SATURDAY MORNING. .....May 30, 1885.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES.

In pursuance of the action taken by the County Executive Committee on the 12th day of May, 1885, the Democratic voters of Kent county will meet at the usual places of voting, in their several election districts, between the hours of 2 and 6 P. M., on Saturday, June 6, for the purpose of conducting the primary election and of selecting five delegates from each election district to meet in convention at the Court House at 11 o'clock A. M. on the following Tuesday to nominate one candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court, one candidate for Register of Wills, one candidate for Sheriff, two candidates for the House of Delegates, five candidates for County Commissioners and one candidate for County Surveyor.

In this connection it is deemed proper to append the following rules and regulations for conducting the primaries:

1st. That the executive committee from each district have power to appoint in their respective districts, three discreet men, who shall act as judges of the nomination, and shall have power to appoint clerks.

2d. That, in voting at the primaries, no one shall be allowed to vote whose name does not appear upon the registration book of the district in which he offers to vote.

3d. That in receiving the votes the judges shall be assured that the party offering to vote is a Democrat.

4th. That it is the sense of this committee that the nominations shall be made by the district plan.

5th. That as explanatory of the district plan the following be taken: Each district shall appoint or elect five delegates, who shall meet in convention at the Court House in Chestertown on Tuesday succeeding the primaries, at 11 o'clock A. M., to nominate and publish the names of candidates for all offices to be filled—provided that each district shall be entitled to one candidate for County Commissioner who shall be voted for only in the district in which he may reside;—provided, further, that all candidates shall be voted for at the time of the appointment or election of delegates. The candidates or candidate having a plurality of the votes in the district shall be entitled to the votes of the delegates from such district in the convention.

W. S. WALKER,
Chairman County Executive Committee.

Chapter on Progress—Wanted by the Sheriff.

Messrs. Editors:—Progress is imprinted on every page of our history as a people. When a nation or any component part thereof fails to make progress, it almost always relapses into barbarism, or at least into a state of semi-civilization. Egypt, Turkey, Greece and Rome may be cited as exemplifying this fact. Egypt, once the land of wealth, the mother of arts and sciences, giving subsistence to a vast multitude of famine-stricken emigrants, is now too poor to expect any power "to do her reverence." Comparing the magnificent Empire of Rome with the Italian kingdom of this era, and the same great truth is discovered. We need say nothing of Babylon, Assyria and other mighty anti-Christian nations.

Advancement is the normal condition of man in all ages of the world. The various subdivisions of a nation or State will generally partake of the character of the whole. So now no single State of the Union is very far behind in the race of improvement; and if, as Dr. Chancellor suggests in his interesting paper presented to the Farmers' Convention held at Baltimore in February, the useless and insalubrious marshes of Maryland could be thoroughly and permanently drained, Kent county would indeed become a second land of Goshen, and the whole State as the valley of Shiraz.

The rapid and substantial progress made by this county in the last half century is too apparent to be ignored by the most careless observer; and is a matter of honest congratulation. To attribute it to any one cause would be false and unfair. The principle one is beyond question the spread of the blessed gospel of God. "Blessed are that people whose God is the Lord," and this has been proved by experience and observation, as well as by the word of Divine Truth.

As a corrollary to this, industry and sobriety have taken the place of idleness and drunkenness. Economy and thrift have superseded extravagance and wastefulness. Our citizens are able to live better and with less expense. My mechanical skill and inventive genius have supplied better implements by which labor is more easily and thoroughly performed. Intellectual and aesthetic culture have felt the general impulse, and given impetus to the whole. Men read more and think deeper, and various organizations, as clubs and grages, have intensified the broad desire for information. Railways are wonderful agents of progress in all directions of human activity.

People go abroad and return with a fund of new, and often better ideas, and meeting with favor, find in the end general acceptance. So others coming among us impart improved methods both of work and living. Contrary to the counsels of some of our oldest, wisest and most successful citizens the forests of Kent have been denuded, and among the results are these two: a great change in climatic conditions and a great destitution of potash producing plants. The great log fires in every family, seen in 1820 and 1830 are now nowhere to be seen, and so the great ash-heaps, for which solid brick vaults were often built, have also disappeared. With the supply of potash then attainable, and the lime and clover, the lands of this county were brought from a condition of utter sterility to a state of gratifying productiveness, without a thought of stimulating or exhausting ammoniacal compounds or poisonous acids.

Two negroes, one a bright mulatto and the other of ebony complexion, are on a tour of the country. They journey together and while one entertains the family the other goes through the domicile, appropriating what money and valuables he can find. On Tuesday they passed through the village of Fairlee, and finding our worthy shoemaker busy at his bench, and wife and children absent, one of them occupied the attention of Mr. Wells while the other explored the premises up stairs and down. They carried off a clock, and but little else of importance, Mrs. Wells fortunately taking her purse with her, and Mr. W.'s money was in a box which the rogue failed to find. They had paid a previous visit to Mr. J. Thomas Blackiston, near town and secured considerable booty. They broke open a little box at Well's and found some lines of poetry on the inside pasted on the cover, these they probably read and then threw away. The following is a part of the poem:

"Man hath two attendant angels
Ever waiting by his side;
With him wheresoe'r he wanders
Wheresoe'r his feet abide.
One to warn him when he's erring
And to reprove him if he stray. * *

"One severe and silent watcher
Noteth every crime and guile
Writes it with a holy duty
Seals it not, but waits a while
If the evil doer cry not
'God forgive me' ere he sleeps,
Then the sad stern spirit seals it,
And the gentle spirit weeps."

Perhaps the fellow thought the lines too appropriate for his case. SIMON SHARP.

MARYLAND TRACT SOCIETY.—The forty-first annual report of the Maryland Tract Society has just been published. The work in Baltimore is arranged in districts, with a force of voluntary distributors, numbering two hundred or more, by whom religious literature is distributed to the poor once in each month. In addition the shipping is visited, while penal institutions, hospitals, reformatories, associations, churches and individuals are from time to time supplied. Outside the city, where application has been made or the way providentially opened, literature has been cheerfully and promptly furnished. Five colporters have been employed in the past year. Despite the reigning business depression, a good work has been accomplished. Families visited, 15,446; families conversed or prayed with, 9,053; families destitute of religious books, 2,227; families destitute of the Bible, 1,894; families who neglect evangelical preaching, 3,058; books sold, $428 64; tracts distributed, pages, over 2,000,000; prayer-meetings held or public meetings addressed in the State, 613. The society is non-sectarian, and appeals to all denominations for help. The Rev. R. Scott Norris is the agent.

"REPAIRS" TO NAVAL VESSELS.—One of the most significant evidences of the great need of the change of federal administration brought about by the election of President Cleveland is afforded in the statement of Secretary Whitney in his letter to Commodore Russell that the reconstruction of the U. S. steamship Mohican "has cost the government at least three times what a new ship of the same character and class could have been built for." It has often been asserted in recent years that the amounts expended for "repairs" to government vessels at some of the navy yards have been greater than their original cost, and Secretary Whitney's discoveries in the case of the Mohican would seem to lend official confirmation to the view that the money thus wasted might have sufficed to provide the country with a really formidable naval armament in place of the present fleet of miserable inefficient and obsolete vessels which is now dignified by an official euphemism with the name of a "navy."—Baltimore Sun.

District Preachers' Association.

[Reported for the Kent News.]

The Easton District Preachers' Association met in the M. E. Church, Chestertown, Monday evening at 8 P. M. Rev. H. S. Thompson, Easton, Md., preached a very excellent sermon from Phil. 2: 5.

On Tuesday morning at 8.30, and after devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Mr. Townsend, Galena, Md., the address of welcome was made by Rev. J. D. Kemp; responded to by Rev. J. H. Caldwell, D. D., in very fitting terms. Rev. A. S. Mowbray then read an excellent essay on "Easter, When and Why?" The question, "Ought a minister to leave his regular appointment to preach a funeral sermon of a church member, or of any person?" was taken up. Rev. G. W. Townsend opened the discussion and was followed by Rev. R. K. Stephenson, W. J. O'Neill, T. L. Tomkinson, J. H. Caldwell and J. D. Kemp.

"Can the pastors generally carry into effect paragraph 52 of the Discipline?" was very fully discussed by Rev. T. L. Tomkinson, W. J. O'Neill, H. S. Thompson and others.

At the afternoon session the question: "Is it practical for the Wilmington Conference to raise her quota of the million for the missionary cause?" was debated by Rev. John France, Alfred Smith, I. D. Johnson, T. L. Tomkinson and others; some holding the affirmative and others the negative, and each showing the strength of their positions.

Rev. J. B. Quigg then gave a very strong and lucid speech on the Conference Academy. All who heard it must have been impressed with the fact that through this medium our church is destined to do a grand work on the Peninsula if our people will rally to its help. No other institution of learning, south of Wilmington, compares with it. In the lead now, it will go forward with grander hopes and capabilities, if we all stand by it.

The evening session convened at the appointed time to listen to an essay by Rev. J. H. Caldwell, D. D., on "What are the standards of doctrine referred to in paragraph 71, sec. 2, and paragraph 218, of the Discipline?" The essay was both scholarly and masterly, and was listened to by an appreciative audience. He showed clearly that our articles of religion, Wesley, Fletcher, Benson, Clarke and Richard Watson are the standards to which reference is made in the question. On motion the association adjourned to meet at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

According to adjournment the association met at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and the devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. W. J. O'Neill. The question, "What can we do to sustain our Conference Board of Missions, and build up our waste places?" was opened by Rev. G. W. Townsend—Revs. John France, W. J. O'Neill, J. B. Quigg and Dr. Caldwell followed with good and strong speeches showing the importance of this work and how it may be accomplished. Then came the essay, "Pulpit Plagiarism," by Rev. J. T. VanBurkalow. This essay created considerable discussion and a resolution was offered condemning plagiarism, but after much discussion the whole matter by motion was laid on the table.

"The question, "Shall we have a District Temperance Convention, according to the resolution of our annual conference?" was discussed by Revs. John France, John B. Quigg, W. A. Barton and others. On motion it was decided to hold such a convention in Smyrna, Del., and a committee composed of the following was appointed to arrange therefor: Revs. J. B. Quigg, T. L. Tomkinson, H. S. Thompson, J. D. Rigg and J. D. Kemp, and Messrs. Joseph Smithers, Walter H. Thompson, C. H. Baker, E. P. Janvier and Dr. Arthur Sudler.

Then came the question, "Did the Book Committee do right in refusing to provide for paying the salary of Bishop Taylor?" Debate was opened by Rev. W. J. O'Neill, followed by Revs. J. B. Quigg, VanBurkalow and Dr. Caldwell.

The evening session was opened by Rev. G. W. Townsend. Rev. J. B. Quigg made some very beautiful remarks in regard to his long residence in this place, giving therein some wholesome counsel to those who have recently started in the "new and living way." Next came the essay, "Inspiration of the Bible," by Rev. J. T. VanBurkalow. The essay showed much study and preparation and did the speaker credit.

On motion the association adjourned by singing the doxology and the benediction by Rev. J. B. Quigg.

The Agricultural Association.

Messrs. Editors:—The following resolutions will be offered for discussion and adoption at the next meeting of the Agricultural Association, Monday, June 1, at 2.30 P. M.

RESOLUTION 1. Whereas, the use of whiskey at harvest time has been abundantly proven to be damaging to the harvest hands, causing injury in many cases to animals and machinery. Therefore, Resolved by the Kent Co. Farmers' Association, that the association advise all farmers, in their own interests and the interest of their hands, to discard entirely the use of liquor during harvest.

RESOLUTION 2. Whereas, very much of the sickness and a large percentage of the deaths in the county are caused by ignorance, imprudence or negligence, and as far as these causes are concerned, are largely presentable. Therefore, the Agricultural Association of Kent County respectfully petition the county commissioners to employ a competent physician to prepare once in two weeks an article for publication, equal in length to one-third of a column in the KENT NEWS, stating the diseases prevailing, and likely to prevail at the time of writing, the general symptoms of the same, the wisest precautions to be used to prevent said diseases, and the most efficient home remedies to be employed in case of an attack.

RESOLUTION 3. Whereas, it is generally thought that the cholera will visit this country during this summer; and whereas it is a well-established fact that bad sanitary surroundings, impure water and filth of every sort largely increases danger and virulence of the disease, and whereas, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," Resolved that the Kent County Agricultural Association, respectfully petition the county commissioners to appoint a sanitary commission consisting of one prominent physician and two intelligent citizens, who shall visit all the towns in the county during the month of June, except Chestertown, examine carefully their sanitary condition, character of water supply, drainage, &c., and report the same to the county commissioners for their action, and said sanitary commission be allowed ten working days to complete the examination, and the physician to receive the same pay as the return election judge, and the two citizens be paid the same per day as road examiners.

COMMENTS.—The first resolution is so eminently right as to need neither explanation or argument.

The second resolution if faithfully carried out would probably do more to improve the general health of the county, thereby attracting the best class of emigration, increasing the value of real estate and consequently the taxable basis, than any single act as yet performed by the county commissioners, and would at once be a very popular with all classes of the community.

The third resolution seems to be the first and only way that at present presents itself whereby the county can officially act to prevent the approach of cholera, and to lessen its malignity if it should appear, and this official act, by showing the necessity for the careful removal of every cause of infection, would greatly stimulate private citizens to put their premises in the best sanitary condition, and even if the cholera should not visit the county this alone would justify the entire expense of the commission, and the saving of one valuable and useful life would compensate for all the cost. When the county would if necessary expend $500 or $1,000 to try one criminal, how much more imperative does the small expense of such a commission become, when possibly much sickness and some deaths may thereby be prevented. "To be forewarned is to be forearmed."

It is hoped that many citizens and every member of the association will be present next Monday, June 1. PARTICEPS.

Ex-Soldiers Give Up their Pensions.

A good-looking, well-built man came with the crowd of callers at the pension office Tuesday morning and entered the room of First Deputy Commissioner McLean. When his turn for an interview was reached he asked the deputy to be allowed to see the commissioner.

"The commissioner is busy, sir. If you wish to see about a claim or to secure an appointment, we can attend to the matter here."

"I want to have my pension stopped."

The deputy commissioner looked at the man—then at his papers—then at the man again, and finally touched his bell-button and sent a messenger for the record.

"Have you considered this step sufficiently, sir," asked the deputy. "You are, I see, receiving seventy-two dollars a month—nearly a thousand dollars a years."

"Yes, I have considered it. The government has done enough for me. I want to give it up."

"Have you a great abundance of means?"

"No, but I have enough for comfort."

"Well, I guess you had better see the commissioner."

Col. McLean thereupon introduced the visitor to the commissioner.

After a short interview a record of the case was taken in order that the pension might be canceled "upon claimant's request." The man's name is Snyder. He belonged to a New York regiment. Gen. Black says this is not the first case of the kind within his knowledge. Not long after he entered the office a Kentuckian named Stevenson sent on his certificate, with a request that his claim might be canceled. He surrendered at the same time quite a large fund of accumulated pensions which he had never drawn. He wrote that he was convinced he had fully recovered from his disability.

The Temperance Question.

Messrs. Editors:—In the last issue of your valuable journal I was surprised to find that a "quorum" of the "Kent County Temperance Alliance" met on Tuesday, 14th instant, at Chestertown, and "dissolved" the Alliance. The brief notes published by the secretary give no reasons for this singular and extraordinary proceeding. I do not think the temperance people of Kent will endorse any such action. If such a course had been contemplated, why not let the fact be known, so that the temperance men of the county could have been more fully represented. This was the regular annual meeting, and we did not suppose that anything else was contemplated than the usual routine of electing officers. We did not for a moment imagine that a mere "quorum" would take upon themselves the responsibility of dissolving an organization which had been in existence for years, without assigning definite and sufficient reasons therefor. Common courtesy should have suggested the postponement of such action until a meeting could have been called of all concerned to take into consideration this specific matter. But we wake up to find that Cromwell has appeared and Parliament is dissolved. We find, further, that this "quorum" was as expert in bringing into existence new organizations as in dissolving old ones. It took but a few moments after the Alliance was throttled to bring a new order of things into being—"Presto, change!" and the "Kent County Temperance League" walked forth like a giant fully armed. He unfurls his banner with the inscription, in large characters, "non-partisan." Indeed! what a wonderful revelation! What does it all mean? Was the old organization, which this "quorum" so summarily sniffed out of existence, partisan? I have attended several of its meetings and I never heard or saw any partisanship displayed. Yet it must have been or why should this new organization lay such stress upon the word "non-partisan." The whole thing looks like a piece of spite work against the State Temperance Alliance. Because that organization, by direction of a majority vote, gave countenance to the third party movement last fall some gentlemen will never get over it. If their favorite—Mr. Blaine—had been elected President, this action of the 14th would never have been heard of. The State Temperance Alliance has rendered efficient service in the temperance campaign in this State—it assisted us in the campaign for local option in Kent and common gratitude should suggest better treatment of an organization that has done so much good. The action of this "quorum" virtually says to the temperance men, who in the exercise of their rights, voted for SIR JOHN, "We do not want you—we are non-partisan."

I have long been of the opinion, Messrs. Eds., that temperance men should come closer together; it is a great work in which we are engaged and we need harmony and union of effort—without these we will fail. But if this "quorum" thinks their action the best way to secure the triumph of temperance principles, the future will open their eyes to see their error. Nous verrons.

May 27, 1885. FAIR PLAY.

DEMOCRATS FEELING BETTER.

A Belief that the Administration Intends to Make a Thorough Overhauling.

A recent letter from Washington to the Philadelphia Times says: A decidedly better feeling toward the administration is observable among Democratic politicians here. This improved tone of sentiment probably arises from the belief that removals and appointments are soon to move along with more celerity, and from the growing conviction that President Cleveland's conservative course was quite the proper thing to begin on, after all, and that he will come around all right. It is easy to see the change, without being able to give tangible illustrations. There are not so many place-hunters hanging about the hotels to foment discord, and this may give some color to these impressions. Those who are here now, however, may be assumed to be good samples, and among them the talk takes a more comfortable tinge. The small fry follow the leaders, and possibly get their cue to some extent from men like Mr. Randall, Mr. Watterson and other eminent politicians, who have united apparently in praise and active support of the President. Senator Beck's card helps this along. Senator Beck was supposed to be the most disgruntled Southern Senator, except Eustis, and Beck's rush into print to deny this and to show that his relations with the President are not only good but cordial and that he is in line with the new administration is deemed significant.

The truth is that the disposition to kick the administration to urge it along has been succeeded by calm political philosophy, since the discovery that blows and swearing made no perceptible impression on its movements. The out-of-town candidates and their "influence" who come here now are generally chary of alluding to the President in any but a complimentary manner. They come with siege trains and pick and shovel, so to speak, and are prepared to dig and wait. They do not expect, as the first comers expected, to go home within a day or two with commissions in their pockets. They are confident that the President means well and that he has set about to get there and will reach the same end they desire in the course of time.

That crowd of Indiana politicians which has been hanging about ever since inauguration until Hendricks went home, was the worst set that has been here. The men who composed it talked longer and louder and more discontented than any two other entire States. The impression among outsiders was naturally that they took their cue from Mr. Hendricks. Of course, he had to listen, but he might have taken frequent occasion to discountenance their sentiments of discontent. Now that these fellows have followed their idol to his Western home comparative peace hovers over the historic Willards. There is no doubt that the movement on the Virginia postmasters has had much to do with defending the course of the administration.

TERSELY STATED.—The Maryland Directory a well-edited colored people's paper, published in Baltimore, says:

"Howard Cooper, the colored man who committed an outrageous assault on Miss Katie Gray, a young white lady, in Baltimore county, April 2, ultimo, was tried in the Criminal Court of Baltimore City last Wednesday. The accused was accorded a fair and impartial trial, and his guilt was clearly established. His counsel, W. G. Weld and A. R. White, most scrupulously guarded his every right and privilege as an accused citizen with a regard for duty and undaunted courage seldom equaled in such cases, but never surpassed. After the submission of all the evidence in the case no other verdict than 'guilty' could have been reached by any jury of sane and impartial men. While the sentence passed by the court on the next day imposes the extreme penalty of the law—hanging—yet we do not conceive how there could be a case of the kind in which that extreme penalty would be more appropriate and just than the present one. When Cooper pays the penalty of his crime upon the gallows the community may congratulate itself upon being freed from one other worthless and dangerous character."

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral.
No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.
A Terrible Cough Cured.
"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. A cough, a terrible cough, set in and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL, a permanent cure was effected. I am now 67 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me.
HORACE FAIRBROTHER."
Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.
Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.
"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,
MRS. EMMA GEDNEY."
159 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.
"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. A. J. CRANE."
Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.
"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."
Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.
"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles. E. BRADDON."
Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.
No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.
