SATURDAY MORNING..... June 21, 1884.

GALENA ITEMS.

Messrs. Editors:—After a long and painful illness, death claimed for its victim, on Monday the 16th inst., the youthful form of William H. Russell. He was in his 22d year, and has been for some years past a resident of Galena. "Harry," as he was familiarly called, was much esteemed for his excellent moral qualities and genial, pleasant ways. It was his lot to endure much physical suffering from his earliest childhood, but as far as we can learn he bore these trials, even down to his last hour, with becoming fortitude and patience. Great was the joy and satisfaction of his friends to know as he neared the "border land" that his peace was made with God and that he enjoyed a good hope beyond the grave. It is pleasant to know that the many kind friends of the family evinced much christian love and sympathy in this bereavement, and by many acts of tenderness and assistance well illustrated the principles of the Divine One, who ever went about doing good. For these unsolicited attentions we are desired to express the sincere thanks of the afflicted parents and relatives of the deceased.

Rev. E. W. Gaylord, former pastor of Westminster Church, Georgetown, favored his friends at Galena with a flying visit on Tuesday and Wednesday last. He was accompanied by his father, Rev. H. J. Gaylord, of Clyde, Kansas, (a delegate to the late General Assembly), and both gentlemen received somewhat of an ovation from old friends and parishioners. Both are doing fine work in their respective fields.

The Children's Day service on the evening of June 15th, at the M. E. Church, Sassafras, if last, was by no means least in brilliancy and merit among the many similar services held in our county. In the first place the church edifice displayed a perfect wreath of flowers so charmingly arrayed as to please the most æsthetic taste. It was the general conclusion of the large audience present that no church in the county had been more carefully beautified for such an occasion than this. The recitations by the children, though some of them scarcely distinct enough, were well memorized, and every part was sustained with matchless precision. The singing was splendid, Rev. Mr. Walton handling the organ with unusual skill. This gentleman has much talent and executive ability —as the whole of this exercise, we understand, was arranged by him. In conclusion how can we help saying to the good folks getting up, at so much self-sacrifice, these pleasant affairs: "Please do so some more." OBSERVER.

LETTER FROM WORTON.

Messrs. Editors:—According to notice the festival in the interest of the Union M. E. Church was held on the Fair Grounds, and notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather both evenings was a success, realizing a sufficient sum to satisfy the fondest hopes of those interested. We thank the crowd of friends for standing by us until the fair closed. It rained, and yet they stuck by. All concerned deserve praise for their perseverance in a good cause; but the old Union can do it! There being no candidates for office in the field we missed some of our Chestertown friends. No insinuations intended.

On Sunday we had Children's Day at the Union. Well, Messrs. Editors, you ought to have been there—you would have thought the hand of an artist or artists had been in that church by the beautiful display and arrangement of flowers, mottoes, evergreens, &c. The house was filled to overflowing with the smiling faces of the big as well as little children. The exclamation of many was, "How lovely—never saw anything prettier!" We had quite a good and interesting address by your townsman, Mr. C. H. Baker; also a short and spicy speech from the pastor of the church, Rev. L. E. Barrett, which was appreciated by old and young. The services were enlivened by good music, both instrumental and vocal. Everybody seemed to enjoy the occasion. May we live to see the same scene enacted again.

A few words for the cause of temperance and we have done. We think if the young ladies of our county would hold up the temperance banner they might induce some of their young men friends to enlist under it. May the good Father help them. VISITOR.

A Brilliant Wedding at Easton.

Colonel Oswald Tilghman, a prominent member of the Talbot county bar, son of the late General Tench Tilghman, and grandson of Lieut.-Colonel Tench Tilghman, of revolutionary fame, was married at 12 o'clock on Tuesday at Christ Church, Easton, to Miss Patty Belle Harrison, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Dr. Samuel A. Harrison. It was one of the most brilliant affairs of the kind that has ever taken place in Talbot. The ceremonies were performed in accordance with the English style at Christ Church, Right Rev. H. C. Lay, bishop of the diocese of Easton, officiating, assisted by Rev. Dr. Stearns. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers. The large auditorium was crowned with the best society of the county long before the hour set for the ceremonies. The bride entered on her father's arm. She wore an elegant toilette of white silk with diamonds. The bridesmaids, also in white silk, were: Miss Hattie Ashton, of Philadelphia; Miss Sarah Tilghman, of Baltimore; Miss Bonnie Chew, of New York; Miss Mamie Earle, of Easton; Miss Lottie Doane, of Baltimore; Miss Mary Hill Goldsborough, of Easton, and little Misses Katie Belle Noble, of Baltimore, and Claudia Lea, of Wilmington. Each bridesmaid carried a basket of pink and white rosebuds. The following gentlemen acted as ushers; Colonel F. Carroll Goldsborough, Easton; Carter Goldsborough, Esq., Baltimore; Hon. Charles H. Gibson, Easton; C. Howard Lloyd, of Wye; William Goldsborough, Jr., of Myrtle Grove; John A. Goldsborough of Washington, D. C., and Oswald T. Hemsley, of Queen Anne's. The distinguished guests were Mr. Samuel Spencer, second vice-president Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and wife; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Scott, of Delaware, director Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad; I. N. Mills, Esq., superintendent Delaware division Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad; William Lea, Esq., Wilmington, Del.; F. H. Johnston, Esq., and wife, Colonel Edward Lloyd, Colonel Samuel Hambleton, Hon. P. F. Thomas and wife, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Goldsborough, Easton, Md., and many others. The bridal party after the marriage ceremonies repaired to the residence of Dr. Samuel A. Harrison, at Woodstock, where a reception was provided, and afterward took a special train at 3 o'clock for a Northern tour, visiting New York, Niagara and Lake George. The bridal presents, numbering nearly 100, were very handsome.

A DUEL IN A CHURCH.—A desperate shooting affray between two members broke up the services at the Baptist Church of a settlement six miles from Little Rock, Ark., Sunday last. Two young men, named Lem Dishowan and Peter Lewis, attended church with the avowed purpose of taking home the minister's young daughter, and when Lewis moved from his own to the minister's family pew while the sermon was in progress, Dishowan drew his revolver and opened fire upon him. Lewis retuned the fire, and the congregation made rapid exit by way of doors and windows. Neither was hurt, and both being disarmed, they agreed to go into the woods and fight it out with fists. Before they started the girl who was the cause of the fight desired to speak privately with Lewis for a moment, which was granted. While the congregation were awaiting the result of the fist-fight a pistol shot was heard from the direction of the scene of conflict. The congregation hurried to the spot and found Dishowan lying on the ground dying from a shot through the lungs. He said that he was getting the better of Lewis, when the latter drew a Derringer quickly from his boot leg and shot him. The girl had placed the weapon there during her brief conference with Lewis just before the fight.

NO APPROPRIATION FOR THE MARYLAND AND DELAWARE SHIP CANAL.—The Maryland delegation made another attempt to include an appropriation for the Maryland and Delaware ship-canal in the river and harbor bill, but without success, the committee being opposed. Mr. Hoblitzell delivered a speech in support of the amendment, in which he alluded to the present defenseless condition of the seaport cities.

The delegation is hopeful that the appropriation asked for will be obtained in some future Congress, for a precedent has been established in allowing an appropriation for the Hennepin canal. An appropriation for the Maryland and Delaware canal would probably have been obtained at this session if one of the Maryland Congressmen had been placed on the river and harbor committee. There were three members from Iowa and Illinois on the committee to enforce an allowance for the other canal. All of the other Maryland appropriations will pass as they were reported by the committee.

A TERRIBLE STORM visited Springfield, Vermont, one day last week causing a sudden rise in the creek that runs through the town. So rapidly did the water rise that the people exposed to the danger had scarcely time to save anything but were compelled to flee for their lives. The storm raged for three hours, and the creek was filled with wreckage of barns, dwellings and other buildings. The loss is estimated at $50,000. William Parker was killed and a woman named Spaulding fatally injured by the blowing down of a barn.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

The New York Times, in explaining its opposition to Blaine, says: "The Times is not and never has been a free trade paper. It believes, with a great many ardent protectionists, that our tariff laws stand in need of revision. But in advocating revenue reform it has never advocated free trade for this country. The tariff is one thing, the presidency is quite another. The Times supported Senator Edmunds for the Chicago nomination, and he is a protectionist. Just now the voters have a question to settle which is of very much greater importance than the tariff question. It is a question that concerns the honor of the nation and its safety. The supreme and sole issue of this year is whether or not the next President of the United States shall be a man honest himself and in favor of honest government."

The Baltimore Sun says: The days that have intervened since Mr. Blaine's nomination have been full of incidents indicative of the feeling with which his candidacy is regarded by the republican party. In Maine and Pennsylvania and the States of the West and Northwest the ex-Secretary of State will probably bring out the full party vote; in New York and New England the independent element is offended and will not support him. In a word, Mr. Blaine is strong in the States where a strong candidate is not needed, and weak in the States where the united vote of the party is indispensable to success. New York and Massachusetts, through their secular, and in large part through their religious press, have given the nominees a cold reception. In both States the independents have held meetings and announced their purpose to oppose the republican ticket on the broad ground that it stands for everything that is corrupt and demoralizing in current politics. The platform has not met with a much better reception, being regarded as an insincere compilation of heterogenious and demagogic appeals to every conceivable class and interest possessing votes.

Ex-Senator McDonald, of Indiana, being asked what he thought of the republican ticket, replied: "It is strong in the sections where the republicans do not need strength and weak where they do. It is strong with only one class of republicans. The enthusiastic, hurrah sort like the ticket, but the conservative, thinking element of the party do not take to it."

An Augusta (Me.) dispatch says: "There is no truth in the report that Mr. Blaine is going to stump New York, Virginia or any other State. He will spend the summer here, making this city his headquarters for the campaign. His family will go to Bar Harbor, where he has rented a cottage, and he may quietly slip down there once or twice during the summer to see them and enjoy a brief rest."

"Vindex" writes as follows to the Baltimore Sun: Although there were thousands of men of all parties in the North who in 1861 opposed and deprecated war with the South; although every influence that reason could suggest and which passion could not stifle was brought to bear upon the authorities at Washington to avert so great a calamity; although in every household in the North in that dark day of our national history the prayer for peace went up unceasingly and earnest from the beginning to the end of the strife, it seems to have been a serious misfortune that Mr. Bayard, among all these peacefully inclined people, should have lifted up his voice in behalf of what he conceived to be the true interest of the country, trusting to time, rather than the sword, the cannon and the musket, to solve all differences and restore harmony to the divided nation. One would think upon reading some of the political newspapers of today that during the dismal period of the civil war only one man pleaded for peace, only one man looked with aversion upon the spectacle of war, only one man believed that time would heal the wounds inflicted upon the Union by rash and unreasoning politicians, that this one man was Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware, and that to be alone in such belief was treason. For one man to stand thus alone while millions around him cried "Havoc" and would "let slip the dogs of war" would have been indeed a wonderful illustration of human perversity. Yet the campaign papers have placed Mr. Bayard in this remarkable position, and have condemned him as unfit to be President of the Union, whose preservation he preferred to secure by the arts of peace rather than by those of war. It is not unlikely that Mr. Bayard's chances for the nomination will be prejudiced by the cry of disloyalty thus set up against him. But the question naturally arises, why should any question of disloyalty be raised at all? Mr. Bayard did not stand alone in his views of the situation of 1861, nor was he at all eccentric in his opinions as to the method of ending the contest. It was a time when conclusions were reached through conflicting opinions from every source of thought in the country, and Bayard merely stood as one among a million, whose opinions were finally overwhelmed in the mad "boom" for war which the leaders of a new party, flushed with its first victory, set in motion. The nomination of Bayard may be considered inexpedient by some on account of the effect of the awkward position he is placed in by this foolish agitation, but for heaven's sake let us drop the false cry of "disloyalty" as a means of killing off a formidable candidate. It is an old and worn out device; as much out of place and out of date as the "bloody shirt," and as insincere as it is disreputable. Senator Bayard is as full of the true American animus as any man living. Do not nominate him if you choose; but do not say he is "disloyal."

The Hon. Theodore Lyman, independent republican Congressman from the ninth district of Massachusetts, in a letter indorsing the republican bolt from Blaine and Logan in that State, says: "Who are those men? Against Mr. Blaine lies the charge of having used his influence as Speaker of the House in favor of railroads and for his own benefit. In the State of his adoption, his reputation is that of a man accustomed to use unwarranted political methods. His character is restless, aggressive and ambitious—a character always dangerous in the person of a President, and rendered trebly so by his remarkable ability and energy. There would be good reason to fear that, as President, he would surround himself with the unscrupulous and talented politicians whom the best men of the republican party have been trying to drive from office. Gen. Logan is a brave, frank and honest man, but narrow and prejudiced, in a word, one who is not fitted to be a possible successor to the President. For these candidates, however distrustful, we are told that we must vote, under the vague threat of a democratic victory. Of all political cries not one is more plausible, more false or more dangerous than that of "anything rather than defeat of the party." A party that cannot bear defeat and is incapable of purification by it has no use in politics nor in morality, and should be torn up. If, on the other hand, a party has a real reason for existence, it will rise stronger and better than ever after merited discipline. I shall not vote for Blaine and Logan if better candidates are nominated for whom I can cast my ballot."

A meeting of Massachusetts independents was held in Boston last week to take action in opposition to the nomination of Blaine and Logan by the republican party. The meeting was largely attended. The Boston papers published a list of signers nearly six columns long of "republican and independent voters of Massachusetts" who think "the nominations just made at Chicago ought not to be supported in any contingency likely to arise."

The New York World says: The nomination of Blaine and Logan is clearly the result of a shameless political bargain and represents the triumph of the mercenaries and worst elements of the Republican party. The vote of Logan decided Blaine's nomination. The vote of Blaine nominated Logan in return.

THE working men of the north—the labor-union men, are against Blaine. They have sworn to boycot any candidate supported by the New York Tribune, the Blaine Metropolitan organ. This will be a telling quantity in the contest, as it ramifies throughout the northern States.

Do the Republicans, by placing the wool plank in their national platform, expect to pull wool over the eyes of farmers? They had the President and both houses of Congress and the tariff commission, and they deliberately reduced the duty on wool. Their action cost them Ohio. Now they repudiate their work and pledge their party to raise the duty on wool. They do not intend to do it, and they know they could not if they would, because the manufacturers of woollen goods are against it. Their platform is a fraud. —Easton Star.

A JOKE ON MR. THURMAN.—The Columbus correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal asked Senator Thurman who would lead the democrats in view of Mr. Tilden's declination. The "noblest Roman" said: "This is a big country, and if you would go out at night and throw a stone far enough you would hit him." "Do you go out at night?" asked the reporter. "Not by a long sight," said the Judge, "but I guess everybody knows where I live."

BALTIMORE MARKET.—The Baltimore papers of yesterday quote as follows:

WHEAT—Longberry $1 08@1 10; Fultz $1 06@1 08 for fair to good. CORN—White, prime 71@76; yellow, 63@66. OATS—Maryland, 39.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help all, of either sex, to more money right away than anything else in this world. Fortunes await the workers absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

Our line of COOK and HEATING STOVES is complete.

We Guarantee Every Stove We Sell.

Our New Emerald, Virginia Farmer Girl, New Regulator, Southern Girl, and New Charm Cook Stoves, cannot fail to do us credit, and the purchaser good service.

Our RANGES have been thoroughly tested and proven a blessing in our community. The leading names are:

THE HAPPY, THE MARYLAND, RELIANCE, CLIFTON, DAISY & COZY.

The HAPPY COOK or RANGE is for either wood or coal, and in our judgment has no equal for good baking.

OUR "SPLENDID" FIRE PLACE HEATER TAKES THE LEAD!

Every one sold gives entire satisfaction.

We guarantee them.

Our stock of HEATING STOVES comprises all the latest improvements and are elegantly finished.

Call and examine our stock and get prices.

TO THE FARMERS

—OF—

Kent, Queen Anne's and Cecil Counties.

IT is universally acknowledged by the most practical farmers that the

OHIO CHILLED PLOW

—IS THE—

for NEATNESS OF WORK and lightness of draft to the team. As I have ordered a large number of these plows, both two and three-horse, farmers will do well to give me an early call.

We also keep on hand, the old reliable Concave Nos. 9, 10 and 11. Polished Minor & Horton, Wiley Nos. 3 and 4, and Two-Furrowed Plows, Harrows, Twin, Single A, and Double A, Cultivators and Cultivator Teeth unsurpassed by any manufacture. Single, Double, 3 and 4 Horse-Trees and Hames.

As there have been a great many Chilled Plows sold in these counties, and as farmers have been put to a great deal of trouble to get Castings for them, if they will only give the name and number of the plow we will endeavor to keep them on hand at my shops in Galena and Chestertown. I always have on hand Plain and Slip Shares for the Ohio, Oliver, Roland, Advance and Syracuse.

If any of you are in need of anything in my line, please give me a call as I intend to sell low for the cash.

Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same.
