SATURDAY MORNING.....May 17, 1884.

My Gray Horse, Ned.

Well, Ned, the time has come at last,
That you and I must part;
Now, for lands unknown to you
I sadly make a start.

I'm going to leave you far behind;
They say to you they will be kind;
I now will smooth your pretty head,
And say farewell, my gray horse, Ned.

Some other hand, less kind,
Must now your food and bed prepare;
That silky mane I braided once
Must be another's care.

I'll think of your dark, raven locks
And eagle-glance of pride;
Of how I've accompanied you with steeds,
Galloping bravely side by side.

Fret not with that impatient hoof,
And dark and fiery eye;
Fear not, that we shall meet no more,
Because I merely said good-bye.

Only in sleep shall I behold,
That dark eye, glancing bright;
Only in sleep shall hear again
That step so firm and light.

I placed one hand upon his neck
And then with a sad, sad sigh,
I looked him bravely in the face,
The expression of his eye said good-bye.

REVIVING FRUIT TREES.

Mr. S. D. Pratt writes to the American Institute Farmers' Club about the care of fruit trees as follows: "Remembering Prof. Liebig's theory that when a vegetable is burned the part which came from the air in the process of its growth returns to the atmosphere, and the part which came from the ground is reduced to ashes, I came to the conclusion that ashes would be beneficial when applied to the roots of the trees. They were standing in the soil strongly inclined to clay, with a turf around them that had not been removed for several years. After pruning them properly, removing every indication of worms, etc., and washing the body and branches with soapsuds, I began operations below, first removing the turf two feet around the tree, then with a garden pick the ground was loosened from six to twelve inches in depth, taking care not to injure the larger roots. Twenty or thirty quarts of loose dirt were removed, leaving a large cavity, shaped like a saucer, with the tree standing in the centre. About one pint of unleached ashes was sprinkled about the tree, and upon this chip manure was placed, nearly filling the cavity. Another pint of ashes was sprinkled, upon the fertilizer, which was gently pressed down, and the hole covered with the loose dirt taken from the cavity, leaving the surface nearly as it was, excepting the turf. A young orchard was treated in a similar way. The effect was wonderful. Plum trees that were going to the bad revived. Peach trees that had presented small and shriveled leaves threw out luxuriant foliage, and cherry trees gave fruit larger and fairer than ever before."

How to Cook Water.—I must tell you the old story of how the late Charles Delmonico used to talk about the new hot-water cure. He said the Delmonicos were the first to recommend it to guests who complained of having no appetite. "Take a cup of hot water and lemon juice, it takes away the insipidity." For this antibilious remedy the caterers charged the price of a drink of their best liquors—twenty-five cents or more—and it certainly was a wiser way to spend small change than in alcohol. "Few people know how to cook water," Charles used to affirm. "The secret is in putting good, fresh water into a neat kettle, already quite warm, and setting the water to boiling quickly, and then taking it right off for use in tea, coffee or other drinks before it is spoiled. To let it steam and simmer and evaporate until the good water is all in the atmosphere, and the lime and iron dregs only left in the kettle—bah! that is what makes a great many people sick, and is worse than no water at all." Every lady who reads this valuable recipe of a great and careful cook should never forget how to cook water.

Maryland Maple Sugar.—A letter from Grantsville, Garrett county, Md., says that the manufacture of maple sugar in that county is developing very rapidly. Sugar trees are abundant through the county and there are thousands of trees that have never been tapped. Each farmer has his "sugar camp," and in the season from the first of February until the first of April all hands are busy boiling sugar and syrup, each producing from 2,000 to 4,000 pounds. The trees upon an average will produce from three to four pounds each year. The sugar is put into barrels and hauled to the nearest railroad station, where it at this time is bringing 8½ cents per pound wholesale.

A STRUGGLE WITH A SHIRT.

Three hundred and sixty-five times each year every mother's son of us has a struggle getting into his shirt.
If a shirt is worth getting into, if it is strong and well made, sure not to rip or tear, perfect fitting, then there is some compensation for spending so much of our existence in such a struggle. You may wrestle with the DIAMOND, but with its everlasting-stay-attachment and reinforced bosom, you will come out head first every time, covered with glory and with the best shirt in the land.
