, has engaged in the stove, sheet iron and tin business on Cypress street; Miss Belle Godwin has leased the store room of Mrs M. E. Turbitt, near Thomas' Hotel, where she intends keeping a grocery and confectionery store. Mr. T. J. McWhorter has commenced building a new double dwelling on his lot adjoining the old parsonage, and rumor says that Messrs. J. C. Sutton and B. M. Hazell have bought the old store house formerly occupied by B. F. Vansant, which they intend to enlarge for machinery and agricultural implements.

There are a number of dilapidated buildings in town with very little convenience about them, (which the owners ask big rents for), which if torn down and replaced with new and convenient dwellings would improve the town and induce more persons to come here.

Having been spared to see the close of the old year, after passing through the trying ordeal of severe affliction, and to bid a glad welcome to the new year, I wish we may all enjoy happiness and blessings.

TRAVELER.

THE Rev. Dr. J. Houston Eccleston, the new rector of Emmanuel P. E. Church, Baltimore, peached his first sermon there Sunday morning. The congregation was so large that many persons had to stand throughout the service. Dr. Eccleston has a fine presence, a rich voice and a slow, clear, impressive style of speaking. His sermon was not a studied effort for the occasion, but a simple description of the differences between things which are temporal and things which are unseen and eternal. His words appealed to the mind and heart simultaneously, and recalled the style of Bishop Randolph, between whom and Dr. Eccleston there is in this respect a strikingly similarity.

THE TREASURY OF SONG, FOR THE HOME CIRCLE, comprises a rare collection of the richest and best loved gems of song in every variety that can add to the happiness of home. Each piece has instrumental accompaniment for piano or organ. This book is sold only by subscription and may be had of Mr. Samuel J. Watts, who is now canvassing for it.

A STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.

Thrilling Situation of two Pottstown Skaters in the Schuylkill.

A special to the Evening Telegram from Pottstown, Pa., says: "C. Harvey Wickersham a clerk in the office of the Pottstown Iron Company, and Miss Laura E. Davis, a teacher in one of the public schools of Pottstown, a daughter of Assemblyman L. H. Davis of the Ledger, met with a thrilling adventure on the ice at this place yesterday, and that they escaped with their lives was little less than a miracle. At the close of school Miss Davis, accompanied by Miss Mazie R. Evans, and John E. Wickersham, another clerk in the iron company's office, went down to the Schuylkill and spent some time in skating. Later they were joined by C. Harvey Wickersham, while gliding along between Penn and Franklin streets the ice cracked owing to the breaking of a gorge some distance above, causing a sudden rise, and began to float off.—Others saw the danger and got off, but Harvey Wickersham and Miss Davis, unconscious of their peril went on. Friends on the Pottstown side screamed lustily, but the skaters hearing very faint cails thought they were being summoned to their homes on account of the lateness of the hour.

When at last Mr. Wickersham and Miss Davis observed their danger, and found the ice on which they were skating moving, they tried to get off, but it was too late; they were carried down a square, and then, to save themselves, both jumped into the water and headed for the Chester county side. Mr. Wickersham was in the water up to his chin and his companion could not touch bottom. He held her up, and though she was encumbered with heavy clothing and her skates, and he with skates, and overcoat, and the water was rising rapidly (then two feet above usual height and very swift), he clung to her, drew her along, and they got out on the Chester side after wading through deep water about sixty yards. Big cakes of ice hemmed them in on all sides, going very swiftly, and they were obliged to keep them off with their hands. One of Miss Davis' hands was badly bruised in so doing. One time they had to crawl out the water upon a big cake of ice and pass over it. The lady could not do it, but Mr. Wickersham got up and pulled her upon it. The scene was a thrilling one for a time, and set people to screaming.

After reaching land the pair had to climb a fence and then pass through a deep current that was running through a field on the other side. In going through this Miss Davis fainted away, but was carried out by her heroic companion.

When the large crowd who had assembled on the Pottstown bank of the river discovered that the skaters were safe the men cheered and clapped their hands and women who had been wiping the tears from their eyes waved their handkerchiefs. A sleigh was procured, and the almost exhausted skaters, with clothing frozen to their bodies, were quickly driven home. Miss Davis is confined to her bed, and this morning, though rather stiff, was doing well. Mr Wickersham has not yet recovered from the severe shock which his system underwent. While the excitement was at its highest there was a social gathering at the house of Frank Newlin, on the bank of the river. The party witnessed the thrilling scene on the river from a parlor window. No one believed for a moment that Mr. Wickersham and Miss Davis would ever reach land alive.

DIED IN A SLEIGH.—Mr. Martin Mahan, aged 65 years, a farmer, living in Harford county, was seized with an affection of the heart while driving alone in a sleigh to Belair last Monday. Reaching the town he was observed to be lying partly out of the sleigh. The horse was stopped and Dr. W. G. Richardson called, who pronounced the man dying. He died before he could be taken to a hotel. No inquest was held. The deceased was an industrious, thrifty man, and had acquired a considerable amount of property by his labor.

LAST WEEK Gov. Hamilton pardoned John Wesley Turpin out of the penitentiary. Turpin, in 1880, it will be remembered, killed his brother-in-law, William H. Farrington, in Wicomico county, in a quarrel over Farrington's hogs impounded by Turpin.

BALTIMORE MARKET.—The Baltimore papers of Friday quote as follows:

WHEAT—Longberry $1 13@1 14; Fultz $1 10@1 11 for fair to good. CORN—White, prime 56@56; yellow, 64@64 OATS, Maryland, 48.

"HOP" AT THE VOSHELL HOUSE.

The social hop at the Voshell House on last Monday evening was one of the most successful in respect to numbers and social enjoyment ever held in Chestertown. It was under the auspices of a few of the enterprising young men of town—the leading spirits being Messrs. P. M. Brooks and S. T. Wickes. Price's Orchestra from Middletown furnished the music. The dancing commenced at 8.30 in the double parlors, and was kept up until a late hour. At twelve o'clock a lunch of sandwiches and coffee was provided—the former by the ladies and the latter by Mr. Goldsborough, proprietor of the house. Some of Kent's fairest daughters were present and the "Diamond State" loaned several brilliant stars. We have inquired of a number as to who was the prettiest lady present, and find as many opinions upon this subject as were the number of persons addressed. One thought Miss C——, of Del., was the belle of the evening; another was decidedly partial to Miss C——, of Massey; while Miss F. H——, of Locust Grove, and Miss M. P., of near Kennedyville, would both have taken prizes with a number of enthusiastic admirers; but equally as decided were the opinion expressed by others that the handsomest lady present was found among the following from Chestertown: H. B——, M. C——, N. W——, M. W——, E. G——, and E. P——. The ladies were all handsomely dressed and it would be out of place to attempt a description of any of the toilets. The young men, as a matter of course were all good looking and dressed as became the occasion. Among the gentlemen present from a distance were J. L. Adkinson, of Wilmington; Dr. Littleton, of Milford; C. Watkins, Jr., and Frank Watkins, of Odessa; W. B. Biggs and J. C. Rasin, of Middletown; J. H. Gilpin, of Millington; Julian Hurtt, of Locust Grove; P. G. Wilmer, Geo. C. Howard, John and Will Janvier, Edward Scott, Herman and Will Ireland, Adam and Richard Diehl, B. and L. Alrich, Jesse Usilton, Will Price, Ed. Emory, Will Cacy, John Comegys, John Sutton, Eben Massey, E. T. Comegys and wife, R. J. Foard and wife, of Kent county; R. A. Wallis and wife, of Queen Anne's county; Dr. Peter Cooper, of Wilmington; J. L. Downes, of Baltimore; and J. Duarte, of Brazil.

Among the young ladies present were the following: Miss Maggie Pratt, of Del.; Misses Anna Cacy, Madge S. and Mamie Wethered, Susie Massey, Eunice Gemmill, Sadie Burgess, Nelie Walker, Mamie Wilkins, Effie Pearson, Mary Price, Carrie, Nettie, Lizzie and Nellie Wickes, Lucie Robertson, Florence Hurtt, Miss Sutton, May, Gussie and Carrie Carvill, Hope Wickes, Eva Connelly, Blanche Constable, Hallie Beck, Misses Goldsborough, Helen Rasin, Julie Cacy, Gussie Hynson, Lillie and Laura Rasin, and Bessie Hines.

LOW FOR QUEENSTOWN.—The Queenstown News states that during the cold snap of last week the thermometer there got down to 13 degrees below zero! The lowest point here was 7° above.

CORN SHELLERS

And HORSE POWERS.

I have now ready for delivery a large supply of the Celebrated

Hyland Corn Shellers & Horse Powers

which we think are unsurpassed, and we are selling them low.

ROLLERS.—We have the best Roller on the market, and persons wanting anything in this line should send in their orders at once.

THE CELEBRATED HYLAND

FARM WAGON.

To Our Friends and the Public:

In introducing these Wagons on the Peninsula, we feel that we are doing something to benefit the public. It seems to be the unanimous verdict of Farmers that our Wagons track better and run lighter than any others made on the Peninsula. This was the decision of the Judges of the Worton Fair, held in September, 1883. Every piece is carefully selected, and nothing but the best material is used.

Our DEARBORNS and CARTS are EXCELLED BY NONE.

Please give these implements a trial and you will find it to your interest.
