SATURDAY MORNING ..... FEB. 28, 1885.

THE FARMERS IN CONVENTION.

JUDGE ROBINSON ON THE TARIFF—HOG CHOLERA, FRUIT GROWING AND OTHER TOPICS.

The Farmers' Convention met in Baltimore on Tuesday morning in the hall, southeast corner of Holliday and Second streets. Judge John M. Robinson, of Queen Anne's county, presided. The Eastern Shore was slimly represented in consequence of the ice blockade, but we observe that Messrs. Thos. J. Shallcross and John Gale were present from Kent. In taking the chair, says the Sun, Judge Robinson, who is a good farmer as well as a good judge, delivered a pithy address, which was frequently interrupted by hearty applause. The condition of things brought about by the great extension of grain production in the West and cheap transportation to the seaboard was referred to. Prices had been reduced to a point below a living profit. The question confronts us whether we can still be competitors in the grain market. The average yield of wheat in this State is only 14 bushels an acre, and the average net price for the past year has been but a fraction over 80 cents. Such a business cannot pay the farmer. Wheat-growing will have to be abandoned or the yield to the acre must be increased. Smaller farms would promote better farming. In England farms average but 57 acres; in France still less; in New York and Pennsylvania, where the best results are obtained, the average is under 100 acres. In Judge Robinson's county, farms averaged 200 acres, many containing even 500 to 600 acres. Subdivision of farms and higher farming are what we need. These call for an increased population, and hence the importance of immigration.

Speaking of the farmer's burdens, Judge Robinson vigorously discussed the protective tariff. "What is that policy?" he said. "Now somebody proposes to manufacture iron. We have the ore, the coal and the labor, but we are told iron can be manufactured in England and sent three thousand miles across the ocean and sold here at a price below the cost of production. And Congress is asked to levy a tax of ten dollars or more on the ton, in order that the manufacturer here may have the privilege of furnishing iron to us at an increased price. And thus upon every pound of iron used, whether in the shape of a horse-shoe, a plough, or a self-binder we are obliged to pay a royalty for the benefit of this privileged class. Then, again, one proposes to manufacture cotton and woolen goods. We have the cotton grown on our soil, and we have the wool, but we are met with the same cry—such goods can be manufactured elsewhere and sold at a price below the cost of production. So Congress must levy a tax from forty to fifty per cent. on these articles. And the result is that everything we buy, from the coat on our backs to the stockings on our feet, is taxed, and this tax we pay for the benefit of the manufacturer. Now suppose we turn the tables and say we cannot afford to raise wheat at 80 cents a bushel, and ask Congress to levy a tax of 40 cents on every bushel, in order that we may get $1.20. What would be the universal answer? England tried it, but the cry for 'cheap bread' shook the throne to its foundations, and an unwilling Parliament was forced to repeal its oppressive corn laws."

Judge Robinson held that a tariff for revenue only would afford all the protection that every healthy industry needs. Before the war that was the settled policy of the government, and no public man was to be found in this State bold enough to advocate a tariff for protection. "And now," he said, "under the present oppressive tariff, instead of a steady growth and permanent prosperity of all interests, we find even the agricultural interests depressed, our commerce freighted by foreign ships, and with the manufacturers themselves, overproduction, suspensions, industrial convulsions, strikes, and bad feeling between capital and labor. And, instead of a tariff to defray the expenses of the government economically administered, we have a hundred millions of dollars, wrung from the hard earnings of the people, lying idle in the treasury, with all kinds of schemes, to squander it, thus corrupting both the government and the people themselves. You farmers have a right to be heard on this question. In numbers you constitute a majority, and upon your labor the common prosperity of the country mainly depends. Of the $833,000,000 of exports in 1881 agriculture and its kindred pursuits furnished over $700,000,000—89 per cent. of the whole. In 1880 the average was about the same, and going back for ten years you will find the average to be 82 per cent. Thus we see the relation which agriculture bears to our financial prosperity, and how any burden which affects it injuriously must affect the common interests of all classes."

Judge Robinson wound up his interesting address by a spirited advocacy of vim and enthusiasm in agricultural pursits. "The occupation of the farmer is one of patient labor and self-denial, but it is a life of independence and self-dependence. Here home, with all its hallowed associations, strikes its root deep into the heart; and here too, away from the fiercer storms and temptations of life, the highest type of manhood is developed; and this, after all, is the noblest aspirations of the soul."

After Judge Robinson's address the reading of papers was begun. Dr. D. E. Salmon, veterinarian of the United States Department of Agriculture, discussed hog cholera. He said it was an acute infectious fever; the germ of the disease is so small that one thousand millions could swim in a drop of water. The losses from this disease in the United States in 1883 was four million head of hogs valued at $20 each. The ravages in 1884 are not yet definitely known, but single counties lost a quarter of a million of dollars, and the loss in the entire country was probably fifty millions of dollars.

Dr. M. C. Ellzey, of Washington, D. C., read a paper on "Manures, and How to Use Them." He spoke learnedly of different fertilizers, and what they were good for, and when they should be applied.

Hon. Allen Bowie Davis delivered an address on the "Advantages and Opportunities of Maryland."

"The Hygiene of Farmers' Houses and Surroundings" was the subject of a discourse by Dr. Richard McSherry, in which he gave many valuable health hints. Secretary Sands read a brief paper by the Hon. Henry W. Archer, of Harford, on how to improve the fertility of lands which have been exhausted by injudicious cultivation, and how to increase the fertility of lands already rich and productive.

Ex-Gov. Hamilton spoke on the subject of cereals and said that with wheat at $1 a bushel Maryland should have no trouble in competing with the West. If the price is less than that, the quantity grown should make up the difference. A neighbor has harrowed and rolled a wheat field fourteen times, the idea being to get it in fine tilth, no matter how much labor it required. The yield was sixty-two bushels to the acre. If this example were followed the wheat yield all over the State would be much greater.

Col. Lemuel Malone, of Wicomico, made a biographical, historical, agricultural and horticultural speech, during which he circled the globe, and reached a climax in declaring Maryland the garden spot of the world, and the Eastern Shore the garden spot of Maryland. Laughter or applause followed almost every sentence.

Ex-Congressman B. T. Biggs, of Delaware, spoke on the cultivation of fruits. He referred to Gov. Hamilton's statement of raising 62 bushels of wheat to the acre, and said he could beat the Governor making money, even had the Governor raised 100 bushels of wheat to the acre. He could take the poorest acre of Queen Anne's county and do it by raising peaches. He has 1,000 acres in peach trees and 10 miles of hedges. He took in $6,000 last year clear of freight and commissions from 60 acres. Has now 30,000 peach trees, exclusive of other crops.

A committee of one member from each county and from each of the agricultural associations was appointed to take into consideration and mature a plan for a permanent organization of the farmers of the State, and for an annual convention thereof. Mr. T. J. Shallcross was appointed from Kent county.

A committee on permanent organization was appointed and it was decided to hold annual meetings. The convention was in session two days.

THE PIG AND THE ROOSTER MAN.—P. B. Lespinasse, of Spring Valley, Rockland county, New York, arrived in Baltimore Monday on his way to Washington. He carried on his arm a bristling white pig and a big rooster, both of which he intends to present to Mr. Cleveland on March 4th, provided the police don't interfere. A large crowd of boys followed him as he walked along Baltimore street to the Carrollton Hotel. He will remain here for several days before starting on his trip to Washington. His object in making the trip, he says, is to redeem a bet of $1,000, which he made with a Rockland county farmer on the result of the presidential election. The farmer consented to cancel the debt if Lespinasse would walk from Madison Square, New York city, to Washington, carrying a pig and a rooster. He left Madison Square February 2, and stopped over several days in Philadelphia. He says he feels all right. The pig and rooster seem very fond of each other. If the rooster is taken out of sight of the pig the latter will squeal until his companion is brought back.—Sun.

LETTER FROM STILL POND.

EDITORS KENT NEWS:—The encomiums heaped on "Jack's" devoted head for comparing the people of Still Pond to a starved horse have been anything but flattering, but with my usual good luck I have managed to survive the pressure and will now add chapter No. 2 to my Still Pond correspondence.

Since writing my last the skating craze has struck us—we've got it bad. An enterprising manager from Middletown has moved his stock in trade to our village and taken possession of our town hall. For five days he hopes to entice the nimble sixpence and the unwary quarter from the pockets of our citizens. The old, the middle-aged and the young have all got the fever. As yet the success of the skaters is mostly confined to seeing which can assume the most graceful attitudes on the floor. Go it, my friends, practice makes perfect in this as in other things, and I feel sure the storekeepers under the hall will be glad to see you acquire sufficient skill to retain your equilibrium.

Our Concert Troupe is herd at work preparing for their first entertainment. Like many other amateur companies they find that to bring out an acceptable entertainment requires a whole heap of hard work; but while we cannot all become a Forrest, a Sothern or a Booth, yet persistence will accomplish much, and with the talent at their command they should not entertain such a word as failure.

Our pastor, Rev. L. E. Barrett, preaches his farewell sermon here next Sunday week, March 8. During his three years' residence with us he has made himself dear to the hearts of his congregation, and it is like severing one of the dearest links in friendships chain to have him leave us. For natural eloquence Brother Barrett has few equals and we predict for him a bright and brilliant future.

Ralph Bingham returns here Tuesday next, March 3. The entertainment is to be given under the auspices of the Hall Company.

It seems to be the general opinion of our farmers that the crop of peaches have not been injured. With every indication of a short crop of wheat, it will go hard with some of our farmers should the peaches also fail them. I do not believe in "meeting trouble half way," and shall look for a good crop of fruit, until we know something positive to the contrary.

Last Sunday being missionary day the scholars of the M. E. Church Sunday School held possession of the church during the evening. The exercises all tended to show the need of the doctrine of Christ among the heathen and the hardships that are undergone by the missionaries. As a solid result of the work of the Sunday school, the collection footed up something over $154. That this amount is less than last year may be explained by the hard times and scarcity of money among the farmers.

The bay at Betterton is still a solid sheet of ice. For nearly two months not a boat has been able to make a landing at that wharf. Some of our storekeepers who get their purchases by boat will be glad to see navigation open. As they depend on that channel for most all their packages, the ice embargo has already proven a source of much inconvenience.

The postoffice at this village now seems to be the bone of contention. There are quite a number of aspirants, but as only one can be successful there is bound to be some disappointment. Most all the applicants have out petitions, but I have an idea they will not amount to much with the incoming administration.

February has given us a parting blast in the shape of a big snow. Our young people are taking advantage of the opportunity and while I write our village is full of merry sleighs.

STILL POND, February 25. JACK.

NOTES FROM EDESVILLE.

Valentines—Fire—Erratum—Facts—Controversy.

Valentine day passed off very quietly, but for several days of last week the postoffice attendants were kept pretty busy and the amount of valentines, both comic and sentimental, that passed through the office here would astonish one. We think the sale of comics should be prohibited, as they are carried to such extremes by some people; they often cause an ill-feeling between neighbors as well as others. Quite frequently the wrong person is accused of sending them. There were some received at this office that were surely vile in character, the blank part of them being filled with writing of the most threatening and obscene language. In our estimation this is nothing more nor less than blackmailing and in such instances steps should be taken to discover the sender. By this means it would put a stop to the miserable practice.

Mr. S. Burgess, a merchant of Edesville, came very near meeting with a severe loss by fire a few days ago, but fortunately the flames were subdued before they gained much headway. The fire originated in a room over the store in which the children had been playing and it is thought they accidentally pushed the bed or clothing against the stove pipe, and after the children came down in a short time Mr. Benjamin Durding, a brother-in-law of Mr. B., had occasion to go to the room and found it filled with smoke; he immediately called for assistance and by the united efforts of Messrs. Burgess & Durding managed to smother the flames, or else the entire building might have been consumed, as it was only the bedding was burned.

Messrs. Editors, your correspondents in the old fifth are getting to talk and write pretty wildly; some of them have missed the mark in facts. Perhaps it is because they do not know the correct thing as we do in the cases we are about to mention. It is our endeavor to state nothing but facts and we never do anything else with such things as come directly under our observation, but in case of hearsay we may deviate a little and that is simply because we are wrongly informed, for it is certainly not our wish. Therefore we take the liberty to correct "Dixie's" statements about the number of calves and hogs Mr. C. C. Wood has lost. None of his hogs have died and only eight calves. The number of hogs that Simon Smith has lost does not exceed one dozen at this writing. We get this from the owners of the stock.

We wish to say to "Our Constable" that it is not our desire to occupy space in the News, even with your permission, dear sirs, in silly controversy, but do think it just and proper to give him a word of advice and consolation. We are very sorry to have been the cause of his sitting up late, or early, to compose or compile, (we think the latter), and write such a lengthy and novel-like epistle, when he might have employed his time much more profitably and agreeably by learning other lessons from the lives of Franklin Pierce and Thomas Jefferson, as we think a few more would be useful to him; and such a story as "Constable's" sinks the deepest in the softest ground. But we are glad to know, Brother Constable that there are others who think and view matters as we do and not from a political standpoint, and to those we say, judge for yourselves; and to those who are strangers to the vicinity and citizens we say, well, there are two sides to every picture; and Dear Constable you need not be worried about your official being defamed and circulated into the hands of two thousand people. Fortunately you and I are not so widely known to the masses of learned and highly educated people that read this paper. Ever and anon. "Joe."

LETTER FROM FAIRLEE.

Messrs. Editors Kent News:—I had the pleasure of attending the Martha Washington Tea-Party on Thursday evening, Feb. 19th, in the Grange Hall, Fairlee. This supper and entertainment was gotten up by the ladies of the "Aid Society" of Salem M. E. Church. This society was formed in Oct. 1883, having as its object the advancement of means whereby they might be enabled to improve their church structure and to make it an attractive house of worship. As the name signifies it is under the control of the ladies of Fairlee and those living within a radius of five miles. The management is certainly very judicious. In the short time since its organization the members have realized the consummation of just what they desired, that of seeing their church building presenting to the public one of the finest audience rooms in the county. Beside the aid in the building improvement it has helped materially in payment of minister's salary, &c.

The supper Thursday evening was bounteous, and prepared to please the most fastidious. Martha and George were personated by Miss Anderson, of Philadelphia, and R. S. Diehl, of this county, very elegantly. Martha scarcely could have been more fittingly chosen, I think she was the ideal of the occasion with regard to representation. Mr. George, in the most elegant of habiliments, with the hatchet in his hand, was generally admired and particularly by the ladies, who thought him better looking than the old Gen. whom he so well personated. The cake and ice-cream tables were handsomely arranged in the second story of the hall. And under the supervision of the charmingly affable and cultured young ladies of the society and adjacent neighborhood. They, or at least quite a number, were dressed in keeping with "ye olden times." The Gypsy Maid in her tinsel array was greatly admired. The "Pomona Trombones" kindly furnished most excellent music, in such manner as to meet the approbation of all present. This is a band, with Mr. John H. Redue as leader; a gentleman versed in music. The Trombones are becoming generally known, and on former occasions have assisted the "Aid Society" in attaining the stand which it now holds in a pecuniary relation to the church. To them and to the public and to all who so generously helped in making the entertainment a grand success, the ladies extend their most hearty thanks. The Grange Hall was brilliantly lighted and reflected credit upon the directors of the building. It is a commodious Hall, 3 stories high, store-room on first floor and the second and third for use as a hall. We are snow bound at present, but it seems to be settling rapidly. Sleighing seems to be the order of today. NOW & THEN.

Cherry Plains, Feb. 25, 1885.

SENSIBLE VIEWS.—Andrew F. Bradley, a prominent colored man of Chicago, publishes an open letter to Mr. Cleveland, in which he urges the promotion of fraternal feeling between the colored people and the democrats, and predicts a division of the colored vote if this is done. He recognizes the result of the late election as a national admission that reconstruction was a failure, and declared that the sudden elevation of colored men into the rank of citizens was unnatural. "Men," he says, "make freedmen, God makes free men." He says the colored people cannot afford to spurn the friendship of half the white people of the country, and that the friendship of the democrats is just as desirable and sincere as that of republicans.

AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the VIGOR is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRICHER writes from Kirby, O., Jan'y 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The VIGOR is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANGUS FAIRBAIRN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbairn Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1882: "Ever since my hair began to give signs of weakness, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly use but one bottle of the VIGOR, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

COAL & WOOD

WINTER is here and Christmas is coming and to be up with the times we have concluded to give a full dress parade of

during the holidays, which we think is about as needful as any other present you can make to friends, for when you are cold from the winter breezes there is nothing that can keep you as warm as the Coal and Wood you buy. And the place to buy these articles is at Bacchus' Coal and Wood Yard.

I am thankful for your liberal patronage which you have given me.

Yours, resp'y,
dec. J. D. BACCHUS,
