SATURDAY MORNING.....June 21, 1884.

AN UNKIND CUT.

A Resurrected Pen-Picture of Senator Logan as an Orator.

The New York Post has been skirmishing among the files of the Tribune, and this is what it finds to begin with, from the issue of January 15, 1875:

"Pranced therein upon the arena of the great debate, like a trick mule in a circus or a spavined nightmare upon the track of a beautiful dream —Logan, of Illinois. There was a vision of mustaches, eyebrows and hair piled on each other in arches; a large brandishing of arms, a pose and stridulous war-whoop; and much as though a picture of the Deerfield massacre had stepped out from the pages of our early history, Logan took the American Senate by its large capacious ear. And then he went for his mother tongue. He smote it right and left, hip and thigh, and showed no mercy. Swinging the vast broad-axe of his logic high in air, he pinned in ere it fell, and with the hammer side pick the language of 60,000,000 of people fairly in the face, and mashed it beyond recognition. Under his stroke the floor of the American Senate was spattered with the remnants of a once good vocabulary, and messengers, doorkeepers, and pages were covered from head to foot with the spray. In the fearful two hours which followed the first roar of his oration, all the parts of speech were routed and put to flight. There were orphaned adjectives and widowed nouns, bachelor verbs driven to polygamy, and polygamous verbs left lonely; conjunctions dissevered, prepositions scattered, adverbs disheveled and distorted, and syntax flung into wild disorder. It was a great day for Logan.

"He set his teeth into the language as the untamed tiger of the jungles takes between his mouth and paw the wearing apparel of the wayfarer, and the ripping of it was heard through all the forest depths. It reverbated to the other end of the Capitol, and sluggish Representatives lifted up their ears and listened to the roar with terrified awe. Some started for the scene; but upon being told the cause of the disturbance in the brief communication, 'Logan's up,' turned back, with full assurance that they could hear from that end of the Capitol all that was worth hearing. So through two hours Logan swung his beautiful arms over the heads of the Senate like the booms of a government derrick, while his chin churned the language like a pile-driver in a heavy sea, and the baffled reporters made wild plunges with their pencils to gather up his regurgitations for the printer.

"Ah! Logan is a great man, a statesman.—When he throws his intellect into a question, whether it is of finance or self-government, or of sticking to the ship, something has got to come. And you may always know where to find him—to wit, where he has always been, drawing pay from the government in some capacity. He lacks only fifteen or twenty things of being an orator. He has lungs."

HOW FARMERS ARE TAXED.

Here is a statement of Representative Turner, of Kentucky, showing a few of the burdens of the farmer: Under this tariff he rises in the morning, puts on his common flannel shirt taxed 95 per cent.; his coat taxed 57 per cent.; shoes taxed 35 per cent.; and hat taxed 92 per cent.; takes the water from a bucket taxed 35 per cent.; and washes his face in a tin bowl taxed 35 per cent.; dries them on a cheap cotton towel taxed 45 per cent. He sits down to his humble meal and eats from a plate taxed 50 per cent., with knife and fork taxed 35 per cent.; drinks his coffee with sugar taxed 38 per cent.; seasons his food with salt taxed 69 per cent.; pepper taxed 61 per cent. He looks around on his wife and children, all taxed in the same way; takes a chew of tobacco taxed 197 per cent., or lights a cigar taxed 118 per cent. And, sir, even the sunlight from heaven that pours into his humble dwelling must come through a window-glass taxed 56 per cent.; and yet he thinks he lives in the freest government under heaven. Then he starts to work, puts a bridle taxed 35 per cent. on his horse, and takes his horse that has been shod—the nails used in shoeing being taxed 59 per cent., driven by a hammer taxed 20 per cent., and hitches him to a plow taxed 45 per cent., with chains taxed 58 per cent., and after the day's labor is closed and his family is gathered around he reads a chapter from his bible taxed 25 per cent., and kneels to God on an humble carpet taxed 81 per cent., and he rests his weary limbs on a sheet taxed 45 per cent., and covers himself with a blanket that has paid 104 per cent. Nor do these grasping manufacturers stop here, but even the broom with which his good wife sweeps the floor is taxed 35 per cent., and the cooking vessels used in preparing her husband's frugal meal are taxed 42 per cent., and the soda used to lighten his bread is taxed 59 per cent.

She sits down to her sewing with a needle taxed 25 per cent., and a spool of thread taxed 74 per cent., to make a calico dress taxed 58 per cent., or if she wishes to knit warm socks to protect her husband and children from the bitter cold, she uses yarn taxed 120 per cent., and thus daily and hourly must the hard earnings of the laborer go to satisfy the manufacturer and add to his ill-gotten wealth.

Experience with Barbed Wire Fence.

I have put up two lines of barb-wire fence between my neighbor's property and mine. It consist of three strands of wire and posts about 16 feet apart, and it has answered the purpose for which it was intended—to keep out my neighbor's cattle. If I were going to erect another fence, the posts would be eight feet apart, and there should be three strands of barbed wire, and a good stout rail either of boards or poles on top; for then in case some animal should attempt to jump over, it would not be so liable to get injured, as one of my neighbors horses did when he let out of the stable for the first time last Spring. Not knowing anything about barbed wire, he undertook to get away from the small boy's whip by clearing the fence; but he broke the upper strand, and lacerated his breast. The cows which were formerly in the habit of pasturing on my place, still endeavor to get through, but unsuccessfully; they stick their heads through the wires and eat away as far as they can reach, not seeming to mind the sharp points much. A neighbor has a fence like mine, and a horse undertook to jump over it, but got caught in the wire; his struggle to get loose so entangled him that he was completely crushed in it, and so injured that he almost died, and although he eventually recovered, he was very much disfigured afterwards. The owner threatened a lawsuit, and my neighbor's lawyer advised him to settle, because having erected a dangerous fence, he was liable for all damage to other people's live stock; barbed wire not being recognized as a lawful fence in this State.

I sincerely wish this fence were recognized, as it is durable, neat and cheap; does not harbor weeds or vermin, and animals can readily be made accustomed to it, so there would not be much danger of injury.

I own a mare which invariably jumps a stone and rail fence, but she has never attempted to jump my wire ones, and I hope she never will. I once bought a three-year-old colt, and to make him acquainted with the fences, led him around to them, and when he touched them with his nose he turned quickly around, striking his hind part against the barbs. These pricked him and he understood the nature of the fence immediately, and never bothered it afterwards. —Rural New Yorker.

Remarkable Surgery.

The operation for a new nose in plastic surgery was not long since performed in Bellevue Hospital, with more than ordinary success. The French and Italian method of building up a nose from the cheeks or the arm has little to recommend it, because, there being neither bone nor cartilage, the flesh sinks into the face, a shapeless mass. In the Bellevue Hospital case, Dr. Sabine used the middle finger of the left hand as a bridge and septum, taking off three phalanges. This he covered with a piece of flesh from the cheeks. The patient, a messenger in the hospital known as "Tommy," was suffering from the terrible malady called "lupus." He is now much improved in appearance, and a living example that the bridge of the nose as well as the nostrils can be replaced by a skillful hand. Scientific American.

To destroy red ants grease a plate with lard and set it where ants congregate; place a few bits of wood so that the ants can climb on the plate easily; they will forsake any food for lard. When the plate is well covered with them, turn it over a hot fire of coals; they will drop into the fire, and you can then reset the plate for another catch. A few repetitions will clean them out.

Persons using canned goods should pour out the entire contents of the can when it is first opened, and not wait ten or fifteen minutes as is often the case. By observing this suggestion the metalic taste which often attaches to such things can be avoided.

It is said that by the following simple method almost instant relief of earache is afforded: Put five drops of chloroform on a little cotton or wool in the bowl of a clay pipe, then blow the vapor through the stem into the aching ear.—Medical Record.

Harvest is Coming!
FARMERS WANTING
BINDERS or REAPERS
will do well to look at The "Wood"
before they purchase.

Cuts, Binds and Carries to the Shock.

She is in advance of them all. She cuts her cord with a chisel, and does it with ease. Makes no noise like a cart tipping over stones. Mr. Wood invented it himself, and had seven companies try to buy the right. He won't sell. Mr. Appleby sells shop-rights, and twenty different Reapers use his Binder, and all trying to improve on it

The Wood has but two Springs in her Binder, some of them have ten. When they get weak they will miss sheaves certain. Every person buying the Wood will get a book with every piece numbered, and the pieces will be kept at Mr. Sol. Startt's shop, handy for the farmers. We also have

A MOWER SECOND TO NONE.

It has steel plates, and when the guards wear out can be repaired at a cost of ten cents, and then she is as good as new. She runs light, don't choke in heavy grass, has patent oil boxes, no dirt nor grit can get in. Driver sets on and oils, runs easy and has durability. If they do not work we want no pay.
