Col. Haven, New York March 28. 1836.

My respected friend

I received your letter of the 19th and immediately called on Mr. Mason in relation to the subject of your communication and he mentions to me that he intends to purchase the articles mentioned by Dr. Alexander, but is waiting for a flat which is now in the hand of the artist that he may construct a map of your flourishing colony at Cape Palmas. The cause you are engaged in has obtained very strong ground in this public favor and by persevering in an honest and upright course under the divine benediction our scheme will be crowned with success. I sincerely rejoice to hear that the condition of your Colony at Cape Palmas is still prosperous, and hope that the blessing of many are upon you may not on you and all who are concentrating their time and influence in meliorating the condition of this long neglected and injured portion of the human family. With sincere wishes for your present happiness and the prosperity of that cause in which you are engaged I remain

Most respectfully yours, Allen Bradfield
