SATURDAY MORNING.....Oct. 4, 1884.

TAMMANY'S HASTY ACTION.

Tammany Hall, at its county convention in New York on Monday, nominated a straight ticket, headed by Alderman Hugh J. Grant for mayor. It was supposed that the organization would confer with the County Democracy, and at least make such an attempt toward a combination ticket as has been the practice heretofore, but nothing of the kind has been done, and the Cleveland democrats are loud in denunciation of Tammany's course, saying that it means a clean trade with the republicans or a sell out to them. The result of this action will be to put three tickets in the field. The Cleveland democrats will have to run one and the republicans another. This will give an opportunity for the liveliest kind of trading on election day, in which the national candidates for President and Vice-President may be knifed and traded for local candidates. The general feeling is that Tammany has been hasty. In calling the convention to order John Kelly was greeted with applause and said:

"So far as I understand, you propose to hold this convention as the representatives of the democratic party without regard to other organizations. Before, when we conferred with other bodies, we bartered away our rights—in one instance by means of a lottery in a hat. In selecting your candidates remember Thomas Jefferson's words: 'Is he honest? Is he capable?' If so, he will do to send before the people. The world may say what it pleases about us. We believed that the nomination at Chicago was an unwise one; but Grover Cleveland is the nominee of the democratic party, and we will not separate from the party we have all known and loved so long. We shall give Cleveland and Hendricks a full, fair and honorable support."

Tammany, true to its record, will of course make the best bargain possible in order to secure the municipal offices. This in their estimation is paramount to all other considerations, and they will deal with the party or faction which will secure to them the most votes. The organization has no national politics and the loaves and fishes is to it "the pearl of great price." The New York Herald says: "If Tammany could give to Blaine just twice the vote she is really able to give—even then Cleveland would carry this State by an overwhelming majority."

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE AND THE UNION PRINTERS.—Mr. Alvin D. Brock, of the government printing office, at Washington, who conducted the negotiations between the New York Tribune and Union printers, has addressed a letter to "the printers of the country and workingmen generally," dated New York, in which he says:

"It becomes my painful duty to announce to you that all negotiations, which have been prosecuted vigorously here for the last two or three weeks, looking to an amicable compromise of the unfortunate difficulties which have existed between the Printer's Union of this city and the Tribune and Whitelaw Reid, have been definitely broken off, and solely, as I declare, through the enormous obstinacy and unexplainable fatuity of the editor of the Tribune. Twice, if not three times, has what seemed to be a complete understanding been reached by the parties in interest, and as often have they been broken off by the interposition of some new point, some fresh technicality, and finally by the insistance upon the part of Mr. Reid of a clause of a proposed agreement which, if accepted by Union No. 6, would give away their whole case, and abrogate the vital principle upon which the very existence of their union—yea, of all trades-unions—depends. They, the negotiators, ought not to have accepted the conditions. They could not accept them if they would, and they did not.

"I am compelled by the strongest consideration of duty to my fellow-workers everywhere to denounce Mr. Reid and the Tribune, 'founded by Horace Greely,' as the arch-enemy of them and their cause. Professing to be the great exponent of 'protection to American industry,' the foremost journal of the republican party, whose battle-cry and tocsin this is, I denounce him and the Tribune as the most unrelenting foe to American labor. I denounce him and it as in practice the unrelenting enemy of trades-unionism, which, with all its faults and shortcomings, with all its mistakes and blunders, is the embodiment of all that is of any real effect in the doctrine of protection. Trades-unionism is the only hope and salvation of the workingmen of this or any other country, as society and government now exist, and he who strikes at its existence, as does Mr. Reid in the Tribune, is the workingman's bitter foe.

"I denounce Mr. Reid and the Tribune as the most dangerous and powerful enemy of James G. Blaine, whom he professes to support and defend.

"Fellow-craftsmen of No. 6, go on with the good work of boycotting the Tribune and we will all turn in and help you with renewed vigor.

THE STAR-ROUTE FRAUDS TRACED HOME.—The committee on expenditures in the Department of Justice has concluded its investigations of the star-route frauds. Its report reminds us of the familiar fact that not only contractors but many persons in high official stations in the government were participants in the thefts of the star-route coterie. There was fraudulent service upon 93 routes. Upon 40 of these the fraudulent payments aggregated $2,172,132, not to mention the losses incurred upon the other 53. During the Hayes administration the losses to the government from star-route frauds exceeded $4,000,000. A route is mentioned from which the annual revenue was $761, and upon which during 39 days not a single letter passed. Yet this route was "expedited" at a cost of $50,000 per annum. As much as $50,000 a year was given on another route, the mail of which the contractor could carry in his boot leg. Mr. Bliss' management of the star-route cases is criticised. The report closes with the significant remark that whatever the cause of the failure of the star-route prosecutions, the fact is incontestable that no civil suits have yet been instituted to recover the vast sums confessedly stolen from the government.

OYSTERS SUFFERING FROM THE DROUTH.—The long drouth has not only damaged the crops throughout the State, but has had an injurious effect upon oysters. This might appear strange to many not posted in oyster culture, but it is nevertheless true. In the absence of rain the streams of fresh water flowing in the tributaries of the bay have been very meager, and the oystermen say that there has not been sufficient fresh water mingled with the salt water of the rivers for the development and fattening of the oyster. This is applicable especially to the beds of tongmen planted in shallow water for shipment in barrels. And several in the Patuxent river have taken up the oysters and removed them to the small streams of fresh water emptying into the river. This is accounted for by the oystermen from the fact that at the head of the streams there is more nutriment for the oyster on account of the vegetable matter contained in the fresh water, which, as a general thing, flows through rich marshy and grassy soil, and that a better protection is offered by the soft bottoms of the streams. The tide carries a sufficient flow of salt water to the removed plants to enable them to retain their flavor.

BLAINE'S RUMORED ALLIANCE WITH JAY GOULD.—The Washington correspondence of the Baltimore Sun writes:

Some of Mr. Blaine's friends here are privately boasting that Jay Gould and several of his fellow-jobbers have promised to make in a very short time a large contribution to the campaign fund. In return for this it is understood that Blaine promises, if elected President to use his influence to secure a repeal of the Thurman funding act, under which the Pacific railroads are required to pay their long-accruing indebtedness to the government. Mr. Blaine opposed with all his power while a member of the Senate the passage of this act, and therefore it would be entirely consistent for him to advocate its repeal. The Union Pacific Railroad owes now to the government nearly $12,000,000, and is resisting the payment by all possible means, compelling the government to go into the courts. If Mr. Blaine should be elected the company would depend on his favor to escape altogether.

REV. WM. MCCOMBS, a venerable clergyman of the M. E. Church, who has been in ill-health for several years, died of pneumonia on Saturday morning at his son's residence, Philadelphia. He was 79 years old and a native of Newark, Del., and had been a member of the Philadelphia Conference since 1859. Mr. McCombs was three times a delegate to the General Conferences and once Presiding Elder of the Easton (Md.) district. He was granted a supernumerary relation in 1877, and has lived in retirement since then.

NINETY-TWO PRISONERS, five of them sentenced for life, are confined in New Castle (Del.) jail.

A GREAT MASS-MEETING.

The democratic mass-meeting held in Monument Square, Baltimore, last Monday evening under the auspices of Irish-American citizens of Baltimore was a great demonstration. The Sun says that the people packed all the standing-room of the square from the north side of Lexington street up to and beyond the Battle Monument, and they remained solidly together during the whole evening. The platform was a large, substantial one, decorated with the American and Irish national colors, and the names of Cleveland, Hendricks, Cole, Findlay and Compton were prominently displayed. There was an array of forcible speakers, including Mr. F. G. Maxwell, of Balt., who presided; Gen. John O'Byrne, of New York; Congressman Post, of Pennsylvania; Hon. Charles H. Winfield, of New Jersey; ex-Gov. Pillsbury, of Maine, and Mr. J. C. Monaghan, of Providence, Rhode Island.

Ex-Gov. E. P. Pillsbury, of Maine, said he was used to talking to audiences, but he was not used to speaking to them by the acre. He said he lived for fourteen years as a neighbor of Mr. Blaine, and as a scheming, underground, burrowing politician that gentleman has no equal. But what great act has he done that was for the good of his country? In the civil war Blaine was drafted, but he secured a substitute for two hundred dollars, and the substitute did not go to the front, but was given a soft place at Augusta, Me. There he gave out forged exemption papers, was detected and imprisoned. The substitute afterwards got his full pay for the time he was in prison, and the city of Augusta refunded to Mr. Blaine the $200 he paid for the substitute. [Laughter.] Mr. Blaine when first elected to Congress, was assessed in Augusta as worth less than $1,000. In twenty years in Congress, with an aggregate in salaries of $100,000, he has saved several millions of dollars and built fine residences and supported costly establishments. The speaker gave details of the native American party movements in Maine, with which Mr. Blaine, although born a Catholic cooperated. When the war came on Mr. Blaine and his substitute looked on complacently as the foreign-born citizens marched to the field of battle to give their lives for the country. Mr. Blaine, he said, will take any side or do anything that will in his belief promote his personal ambition.

Mr. J. C. Monaghan, of Providence, Rhode Island, followed Gov. Pillsbury. He is a young man, who said that from eight years of age he earned his living in the factories of Massachusetts. He said it is a disgrace that the republicans have dragged Irishism and hallowed religion into this contest. On the statute book of republican Rhode Island stands today a law that no man born on foreign soil of foreign parents can put a ballot in the box, not even the man who risked his life on the battle-fields of the country. She refused to give the women and children in her cotton factories who work eleven and a half hours a day a ten-hour-law. Her elegant homes are built upon the rotting bones of consumptives who were a sacrifice to the high protective policy of James G. Blaine. The speaker paid an eloquent tribute to the honest worth of Gov. Cleveland, and at the close of his address he was heartily cheered.

A YOUTHFUL AND MUCH MIXED MARRIAGE.—Scott Madkins, aged 19 years, and Annie Ingersoll, aged 12 years, the young aspirants to matrimony, to whom a marriage license was issued by the clerk of the circuit court of Worcester county about ten days ago, were married on Sunday, September 21, at the residence of their parents, about seven miles south of Snow Hill. The consent of the parents or guardian of the girl had been obtained by the minister before he performed the ceremony, as required by law. In 1878, Joseph Ingersoll married Georgeanna Madkins. By a former marriage Joseph Ingersoll had a daughter, the above-named Annie Ingersoll, and Georgeanna Madkins had at the time of her marriage a son, known as Scott Madkins. The marriage brought the young people in contact with each other almost constantly during the last six years. The father and mother of the young aspirants being husband and wife, with whom the lovers as children lived, it was easy for the young folks to secure consent. The marriage consequently took place, young Madkins, together with his wife, agreeing to remain under the further nurture and protection of their parents until the bride should have arrived to at least years of discretion. All the parties are white people.

THE breach of promise marriage case of Margaret W. Gordy against Henry Colloway, which occupied the Wicomico court two days, was ended by a verdict by the jury for $3,000 damages. The young man married another girl.

REV. A. W. LIGHTBOURNE, of Easton, Md., has resigned his pastorate of the M. E. Church of that town, and tendered to Dr. Caldwell, Presiding Elder, his parchments.

HAIR RENEWER
was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises.
The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.
The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.
