Kent News.

SATURDAY MORNING..... JUNE 28, 1884.

LETTER TO THE KENT NEWS.

The dear little boy, Hugh Skirven, whose illness was noticed in the News of the 14th, died a few hours after the communication was written. He was a bright and intelligent little child, about seven years old. His friends all miss him; how much mother and father, brothers and sisters, who can conceive! Truly, "every heart knoweth its own bitterness."

The following paragraph cut from a weekly paper seems opportune:

"Warn the children against eating leaves or berries found by the wayside or in their woodland rambles. Exchanges are noting this summer a singularly large number of fatalities among children resulting from the practice. A little girl in Rhode Island died from eating "sour grass," or sorrel, last week, and a shocking affair is this, chronicled in this week's papers: Near Harrodsburg, Ky., eighteen boys, after playing a game of base-ball, started in search of wild parsnips, but got hold of the deadly hemlock instead. The boys ate freely and were taken violently ill. Two of them died almost immediately, five are not expected to live, and the others are suffering severely."

By the death of a woman, not many leagues distant, the tobacco interest suffers much loss. She died from the use of snuff, and a few others are seeking the same end.

Capt. F. Wing, and his assistants, Wm. Kline and son, began work on Salem Church on Monday. It is proposed to remove the old coat of plastering, which is laid on the bricks, and put on a new one on studding and lathes; to paint the edifice inside and out, and fresco the ceiling and walls inside. The funds are insufficient to make all the improvements desired, but it is to be hoped that a modest bell may come within the limits of available finances.

If one has a leisure day at his disposal, I know of no way in which he can secure more enjoyment from it than by taking a trip from Tolchester to Baltimore by the commodious and elegant steamer Louise. Her officers, from the general managers down, are polite and attentive, knowing their business and giving it strict attention. The appointments and equipments of the boat are complete throughout and leave nothing to be desired of comfort or convenience, while, with the chief engineer, John Hudson, in charge, one cannot but enjoy a delightful feeling of safety, even without the great array of life preservers. One will have time to drop in at the Green House, that most popular resort on Pratt street, where the lovers of good fare do most congregate, and take a hearty lunch, or an elaborate dinner, as best suits their convenience, and if, while discussing the merits of live stock with the president and treasurer of the "Live Stock Breeders' Association," or speculating on the outcome of the next Chicago convention, he should happen to leave his spectacles on the table "William" will see that they are returned to him. The prevailing sentiment ran strongly in favor of the distinguished son of "little Delaware."

Considerable sickness prevails in the Fairlee vicinity attributable, some think, to the too free use of fresh meat, but more like to the indulgence in vegetables of slow growth. Peas are especially unhealthy when the pods become a little whitish. Rapid growing vegetables are always healthful.

Harvest is nearly over hereabout, the wheat secure in the shock, and the rain was very welcome to our thirsty pastures and gardens.

SIMON SHARP.

LETTER FROM CECILTON.

Lost in the Sassafras — Farmers near Cecilton—Repairing the Roads.

Messrs. Editors:—As you have no regular correspondent from the first district of Cecil I thought it might be acceptable at this time to send you a few items.

On Sunday, the 22d, while in bathing at Fredericktown, a colored boy, nineteen years of age, was drowned. We suppose he thought himself a seafarer; went out too far, got under the control of the waves and was lost. It seems as though the bystanders made no effort to save the drowning lad.

The farmers near Cecilton are having considerable trouble with their binders. The agents they purchased them of have neither twine nor repairs; and we think they ought to be more particular in buying the machines, so they could contract with the agents to furnish the necessary repairs and twine.

The roads at this time are receiving considerable attention. Great improvements are being made, and we trust that in the future we may continue to have them under the management of such efficient men as our fellow-townsman, A. H. Redding. FIRST.

A Card of Thanks.

GALENA, June 25, 1884.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these of my brethren, ye have done it unto me."—Matt., chap. 25, verse 40.

We hereby tender our most hearty and sincere thanks to those kind people of Galena and vicinity for their christian ministrations and kindnesses, which they most freely extended to our beloved son and brother during his illness, and for the kind regard they evinced for him after his triumphant death. They will ever be cherished in our memory with the kindest feelings; and may that kind God, who has seen best to afflict us, be pleased to shower upon these kind, dear friends His most choice blessings. Yours, in gratitude, J. R. RUSSELL & FAMILY.

THE CHARGES AGAINST LAWYER RIDER.—The Balt. Sun of the 20th instant says: Thomas F. J. Rider, a lawyer, of Salisbury, Wicomico county, of some political prominence in that locality, was before United States Commissioner Rogers yesterday on the charge of taking a greater fee than the law allows for services in procuring a pension. The prosecuting witnesses were two colored women, but the charges grew out of investigations made by Frank H. Sprague, special agent of the pension office. Mr. T. J. Bruington, formerly a merchant of Salisbury, now of Baltimore, testified that his firm cashed the check received by Jane Walles for $1,536. Mr. Rider coming in the store with her. Of the money $148 60 was paid over to Rider, and he was in addition credited with $5 on a store bill. John T. Moore, of Laurel, Del., and Thomas W. Ralph, a notary of Laurel, testified that they signed as witnesses a contract sent by Mr. Rider for Jane Wailes to sign. She lived near Laurel. The contract provided for the payment of 10 per cent. to Mr. Rider for collecting the pension, less $25 paid by her. Mr. Rider testified that the contract was on file in the pension office in Washington, but it was for $25, not for 10 per cent. He said the amount paid him out of the check was for legal services in ascertaining the pecuniary standing of eight persons that he was considering about investing the pensioner's money with. A similar charge was made in the case of Annie Banks, colored, who drew $1,650 pension money on account of her son, who had served in the army. Mr. Bruington testified that he paid Mr. Rider $159 95 out of Annie Banks' check for pension money. Mr. Rogers said the law prohibited any one from taking a greater fee than $10 for services in procuring a pension. He required Mr. Rider to give bail for court in $2,000, which he was not able to give yesterday. [The bail was reduced to $1,000 on the following day and Dr. Edwin Eareckson became his surety.] Mr. Rider has been prominently mentioned at different times as a democratic candidate for Congress in the first district, and has also been mentioned for judge.

TROUBLE ON THE NEW B. & O.—There has been considerable discontent among the Italians working on the new Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for the past week. It is stated that last week one of the sub-contractors on the section near Principio, named Donnelly, went off, leaving the men without their pay. This greatly exasperated the laborers, and threats of violence were heard. Later another sub-contractor named Wallace also disappeared just before pay day, last Wednesday, leaving his Italian workmen unpaid. This infuriated them and they became uncontrolable. In large numbers they followed a son of Wallace, and O'Leary, partner of Wallace, wherever they went, making threats, and at last arrested them and held them as prisoners.

On Monday Sheriff Smith with a posse of four men, went from Elkton to release the prisoners, and the State's attorney awaited a dispatch from him before starting. When the sheriff and posse arrived on the scene they found matters not exaggerated. There was a mob of Italians in force, numbering about one hundred men. They surrounded his wagon greatly excited. Through an interpreter the sheriff informed them that they were officers, armed with authority, and that Wallace, the absconding man, was only a sub-contractor under Hannum & McHugh, the real contractors for the section with the Baltimore & Ohio, and that they would be compelled to pay the debts of the defaulter. This satisfied the mob, and the sheriff demanded young Wallace, and finally got him. O'Leary had escaped from the shanty during the night. Sympathy is with the Italians, who have worked a whole month, and now get no pay.

THE LEILA TO BE SOLD.—The Board of Public Works has decided to sell the oyster steamer Leila. The boat was never suitable for the work required of her, and as she will now require extensive repairs it has been thought best to get rid of her. The officers and crew have been discharged, except the captain, first officer and chief engineer, who are retained on pay.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

In an editorial on Senator Bayard's Dover speech, the Boston Herald (ind. rep.) says: "Senator Bayard's speech delivered at Dover, Del., in 1861, ought not to materially injure his strength as a candidate, and probably would not in the East. The worst sentiment in his speech, from the Union standpoint, was one which was expressed by many good citizens, that it was not wise to enter upon a war of coercion. He was was wrong, as Horace Greeley was, and as Winfield Scott was; but how many would have favored the war in 1861 had they foreseen its cost? There was nothing in the speech in favor of secession, or indicating that the South had a good reason to secede. It breathed the hope that it would again return to the Union. That was twenty-three years ago. Mr. Bayard has been in his long public service honest, highminded and patriotic. Men who were original and violent secessionists are now high in the counsels of the government. Why should a severer standard be applied to Mr. Bayard than to these? Is there really any danger that, if elected President, he would prove to be an enemy to his country?"

The Easton Ledger, Talbot county, says: "Democrats who are urging Cleveland as first choice put their preference on the ground of policy, arguing that he can carry New York and win the election. It is time the democracy had dropped policy candidates; it is time to try a campaign with a candidate nominated not for his supposed availability because he is comparatively unknown, but a candidate most truly representative of the principles of the party and most conspicuous in maintaining them. Senator Bayard is that man. If New York is democratic and would give its vote to Cleveland but would not give it to Bayard, New York democracy needs a new birth."

THE Democratic Advocate, Westminster, Carroll county, says: "When Mr. Tilden declined a renomination the eyes of democrats everywhere were turned to Gov. Cleveland as the next best man for leader. With Cleveland as our leader New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana are certain to cast their electoral votes for the democratic nominees. These States, with the always certain democratic States of the South, render their election certain."

The New York Times asserts Cleveland's ability to carry New York, and ventures an explanation of some attempts that are being made to exaggerate the significance of the omission to instruct for Cleveland and the discontent of Tammany as follows:

"The enemies which Gov. Cleveland has made by his unswerving adherence to a high standard of official action are trying hard to induce prominent democrats at Washington and elsewhere to believe that there is really a formidable opposition to him in this State, and that the action of the Saratoga convention was unfavorable to his candidacy at Chicago. All that was done at Saratoga was to avoid a contest on the matter and to leave the nomination to be made by the national convention. As the Governor's friends had the power in their hands, this action indicated confidence in his strength throughout the country based on the admirable record he has made in this State. That Cleveland can carry this State by a vote which no other democrat can command we regard as certain. It is equally certain that he can carry the neighboring States of Connecticut and New Jersey, and there is a strong probability that Massachusetts and New Hampshire will go with them. There is also plenty of evidence that the reform Governor is strong in the South and West, and would gather up more doubtful votes than any other candidate. Opposition that comes from disappointed applicants for official favors is always active but never extensive."

John Kelly, the Tammany leader, made the following statement on Wednesday in regard to the presidential nominees: "I am opposed," he said, "to Gov. Cleveland, but only because I believe that there are other men who are better fitted to receive the nomination than he. I have been brought in contact with many people, both republicans and democrats, throughout the city, and they all express a wish that Bayard should receive the nomination. I hope so myself, and believe that if nominated he would be elected. The opposition to Bayard because of his so-called record is absurd. In fact I think this 'bloody shirt' business is played out."

At the meeting of the independent republican committee in New York on Tuesday a committee was appointed to prepare a documeut, addressed to republican voters, setting forth the reasons why they should not vote for Blaine and Logan.

Campaign Humor.

The only J. G. B. the New York Herald will support is James Gordon Bennett.—Washington Republic (Rep).

Ratified candidates and rectified whiskey are absorbing attention throughout Republican States.—St. Louis Critic.

The Republicans made a great miss in neglecting to indorse in their platform the Bartholdi pedestal.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Ben Butler is the original and only performer able to do a double shuffle on two platforms without missing a step.—Troy Telegram (Rep).

Beecher insist that Hayes was a political poultice, but a very weak one. He was only strong enough to draw Mr. Tilden's salary.—San Francisco Examiner.

Henry Ward Beecher wants to be counted against Blaine "100 times." Does the divine propose to train with the repeaters next fall?—Chicago Inter-Ocean (Rep).

One of the Chicago papers puts it as "Blaine's tin pan boom." They probably resorted to a tin pan rather than a drum because they couldn't beat the tattoo.—Dubuque Democrat.

In placing Logan on the ticket instead of nominating a colored man, the Republicans wished to acknowledge the war record of a hero. Every Confederate knows what a panic fear seized the Southern regiments whenever the voice of Logan, thus addressing his men, was heard upon the austral breezes: "Fellow soldiers! the eyes of the world is on us! I hope nobody won't give no quarter in the battle today! I don't propose to give no man a show! Their graves is dug! Forward, march!"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DOWN UPON THE IMPORTATION OF CHEAP LABOR.—The passage by the House last week of the labor contract bill makes a second step in the line of legislation of which the anti-Chinese bill was the first. Like the anti-Chinese measure the labor contract bill is designed to protect the American workingmen against the unfair use made by some employers of imported "cheap labor." So long as the American employer asks for high tariff taxes on imported goods, professedly in order that he may be able to pay higher wages than are paid abroad, he should not expect to add to his artificial profits by importing labor under contract to accept wages not up to the American standard. That would be getting the government's bounty to manufacturers under false pretenses. The bill just passed makes it unlawful for persons or corporation to encourage foreign labor to come over under contract, and hence forbids the prepayment by employers of the passage money of laborers.

SUSPENDED BETWEEN HEAVEN AND EARTH.—A derrick on the tower of Grace Church, New York fell on Tuesday, carrying with it a mass of timber. Joseph McKee, the derrick rigger, and Robert Simpson, a mason, were caught in the ropes. McKee was rescued and sent to the hospital, where his injuries were pronounced serious. Simpson remained suspended in the rigging below the edge of the tower, 165 feet above the street, for a considerable time, but was at length rescued. His right leg and arm were broken and his chest badly crushed. He died Tuesday night. Several large stones crashed through the roof of the church, causing damage to the amount of $5,000.

NOT FOR BLAINE.—Senator Camden says the claim that the republicans are going to carry West Virginia "is a part of the bluster with which the Blaineites propose to carry on the campaign;" that "Blaine has no more show of carrying West Virginia than he has of carrying Kentucky." Mr. Camden adds that "there are a dozen men who have never been in West Virginia who have ten times the amount invested there that Mr. Blaine has."

THE speedy opening of a national bank in Salisbury is an assured fact. The $50,000 necessary to start the bank has all been subscribed locally. A building committee has been appointed and the site selected and purchased, which is one of the best that could have been made, being situated on Main street, opposite the Peninsula Hotel.

THE wealth of the United States is estimated at $50,000,000,000, that of Great Britain $40,000,000,000. The wealth per inhabitant in the United States $900, and in Great Britain it is $1,000. In the United States 72 parts of the wealth go to labor, 23 to capital and 5 to the government.—Boston Journal.

A SARCASTIC delegate at Chicago said when "the Blind Orator of Ohio" went on the stage to nominate Blaine, that it was a case of "the blind leading the blind, and both would fall into the ditch."

THE New York Sun says that the gloomiest place in the country is Wall street; and the gloomiest men there are those who thought themselves beyond financial disaster two years ago.

BALTIMORE MARKET.—The Baltimore papers of yesterday quote as follows:

WHEAT—Longberry $1 06@1 09; Fultz $1 06@1 08 for fair to good. CORN—White, prime 71@72; yellow, 62@64. OATS—Maryland, 38.
