SATURDAY MORNING.....Sept. 13, 1884.

DISHONESTY AND SUICIDE.

A Bank President Cuts His Throat—More Than $1,000,000 Stolen.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 8.—The suicide of Cashier Hill, of the National Bank of New Jersey, who put an end to his life last week, was followed today by the suicide of the president of the bank, Mahlon Runyon, who cut his throat this morning in a private room of the bank building. The news of Cashier Hill's suicide last week was followed by a run on the bank on Friday and Saturday, and by the discovery that the dead cashier was a defaulter to a large amount. It was also charged that President Runyon was implicated in Hill's embezzlements.

At 9.45 this morning President Runyon drove up to the bank in his carriage, accompanied by his two daughters. "Good-bye, pap," said Julia, the eldest, reaching out of the carryall as Mr. Runyon descended to the pavement, "I hope all will be well." "If you do not see me before night," he responded, "tell mamma I will stick to the bank."

Twenty minutes later he sent Chief Fitzgerald, who was in charge of the bank, for a copy of the New York Times, in which a story was told of his complicity in the bank's downfall. Securing the paper he went into the room occupied by the organizing directors and began to read. A deathly pallor spread over his face, and he exclaimed: "My God, what will my children do!" Passing a handkerchief over his brow he threw the paper into the lap of Director Stoddard, and excusing himself, went into the toilet-room of the bank.

A minute later the sound of a fall was heard. The directors rushed to the closet and discovered the body of Runyon on the floor. The blood was oozing from a gaping wound in his throat. Determined on suicide, he had cut his wrists deeply, the blood spurting against the wall and ceiling.

In the meantime the bank was besieged by an immense throng of depositors, who threatened to burst in the doors and take possession of the institution. The news of President Runyon's suicide raised the excitement to fever heat, and the town was filled with rumors of every character. Examination of the bank's books showed that the amount of Hill's defalcation would exceed $1,000,000 in surplus cash and securities. Several trust estates have suffered, among them the Ira Voorhees estate. Over $19,000 of this estate was taken and over $30,000 of the Adrian estate. Only three days before his death Hill had sold $60,000 in government bonds belonging to Runyon. The crash in Wall street in May last swallowed up the bulk of Hill's stealings.

The June statement of the bank placed the paid up capital at $150,000, the surplus at $125,000 and the undivided profits at $78,180.

Joseph Fisher, the custodian of the Voorhees estate, denied that he had taken strychnine, although he said his whole life was bound up in Hill, and when Hill went he thought he might as well follow him. When asked what he knew about the trouble he fell to the floor fainting, and was carried home. Director Stoddard was seen at the bank. The white marble floor was stained with the blood of the president, which had flowed out from the room in which he had cut his throat. "My God!" exclaimed Mr. Stoddard, in answer to a question as to the financial consequences of the bank's suspension, "the whole city will go under. The city debt is now nearly two millions, and the bank holds its paper. The savings banks have gone under, and we have their capital."

Acting Cashier Campbell acknowledged that he had carried money to New York for Hill for investment, but claimed that he himself was innocent of any wrong-doing. He was afraid to say anything lest he should be expelled by the directors. He said Hill was beset by politicians, and ruined himself by his aid to the republican party and by his expenditures in Wall street and on the turf. Hill wanted a newspaper and put money in the hands of Tindell & Hose to start the Evening Star, a republican paper, designed to denounce the management of affairs by the democrats. Hose left the city to avoid a libel suit, and the paper suspended.

The wildest excitement still prevails in the city, which is crowded with country and other depositors, who still threaten an attack on the bank. One hundred special policemen have been sworn in to guard the bank. Walter Carroll, a depositor, has cut his throat.

AN APPEAL TO THE DEAD!

Ohio's Republicans Ask Help of Lot M. Morrill—Indignant Reply of the Widow—What the Deceased Statesman Thought of James G. Blaine.

Correspondence of the New York Herald.

AUGUSTA, ME., Sept. 2

The late Senator Lot M. Morrill of Maine represented the purest and best methods in politics, as his successor, James G. Blaine, represents the worst. The clear facts of Blaine's ten years' leadership of the party in Maine leaves no doubt on that point. When Senator Morrill resigned the Senatorship to accept the Treasury portfolio under Grant, as it will be remembered, Mr. Blaine was appointed his successor. Senator Morrill died here eighteen months ago. His widow, who is the daughter of the late Mr. Vance, who in his day was one of the most prominent citizens of this section, lives in a pleasant home on Winthrop street, this city. She is a lady evidently of great force of character and was the valued associate, confidant and helpmate of her distinguished husband, both in the Executive Mansion of this State and during the many years of his residence at Washington as Senator and Secretary of the Treasury.

Mrs. Morrill was recently surprised to receive from Ohio an official letter directed to her late husband. Opening it she found it to be a very importunate appeal to Senator Morrill to visit Ohio and to lend his aid in saving the State to Mr. Blaine. Mrs. Morrill turned the sheet over and wrote on its back an indignant reply and mailed it forthwith to the gentlemen who had signed the appeal.

THE OHIO LETTER.

To a question of the Herald correspondent as to the Ohio letter Mrs. Morrill said:

"Some six weeks ago I received a letter from Columbus, Ohio, on a sheet with printed head representing some political organization. I was so surprised and indignant at its contents that I did not particularly notice whether it was from a State committee or some political club, but it was signed by a Mr. Brown, as chairman, and a Mr. Ogden, as secretary. It was, as well as I can remember, about as follows:

Senator Lot M. Morrill:

Dear Sir—The situation in Ohio is a critical one. The party is in trouble on account of the attacks on Mr. Blaine as the candidate of the party. Your well-known character as a pure and upright statesman, and coming from Blaine's own State, you could refute the charges as no one else can. We hope you will come to us in this emergency, and make as many speeches as possible.

REPLY OF MRS. MORRILL.

"I was indignant and amazed that any Republican should be ignorant that my husband was dead. I was more indignant that he should be asked to assist in making Mr. Blaine President. I at once sat down wrote on the back of the sheet this reply, as near as I can remember it. I am now sorry that I did not keep copies of both the letter and of my answer:

To Brown, Chairman, Columbus, Ohio:

I am surprised and shocked to receive such a communication. I thought every citizen of this country knew my husband was dead. I am in mourning for him, but, as I mourn his death, I thank my Father in heaven that He called him home before the party he loved so well and did so much for had so disgraced itself as to nominate so wicked and corrupt a man for the highest office within the gift of the American people, as I know and my husband knew, James G. Blaine to be. If he were alive he would not support Mr. Blaine or any such man, even at the bidding of his party. CHARLOTTE MORRILL.

BOLTING FROM BLAINE.—Mr. H. C. Hunt, of Albany, N. Y., a member of the Grand Army and a leading republican, has written a letter to a comrade in which he says: "I have been known to you for many years as a most uncompromising republican, and I am going to surprise you by stating that for the first time in my life I cannot support the nominations of the republican party. If there is any organization in the world to which I am attached it is the Grand Army of the Republic, and when I see that they are trying to use it for purely political and partisan ends, I believe it is time for an honest Grand Army man to rebuke such attempts to lead us like cattle to the shambles by either voting against the candidate or not voting at all. There is another reason—two in fact: Our party has nominated a man for Vice-President whose record as a Grand Army man is not very creditable to our organization. He was virtually expelled because he thought so little of it as not to pay his dues. Then, again, for the first place on the ticket our party has named a man who has been assailed as corrupt by the very best elements in that party, and this very day there is no republican paper or orator to offer the slightest defense to the charges brought against him. Therefore, for this election at least, I shall vote for the reform Governor—Grover Cleveland."

A JUDGMENT was filed in New York Saturday for $713,125 against the firm of Grant & Ward in the suit brought against that firm by the Marine National Bank.

On the 23d of this month the autumnal equinox will occur, and after that date the nights will exceed the days in length.

MEETING OF TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

A BRIEF OUTLINE OF PROCEEDINGS.

The first regular meeting of the Kent County Teachers' association for this scholastic year was held in the schoolroom at Chestertown Saturday, Sept. 6, and as is usual a goodly number of the teachers were present, though the day was a hot one and roads very dusty. The proceedings of last meeting were read and approved. The chairman appointed as literary committee, John F. Copper, Mary E. Nowland, William T. Brown, Isaac R. Starkey and Caroline J. Smyth. Music committee, Isaac R. Starkey, Mrs. Mary E. Gilpin, Nettie Gooding Wm. G. Fallowfield and Virginia Miller. Finance committee, Thos. B. Long, H. C. Wallis, Ella L. Adkinson, Virginia Johnson and J. F. Copper.

The first question on the programme was called up for discussion, "The law provides for the teaching of good behavior, What does it include, and how shall we teach it?" Mr. Fallowfield, Mrs. Gilpin, Mr. Melvin, Miss Leaverton, Miss Watts, Miss Roberts and the examiner discussed the question. The opinions expressed were in concord with each other. Such things as obedience to the teacher's requests and commands, to the rules of the school, respect for the rights and feelings of fellow-pupils, etiquette and ethics, a proper respect for the teacher every where and respect for parents, were believed to be included in "good behavior." Some would teach it when occasion demanded, that is when the rules of good behavior were violated, others thought special instruction should be given, deeming it of as much importance as any other study required by law. Mrs. Gilpin and the examiner read extracts from Swett, relating to the subject.

Under Questions and Answers, the examiner asked, What should be done with a pupil who would come to school day after day and answer no questions and recite none? A member related an instance in his experience of a little girl who was mute for three weeks, and no amount of coaxing could get her into a talking mood. Another said that a little girl in her school would talk none at school but would read very readily at home, yet after three months that little girl had to be punished for excessive talk in school. It was the opinion that speech would come after awhile and the teacher would have to be patient and wait.

The president read an excellent address, and it received the respectful attention of every teacher, and was especially replete with valuable advice and sound instruction to the teachers present who were just commencing their career. Particularly did he lay stress on the importance of laying a sure foundation at the beginning of school life, and recommended supplementary readers as an auxiliary in teaching reading. A communication from the Board of School Commissioners was received, in reply to a resolution adopted by the Association at a previous meeting. It was asked by the teachers that in the average attendance of pupils the inclement days interfering with the attendance be excluded, but the school board deemed the suggestion neither desirable nor practicable. A motion was made by Mr. Copper to have one session, which was adopted.

Mr. Melvin gave notice of a resolution he would call up at the next regular meeting, to amend the Article IV. of the Constitution relating to meetings, so as to change the time for the first meeting, from the first to the second Saturday in the fall term. Miss Downes asked if it is desirable to teach the chapter in the school geographies about the District of Columbia and government of the U. S., to pupils of the 5th grade. She thought they comprehended very little of the matter, as did Miss V. Power, Mrs. Stephens. Mr. Melvin selected paragraphs, so did Mr. Brown. Mr. Melvin announced the death of a Mr. George Godwin, a native of Queen Anne's, who taught at Lambson's Station for a year but had resigned that appointment, and had secured the appointment as teacher at Chesterville. His death created a vacancy at that school. On Mr. Melvin's motion a committee consisting of Messrs. Fallowfield, Brown and Forman to draft resolutions of sympathy, was appointed by the President, the committee to report at the next regular meeting.

The Literary Committee reported the following questions, which were adopted to be discussed at the meeting in November:

1—"How can self-reliance be cultivated in pupils?"

2—"By what means can we make our pupils better readers?"

The second question was called up for discussion—"How shall the intermediate and final examination of the year be conducted?"

Mr. Forman opened the discussion by claiming that since the teacher is thoroughly conversant with ground covered in the instruction, he is the one to examine, and read from Francis W. Parker to help his argument. The examiner stated that if an examiner of schools has performed his duty as required by law, he is presumed to be as well fitted to examine the schools of a county as a principal of that department under his charge. Though it was not his desire to prepare questions for an examination, the teachers had requested that he would prepare them. He was of the opinion that more precaution to prevent cheating at the examinations was taken than their importance warranted. If pupils attempted to cheat, there was a defection in their moral training. He recommended that the intermediate examination be oral. Miss Leaverton was of the opinion that pupils in offering or giving aid, did not believe they were acting dishonestly, but were actuated by a spirit of kindness. Miss Spencer asked if pupils, after being examined, should be detained to study until the close of the session, she believing that the strain on their minds was too much for them. Miss Power detailed the plan of conducting examinations in the school at Millington.

On motion of Miss Power, the further consideration of the question was postponed until the next meeting, to come up as unfinished business. The president announced that the revised by-laws would soon be ready for distribution, and at one o'clock declared the meeting adjourned. —Transcript.

The Festival at Lynch's.

SEPTEMBER 6, 1884.

It was the wish of the ladies of I. U. congregation that I should acknowledge for them their deep sense of the kindness of the friends, who, solicited and unsolicited, contributed so largely to make their festival at Lynch's a success. This I did in a brief letter addressed to the "News," August 25, which I supposed would be in time for that week's issue. As it did not appear, we looked for it in the following week's issue; nor was it there. So I fear it was not received. Writing from a distant office, near where I was staying, it may have miscarried. We are sorry for the omission, and we now ask the favor of you to publish this note of explanation, and the original letter if it has come to hand. We would not like to seem unmindful of the kindness and liberality of the community who favored us so cheerfully with their gifts, and whose presence on the occasion helped to make it a season of delightful social enjoyment.

The P. T. Band most amply fulfilled expectation, and added materially to the pleasure of the occasion, which all admit was one of real and harmless gratification. M.

A VALUABLE BOOK.—We have received a copy of a book entitled "Gaskell's Compendium of Forms: Social, Educational, Legal and Commercial," by Prof. G. A. Gaskell, principal of Bryant & Stratton's business colleges at Manchester and other places. The book claims to embrace a complete self-teaching course in penmanship and book-keeping and aid to English composition, together with the laws of social etiquette, business laws and commercial forms; political and biographical dictionary; manual of agriculture, mechanics and mining, and a complete guide to parliamentary practice, the whole forming a complete encyclopedia of reference; elegantly illustrated. We have given the work a hasty examination and regard it well worth the price asked.

PEOPLE ordinarily take it for granted that religious liberty prevails throughout the United States. It is not so. The State constitution of New Hampshire—made by the republican party—has a provision that "only Protestants are eligible to the office of Governor, or as Senators or Representatives." Others take it for granted that in no part of the country is the right to vote or hold office hampered by a property qualification. It is not so. Under the State constitution of Rhode Island—made by the republican party—only property owners can vote or hold office. —Easton Ledger.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers.

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro."

Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable.

J. T. HAYES."

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

THE REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered distressing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

—IS THE—

for NEATNESS OF WORK and lightness of draft to the team. As I have ordered a large number of these plows, both two and three-horse, farmers will do well to give me an early call.

We also keep on hand, the old reliable Concave Nos. 9, 10 and 11. Polished Minor & Horton, Wiley Nos. 3 and 4, and Two-Furrowed Plows, Harrows, Twin, Single A, and Double A, Cultivators and Cultivator Teeth unsurpassed by any manufacture. Single, Double, 3 and 4 Horse-Trees and Hames.

As there have been a great many Chilled Plows sold in these counties, and as farmers have been put to a great deal of trouble to get Castings for them, if they will only give the name and number of the plow we will endeavor to keep them on hand at my shops in Galena and Chestertown. I always have on hand Plain and Slip Shares for the Ohio, Oliver, Roland, Advance and Syracuse.

If any of you are in need of anything in my line, please give me a call as I intend to sell low for the cash.

Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same.
