An Enjoyable Evening.

AUGUST 3, 1885.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—If there is a little corner in your excellent paper where may be put a short letter please give that space to me this week that I may tell you of something which was to me a most pleasurable affair, namely, the meeting of the sewing society of St. Paul's Church at Mr. Hulme's on Thursday evening last. Now, Messrs. Editors, do not suppose that this was an assembly of old ladies, consisting of old maids, widows, step-mothers and mothers-in-law, each one busy gossipping over a cup of tea. It was nothing of the kind, but a gathering of a large number of most pleasant persons, embracing all ages from the little one of two years up to middle age—I saw but one old maid, one widow and two step-mothers. They are all most estimable ladies who attend to their own affairs and let others alone and none of them drink tea. On driving up to Mr. Hulme's residence a pleasing scene was presented—the long piazza was filled with ladies and gentlemen, while out on the lawn were ladies, gentlemen and children, some playing croquet, some swinging in hammocks and others standing in groups, chatting gaily as only the young and light-hearted can do. We were met by our genial host in his usual pleasant manner. We next met our charming hostess who has the happy faculty of making each guest feel as if he or she is the especial one for whose pleasure the entertainment has been given. Mr. Albert Hulme and his sister, Miss Lottie, were untiring in their efforts to make the evening a pleasant one to the young folks, and from the beaming faces which I saw I feel sure their efforts were crowned with success. On entering the parlor the first persons upon whom my eyes fell were Mrs. Skirven and Mrs. Gale, the energetic president and vice-president of the society. The table near which they stood was covered with work which they were busy cutting out and preparing to distribute to the members of the society. After a time we were invited out to the supper room where I not only enjoyed the viands, which consisted of the delicacies of the season, but the tasteful arrangement of the table upon which were many beautiful flowers filling the air with their perfume and giving delight to those who beheld them. When I looked upon these lovely flowers, made the more lovely by the brilliant light of the gas, and listened to the strains of sweet music which came from the parlor, I thought of the evening described by Claude Melnot when "the air was heavy with the sighs of orange groves and the music of the lutes." There were more than one hundred guests present. Among the number were Mr. L. R. Shewell, the popular dramatic author, and his charming wife; Dr. A. P. Sharp and lady of Baltimore, who are spending the summer at their country residence near Rock Hall; Miss Seldon, of Washington, and Mr. Julian Wall, of Baltimore, guests of Rev. Dr. Wall at the rectory; Miss Mamie Gemmill, of Still Pond, and Miss Mollie Ricaud, of Baltimore, who are visiting Mr. F. B. Gemmill, Rees' Corner; Miss Minnie Thompson, visiting Mrs. Rankin; Misses Mary, Jennie and Carrie Francis, of Baltimore, who are spending the vacation with their brother, Mr. H. S. Francis, near Edesville; Miss Harley, also from Baltimore, visiting Miss Comegys, near Rees' Corner, and Mrs. M. Hurtt and her niece, Miss Lilian Constable, from Chestertown. I must have seen another fair young face from Chestertown; if I did not see Miss Florence Burgess there I must have dreamed I did. I would like to tell you of many others of our own neighborhood, whose beauty and pleasing manners added much to my enjoyment, but I fear if I do you will say there is no corner into which such a lengthy letter will fit and so I exclude it altogether. INDUS.

MOSBY'S FRIENDSHIP FOR GRANT.—Some weeks before Gen. Grant's death he received from Col. Mosby a very handsome cane. Col. Fred. Grant, in acknowledging the gift for his father, said that no attention during his father's sickness had given him more genuine pleasure, and that his father desired him to say to Col. Mosby that the cane should be preserved in his family as an heirloom received from a gallant and honest friend. The friendship of Mosby for Grant had its origin in the events occurring just after the close of the war. Mosby was outlawed, and his wife appealed to President Johnson, who was under peculiar obligations to her father, a prominent statesman of Kentucky. President Johnson roughly repulsed her. A lady friend advised her to go to Grant with her cause. She saw Gen. Grant in his office, and listening to her appeal without uttering a word, he took up his pen and in a few moments handed her a paper which proved to be a document securing Mosby from molestation and guaranteeing him his liberty.

THE Lancaster (Pa.) New Era gets off the following: "A subscriber to the New Era, in paying his subscription the other day, remarked that he found it much cheaper to pay for his paper in advance than at the end of the year. In answer to a query, he gave as a reason that when paid in advance he has always something new for his money, but to do so at the end of the year was like paying for worn-out clothes—there were none of the pleasures of anticipation in the transaction."

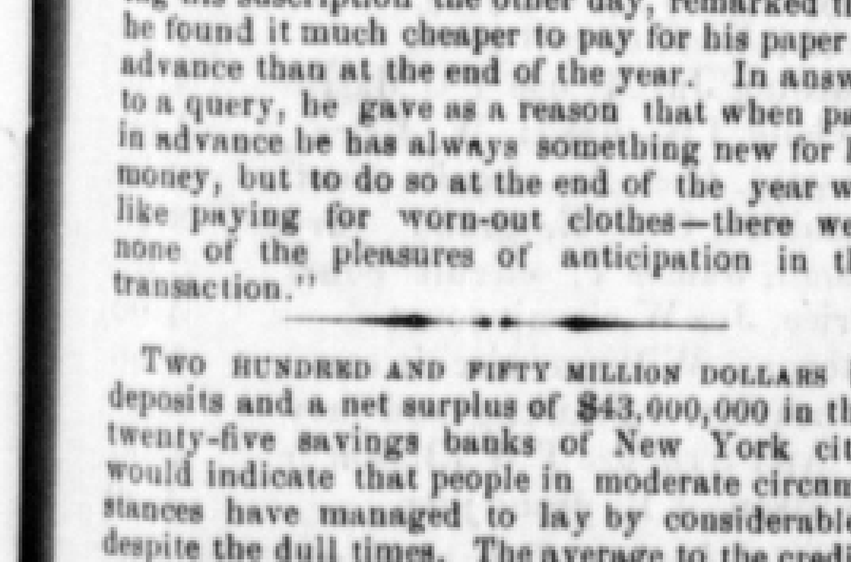

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY MILLION DOLLARS in deposits and a net surplus of $43,000,000 in the twenty-five savings banks of New York city would indicate that people in moderate circumstances have managed to lay by considerable, despite the dull times. The average to the credit of each depositor in the above-mentioned banks is $400.

BALTIMORE MARKET.—The Baltimore papers of yesterday quote as follows:
WHEAT—Longberry $1.00@$1.01.; Fultz, 95@96 for fair to good. CORN—White, prime, 60@60; yellow, 60@60. OATS—35.
