SATURDAY MORNING..... JULY 26, 1884.

LETTER FROM ROCK HALL.

Messrs. Editors :—We were somewhat startled by the division as to Chester river in the Capt. Downey case. In calling it an absurdity we mean no reflection on Esquire Wheatley, who in a case of such importance undoubtedly consulted higher authority before rendering. Yet, we are too obtuse to understand what tribute a river can receive from water that invariably runs away from it during flood tide. The argument of the learned counsel that the water of the bay merely shouldered in that direction, like any other indenture of the shore, and then shouldered out over Swan Point bar, we in our innocence supposed was incontestible proof that it was part of the bay, that could not be shouldered into, or constitute any part of the river. Yet, if the State has a right to pass a law defining the boundaries of its rivers, independent of the law of nature, the decision was much less absurd than the law it was intended to test, which is claimed to be for the protection of our fish supply. Now, the law, places no limit to taking during the spawning season, consequently untold millions of embryo are destroyed every year; but, as soon as the season is over, those that have deposited their eggs and escaped, must be protected till they are ready to reproduce themselves the next spring; this, forsooth, is preserving the fish. As well might the poulterer kill his hens when they were ready to lay and then expect to have chickens for market. If a law was passed prohibiting taking one year in five, or even ten, during the spawning season, it would do much more towards increasing the supply than all the summer prohibitions that can be made.

Our new road to Deep Landing is progressing finely and will be quite an exception to this part of the country, as it will be ornamental as well as useful. We have named it Damascus street, as we can call it straight without any qualms of conscience. Since our last we have obtained from an old resident, who got it from his grandmother, a bit of history which explains the "choptanks" of our roads. The contractor who opened our first road had the timber as part of the consideration, so when he saw a valuable tree he curved the road so as to take it in, and so our eternal zigzags are owing to the best trees not placing themselves in a straight line. We often hear of Yankee sharpness but this we think out doodles any Yankee we ever knew.

A thunder cloud passed up Chester river the other night giving us one of the grandest displays of lightning we ever saw; its peculiarity was the duration of all its phases; first the cloud would become a vast sheet of flame, which after several seconds would be cut into two or three, and one time four different seams, by streaks or chains like molten steel, which would break up and fly in all directions like thousands of fiery serpents, and at times the serpents would dart out of the cloud and shoot towards the chains, which would break up and meet them in venemous strife. As we sat and looked at them it required but a small stretch of imagination to hear them hiss defiance and rattle their fangs as they met in relentless combat. We hope not to be accused of atheism if we thought this was a solution of the mystery of the plague that befell the camp of Israel in the wilderness for which Moses set up the brazen serpent or emlfyo lightning rod. Indeed it would not be the least wonderful if a generation who had probably seen but one thunderstorm, and that one of the miraculous plagues of God upon the land of Egypt, who upon such a visitation as we have tried to describe, should think it a flock of serpents, which rarely strike a living creature but with fatal effect.

A correspondent thinks we shall have political mud-throwing. We would like to know where he'd get it if it does not rain soon? We understand the drouth is caused by the death of Vennor, and the new man has not got his hand into weather-making, but hope he will before the late crops are seriously damaged.

We observe the book imp, the fruit-nursery demon and the pack-peddler are making their annual havoc in the county. Even the honorable prefix to D. D. seems no protection from their invidious attacks. We understand that our worthy neighbor with that title has been induced by the fruit demon, under the name of David, to give an order for $35 worth of his stuff, worth ——; the book is Dobbins' "Chain of Error." We are sorry he has left the soap business, which we could heartily endorse, and gone into bookmaking of doubtful utility, as we are not likely to fall into Japanese errors and the matter of lucky days, planting by the moon's phases, tobacco, whiskey, with the hundred and one errors of Kent count are entirely ignored.

We wish here to congratulate the head of the enterprising firm of Leary & Son on his exaltation to the sublime degree of grandpa. As we looked at the insignia of his office he smiled full in our face a happy, healthy smile, which made us feel as we always do under such circumstances that we had obtained a fresh glimpse of paradise, the smile being supplemented with a wink, which showed the wonderful insight he had obtained into human character during his seven weeks experience. Great Darwin! if such things evolve from monkeys, let us have monkeys.

SCRUTATOR.

THE LARGEST SHIP EVER AT BALTIMORE.—There arrived at quarantine yesterday in tow of the tugboat Kate Jones, Captain Fooks, consigned to George H. Edgar & Co., the new ship John Rosenfeld, the largest sailing vessel ever to enter the port of Baltimore, and the largest ever launched from the shipyards of Bath, Me. This leviathan is of 2,374 tons register, has a carrying capacity equal to 3,700 tons of grain, is 255 ft. keel, (270 ft. over all,) 44 ft. beam and 28 ft. 6 in. depth of hold. She has double decks. The cabin and forecastle are each about 40 feet by 35 feet square. The former has a fot ward and after compartment, with bath-room, dispensary and staterooms, large and rich in their appointments. The cabins are finished in polished cherry, upholstered in old gold and plush, old gold carpets and cherry furniture. This mammoth vessel carries skysails on all three masts. The main skysail measures 35 feet from arm to arm, and the main yard 88 feet across. When under full sail the Rosenfeld spreads 7,000 square yards of canvas. The Rosenfeld was built at Bath by Arthur Sewall & Co., who, with John Rosenfeld, of San Francisco, after whom she is named, and Captain J. G. Baker, her master, are the owners. Capt. Baker was lately in command of the ship Henry Villard and is known in Baltimore as the master of the ship Sterling. The Rosenfeld is rated A1 for 14 years, and cost about $120,000. She brought 500 tons of hard coal as ballast from Bath, and will load 1,500 tons of same coal here for San Francisco, the first shipment of that kind of coal for many years. The cargo will be completed with 1,500 tons of bituminous coal, which will be the largest load of coal ever to leave Baltimore in a ship's bottom. —Sun, Tuesday.

W. J. LUCAS, Sheriff of Owensboro', Kentucky, but formerly a resident of Centreville, Md., was shot and killed on Monday morning by an armed mob while heroically resisting their attack upon the jail for the purpose of lynching one of his prisoners.

COL. WM. P. CRAIGHILL, United States engineer in charge of the channel approaches to Baltimore, states that the depth of 27 feet at mean low water in the channels gives greater depth at low water than New York or Philadelphia, though those cities at high tide have a greater depth than Baltimore.

THE President has received a dispatch from Queen Victoria conveying her congratulations on the rescue of the Greely party.

"I THINK, I shall never leave America again," said Evangelist Moody, who arrived from London on Sunday. "I am pleased with my success in England, but I think my future field lies in America." Mr. Moody, now in New York, will begin his revival work in September.

WYE CAMP will begin next Tuesday and continue ten days.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

SENATOR VOORHEES, of Indiana, was interviewed in Cincinnati Tuesday. He said: "The democratic ticket, in my judgment, is the strongest that has been made since 1856. The ratification meetings are spontaneous and immense, even in a few hours' notice. They are as large as those which occur usually at the close of a canvass. There is no doubt of Indiana going democratic by a good, strong majority. There is no disagreement in our State. Indiana clubs of republicans who will not support Blaine are being formed all over the State. One was organized Monday in Indianapolis, in which were men who have heretofore led in republicanism and who were conspicuous for their efficient work. I never knew better feeling in Indiana. I had a long talk with Mr. McDonald this morning. He in fine spirits and is acting superbly. He will give the ticket an earnest, industrious and warmhearted support. Mr. Hendricks is also in excellent health and spirits, and entertains not a doubt of the ticket's success in Indiana, and of its election. There never has been any such convention in point of numbers and character in the history of the country."

FROM BLAINE TO CLEVELAND.—The Blaine Campaign Club of the Sixth Ward, New York city, practically went out of existence Thursday night, when all but two of the members assembled at their club room and organized a Cleveland and Hendricks campaign club. The bolt from Blaine to Cleveland was led by Mr. John Lyon. In clear, terse and forcible language he gave his reasons for his change of political faith. Mr. Blaine in his opinion, represented a party whose necessity of existence died with the star-route frauds. Mr. Blaine's own life did not reflect the virtue and integrity which should be prominent characteristics of a man seeking to sit in the chair of Washington and Lincoln. Mr. Lyons did not believe in the dead issues of other campaigns. The war was over and the bloody shirt should be buried. The country's prosperity had been achieved when taxes were oppressive and the government rotten at its core, and he did not therefore think that the prosperity should be accredited to the republican party but to its own innate forces. Cleveland came before the people fresh and vigorous with an unsullied name and a record brilliant from the Governor's successful efforts in sweeping away rings and lobbies.

HON. DANIEL DOUGHERTY, of Philadelphia, who strongly favored the renomination of General Hancock for President, visited Governor Cleveland, at Albany, and had an extended interview with him. Mr. Dougherty expressed himself as delighted with the interview, and "is thoroughly satisfied that the Governor is a very strong man." He says Governor Cleveland "is genial in manner and full of the ideas of reform and sound democracy."

TO THE inquiry as to the whereabouts of the star-eyed goddess of reform, Colonel Watterson, in the Louisville Courier-Journal replies: "Modest and smiling, she is sitting, like the virtuous and industrious maid she is, upon the National Democratic platform, knitting a pair of gloves for Grover Cleveland to wear when he takes the handle of the mop with which he is to scour the Augean stables."

WEST VIRGINIA this year is of the October States. The election to be held on the second Tuesday in October, will be a general State election. A Governor, two judges of the Supreme Court, attorney-general, auditor, State treasurer, superintendent of schools and county officers are to be chosen.

HON. ROSWELL P. FLOWER, whose presidential boom went so sadly to pieces, expresses himself as being entirely satisfied with the democratic ticket, and says he will give both his time and his money to its support. Mr. Flower predicts that GOV. Cleveland will carry New York by 60,000 majority.

AMONG the latest reported recruits to the Democratic fold from the Republican ranks is I. N. Mills, Esq., superintendent of the Delaware Railroad and a politician of note. Mr. Mills says he is still a Republican, but not the kind of Republican that Blaine is, and will not support him with Cleveland in the field.

A LARGE meeting of wealthy and influential colored voters was held in New York Saturday evening, at which the merits of Blaine and Cleveland were discussed, after which a Cleveland Colored Campaign Club was formed and a resolution to support Cleveland unanimously adopted.

A GENTLEMAN who has recently had an interview with Mr. Tilden says that the latter expressed the opinion that Cleveland would be elected by a good majority, and would have a larger majority in New York than Tilden had.

HON. SAMUEL J. RANDALL, in a letter to a friend in Lynchburg, Va., writes: "Let us now all, with one mind and earnest heart, do our uttermost for the success of the democratic presidential ticket.

OMENS abound. John Mulligan, of Far Rockaway, N. Y., while at a bar said, as he raised a glass to his lips: "I'll bet my life that Blaine is elected." He fell to the floor dead as he uttered the last word.

Our WAGONS, CARTS, AND DEARBORNS,

We have justly earned the high reputation we hold as manufacturers by our manner of doing business—

We give our own personal supervision to every minutia in building;
