SATURDAY MORNING...........Oct. 24, 1885.

Custom-house civil-service examinations will be held in Baltimore November 17 and 18.

A Cremation Cemetery Company has been incorporated in Baltimore with a capital stock of $15,000.

There is a decided expectation among Catholics in Baltimore that Archbishop Gibbons will be made a Cardinal.

Mrs. Hannah Whittingham, widow of Bishop Whittingham, died in Baltimore last Saturday, in the 91st year of her age.

Surgeon Smith, of the veterinary department Washington, thinks that the prevailing hog disease can only be stamped out by inoculation.

Hon. John S. Combs, formerly Senator from Allegany county, died at Lonaconing on the 18th instant. He was a prominent merchant and about 55 years old.

The Queen Anne's county republican convention met at Centreville on Tuesday and concluded not to nominate a ticket. The democrats, therefore, have a walkover in that county.

The Republicans have carried the Ohio Legislature by a majority of three on joint ballot. The Democrats have control of the Senate, which will prevent the Republicans from passing any party measures or reorganization laws.

The contingent fund in the Postoffice Department has been managed so carefully since the Cleveland administration came in that for the first time in the history of the department Congress will not be called upon to make a deficiency appropriation.

By an accident at the Meadows, near Jersey City, on Monday, ten persons were killed and more than that number badly hurt. Pratt, who had charge of the signal station, acknowledges that he gave a wrong dispatch, causing an express train to plunge into an emigrant train with dire results. He is said to be an experienced operator, but at an unfortunate moment he blundered. He has been arrested and held for manslaughter, declining to "make tracks" as some have done.

Still Another Ticket in Caroline.--The campaign in Caroline county has been further complicated by the nomination of another republican ticket. It was made on Tuesday, and is as follows: State Senate, Dr. E. E. Adkinson; House of Delegates, J. H. Hubbard and J. R. Webb; clerk, L. D. Kelly; register of wills, T. J. Webb; county commissioners, J. M. Jones, Anderson Matthews, Perry Kennedy; county treasurer, Francis Friend; sheriff, Capt. T. N. Collins. A number of the candidates are colored men. This makes four tickets now in the field in that county.

Gen. Bradley T. Johnson took occasion during the delivery of a speech at the Democratic mass meeting in Easton on Tuesday to say some things derogatory of Senator A. P. Gorman and expressed the hope that he would not be re-elected. This brought forth a vigorous rejoinder from Hon. Chas. H. Gibson, who vindicated the Senator from the unjust aspersion cast upon him. He said "the attacks upon Senator Gorman were an insult, not to the man, but to the democratic party and to the State of Maryland. He was Maryland's accredited representative in the United States Senate, and until he had been tried in the balance of public opinion and found wanting in some other tribunal than that set up by Col. Marshall, Mr. Wallis and others, the assaults upon his honor, his integrity and his devotion to his party would fall as harmlessly to affect him in his triumphant return to the United States Senate as would the snapping of a mousing owl disturb an eagle in his eyrie."

A letter from Easton says Gen. Johnson's audience was not in sympathy with him, and his attack on Mr. Gorman is severely criticised and condemned by the democrats of the county.

DEVOURED BY A LION.

Wild Beasts Escape from a Wrecked Train. They Destroy a Ten-year-old Boy.

There is a reign of terror in the vicinity of St. Francis, Ark., a village twenty miles west of Memphis, on the Springfield & Kansas City R. R. The woods are filled with fierce tigers, lions, jaguars, hyenas and other animals crazy with the taste of blood, and the inhabitants of the little village are barricaded in their houses, earnestly praying for relief to arrive. Boa constrictors freed from their cages, crawl through the deserted streets, and the howls of the laughing hyenas make sleep impossible.

A crowd of villagers had assembled on the depot platform awaiting the arrival of the train containing John B. Doris' circus and menagerie. The train consisted of twenty cars, and was just rushing into the yard at a good speed when the engine ran off the track, followed by a dozen cars containing the animals.

The big performing elephant, 141 years old, became crazed with fear, and breaking through the side of his car as if it were but pasteboard, dashed towards the assembled people trumpeting loudly and waving his trunk frantically in the air. While the people were rushing to their homes for shelter many of the other animals escaped from the overturned cars, and the streets of the village were soon filled with them.

The big elephant snatched the 10-year-old son of druggist John Anson from the stoop of his father's residence and threw the boy a distance of twenty feet. While the child lay groaning, the big lion Jupiter broke from his cage, followed by the lioness Juno and her two cubs. They quickly tore the boy to pieces and the hyenas and jackals snarled and fought over the bones.

The elephant seemed mad with excitement, and placing his immense head against the car containing the tigers he tipped it over and broke open the cages. The smell of blood infuriated the latter animals, and the few men who had ventured upon the streets were forced to seek safety in flying to their residences.

The car containing the snakes, some of which were over fifteen feet in length, caught fire and many of the reptiles were burned to death. Those which escaped crawled through the streets hissing with passion.

The villagers kept up a fusilade of revolvers and shotguns upon the animals, and gradually drove them into the woods. The big elephant was captured by his keeper and returned to his car, and several of the other animals were corralled by the circus employees and confined in their cages. There are still several bloodthirsty animals roaming in the woods near the village, and many of the inhabitants are afraid to venture upon the streets.

Ex-First Assistant Postmaster-General Hay died at his home in Pittsburg on Tuesday of consumption.

The contract for the erection of the Garfield monument in Cleveland has been given out, and work will be begun at once.

A separation between Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, daughter of the late Gen. Grant, and her husband is said to be pending.

Farmers say that an unusual amount of labor is necessary in corn cutting this year, on account of the crop having been blown about by storms.

Denis Kearney, the irrepressible, announces his intention to run for governor of California in opposition to Dr. O'Donnell, the anti-Chinese champion.

Coming to Stay.—Good times are coming, not with a cyclonic rush, but slowly and surely. That is the way good things usually come.—Phila. Times.

Four of the leading stores in Rising Sun, Cecil county, were entered by burglars on Monday night. Other towns in Cecil have also been recently burglarized.

Archdeacon Farrar has planted a tree on Mr. Childs' lawn at Wootton near those planted by General Grant, Christine Nilsson, Thomas Hughes, Robert C. Winthrop, Hamilton Fish and Secretary Bayard.

A fight took place at Fruitland, in Wicomico county, early Sunday morning. Several roughs quarreled and then came to blows in the saloon of Widow Jackson. One of the roughs named Chatham, who boards at the hotel, severely beat a fellow named Isham. After the affair Isham returned to the house on horseback, wearing a mask, and fired two shots from a shotgun through the second-story window at some one whom he supposed to be Chatham, but who proved to be the Widow Jackson. Both discharges took effect and the lady is seriously, but not dangerously injured. Isham escaped.

DEMOCRATIC MASS-MEETING.

Speeches by Hon. Spencer C. Jones and E. B. Prettyman, Esq.

The court-room was filled last Thursday by Democrats from all sections of the county and a slight sprinkling of Republicans, to hear the distinguished speakers announced for the occasion. The meeting was called to order by Mr. C. G. Woodall, chairman of the State Central Committee, who read the names of the following officers of the meeting:

President—Col. Richard C. Johnson.

Vice-Presidents — First District—Charles D. Cacy, B. F. H. Caulk, T. H. Horsey; 2d, J. H. Hossinger, C. W. Spry, George W. Davis; 3d, Edw. D. Crew, Rob't L. Usilton, Lucas Alrich; 4th, John A. Groves, N. G. Westcott, Stephen Lecates; 5th, David Jones, Thomas A. Hulme, Samuel Burgess.

Secretaries—James Gilpin, Geo. W. Howard, Jesse H. Usilton, J. D. Urie, R. B. Willson, Jr.

Col. Johnson, in a few graceful and well-chosen words, introduced as the first speaker Hon. Spencer C. Jones, the candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Mr. Jones is an earnest and fluent speaker, a gentleman of splendid physique and commanding presence, and at once had the wrapt attention of his auditors. He has also the faculty of grasping live issues and, without waste of words, treats his subject and drives home his pertinent truths with forceful logic. He first referred to his own nomination. He did not mention his desire for re-nomination to a living soul, but remaining at his desk left the matter entirely to the pleasure of his party, and now as its nominee only—not as an individual—he appeared before the people.

He said he belonged to that element of Democracy who go into the party's councils—enter the lists in the nominations — that to lose or win he is a Democrat still. He would always bow to the will of the majority and did not think much of that man's Democracy who, having failed of success is unwilling to do for the winner what he would have expected from him had the result been in his favor. This campaign is a vitally important one. It is no "off year," but in this contest is involved Democratic supremacy in the next Legislature and with it the most important State officers—United States Senator, Governor, Treasurer, Police Commissioner, &c. The continued peace and the prosperity of the great city of Baltimore is involved. He was not here to discuss the independent movement in that city. He did not believe in such "movements." We have fallen upon bad times indeed if all needful reforms cannot be secured by movements within the great party to which we adhere. He believed the Democracy would be successful in Baltimore and that a native son of old Kent would be her next mayor; but whether successful there or no the counties were aroused and would be so overwhelmingly Democratic as to insure a Democratic Legislature.

Mr. Jones then referred to National politics and the happy results of a Democratic administration. He knew that some persons complained of the delay in "turning the rascals out;" he had felt a little like complaining himself; but the President had found many difficulties in his way, not the least among them the miserable fraud called a civil service law—the principle of which is all right properly framed and administered, but as we have found it, only an instrument to perpetuate Republican power. Not the least of its defects is the provision proscribing men from holding office who are over thirty-four years of age. Our forefathers thought that men were just reaching their highest wisdom and efficiency at that age, but now only men fresh from the schools are eligible!

He discussed the inconsistency of the men who sit at home or in their offices instead of attending the primaries, and then take what they call an independent position or fight the nominees of their own party to gratify personal disappointment. The Republicans were sharp enough to use all such men and encourage any independent or fusion movement to regain place and power themselves. He illustrated the difference between one of these "independents" and a Republican by a little anecdote which was greatly enjoyed by his hearers. Brown and Smith were quite tipsy and making their way to Brown's house Smith rapped at the door. Mrs. Brown called from an upper window: "Is that you Mr. Brown?" Smith replies: "Brown and Smith, madam! Yes, madam; it's Brown and Smith, but for God's sake come down and pick out Brown!"

Mr. Jones said the Democratic party had taken possession of the Government to stay, and it was for the best good of the whole people. He invited the Republicans to come within the fold; come before it is too late; now is the accepted time, and all are cordially invited to join us in the interest of a united people, fraternal love and good government. Hearty applause greeted the speaker at frequent intervals.

Mr. E. B. Prettyman, of Montgomery county, was next introduced and delivered a most interesting and forcible address. He said that this was his first appearance before a Kent county audience. His voice was somewhat hoarse by recent speaking in Easton and Centreville, but he held his large audience to the close and was frequently applauded.

The meeting closed about 5 o'clock. The Kent Cornet Band discoursed excellent music. The speakers left here yesterday morning for Baltimore.

No Time to Lose.

Democrats, but a little more than one week intervenes before election. Active work should begin at once. Look around your neighborhoods and impress upon voters the importance of the election, and see to it that the full party vote is polled on November 3. A vote against the Democratic legislative candidates is a vote to turn the Maryland Legislature over to Republican control. In that event Maryland would have a Republican Governor, Republican State Treasurer, Baltimore city would be given two Republican Police Commissioners—a majority of the Board—and every one of the thirty or forty subordinate positions in the House and Senate would be filled with Republicans. Besides, a Republican would be elected in the United States Senate, and that body would be under Republican control during the entire term of President Cleveland.

There was a tinge of romance in the elopement of a couple in Salisbury last Saturday night. The groom owned an oyster boat. The bride's home was near the place where the boat landed. Night came on, and the two lovers met where they had often met before—at the back fence. Then creeping to the river, under the silver moon and blinking stars, they jumped aboard the boat and sailed away across the sea—or rather down Wicomico river—where a minister was in waiting, and where a home had been provided for the blushing bride. It would be the part of a novelist to fully tell the tale of "Cupid in an Oyster Boat; or, Romance on the Half Shell."—Baltimore American.

[Perhaps there is no one better fitted for the task than General Agnus himself. If he will leave out politics we will subscribe for ten copies of the novel for gratuitous distribution.—Eds.]

A ladies' social club has been organized in Centreville, with Mrs. B. P. Keating, Mrs. W. S. Roberts, Mrs. Wilmer Emory and Mrs. A. R. Weedon as the principal officers.

The Centreville Record is appealing to the capitalists of Queen Anne's to establish a fair ground. Why not? But do not make the mistake of locating it at a distance from the county town.

On Thursday night week four tramps entered a small house at Seybertsville, Pa., occupied by two bachelor brothers, John and William Kester, aged respectively 50 and 54 years, and demanded a large sum of money which was known to be secreted about the house. The Kesters refused to reveal where their money was hidden; the tramps then bound them both, hand and foot, and beat their brains out with a heavy club.

Mr. Winans Mobbed and Stoned.—The action of Mr. Ross Winans, the Baltimore millionaire, who owns such an extensive deer park in northern Scotland, in inclosing a roadway on his property at Guischan so angered the people in that vicinity that they mobbed and stoned him on Sunday last. Mr. Winans has offered a reward of £500 for the capture of the culprits.

In Luck.—The Protestant Episcopal Church of Chestertown is "in luck." It has just come in possession of the snug little sum of fourteen hundred dollars in a singular manner. The officiary of the church received information a few days ago from the Eutaw Savings Bank, Baltimore, that the sum above named was to the credit of Chester parish in that institution. How did it get there? This was the mystery to everybody for a time, but was soon explained. In the sale of the old parsonage property on the corner of High and Mill sts., a certain amount of the proceeds of sale was placed in the above institution by the late Judge Chambers, and the pass-book fell into the hands of the late Miss Caroline Thompson. The church supposed the amount had all been consumed in the purchase and repair of the Queen st. parsonage, so that for about twenty years the little "nest egg" in the Savings Bank has been lying there and accumulating until now it reaches the sum of $1400.

Peach Seed from the South.—In the drug store of Mr. Colin F. Stam and in Mr. J. K. Aldridge's store-window we have noticed the display of samples of peach seed, and a placard informs us that they are sample lots of four hundred bushels of natural peach pits from Tennessee and North Carolina imported by Mr. Robert G. Nicholson of the "Little Grove Nurseries" near Chestertown. These samples are clean and bright—the seed very small—and said by peach men to be very fine for nursery stock. It cost Mr. Nicholson a considerable sum to secure so large a stock of these natural seed, but having established the high character of his nursery he is determined to maintain the same at any cost. Mr. Nicholson, like many others in the nursery business, has found it impossible to supply the demand upon him for stock the present year; he could have sold a hundred thousand more trees than he had, and to meet the great prospective demand in the future Mr. N. is providing himself with the large quantity of virgin stock above mentioned.

Local Politics.

The fall term of our circuit court has been as usual a fine opportunity for political communing. The near approach of the election—only one week from next Tuesday—has heightened the interest in the button-holing and caucussing of candidates and their friends. Last Tuesday was a regular "field day" and it is said the solid work of the campaign was attended to by the leaders of both parties.

The Republican candidates were all on the Green and appeared anxious to know how and by whom they were to be saved from the apparently certain defeat so soon to overtake them. Whether the "wherewithal," resulting from their final caucus, was encouraging we are not prepared to say, but judging from indications the clouds have not lifted, nor are they likely to lift, but the gloom is deepening and will continue to deepen until the 3d of November has swept every vestige of hope from their political sky.

The Democratic candidates, on the other hand, were not only active but bright and cheerful and perfectly sanguine of victory, though they know the danger of an oversanguine disposition and will not allow the bright prospect to lull them to inactivity; they wisely determined to work as though the success of every candidate depended upon a single vote. The lesson of two years ago, when the candidate for State Senator was defeated by only six votes, will be an effectual warning, and profitable to the party in more ways than one. Reports from all the districts are of the most encouraging character and we should not be surprised if our ticket received a majority of over two hundred. However, it will almost certainly be large enough to guarantee a handsome margin for the lowest candidate, but whether over or under two hundred only the counting of the ballot will reveal.

Assaulted and Badly Hurt.—A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun of Monday states that Mr. Edward B. Emory, a well-known farmer and stock raiser of Queen Anne's county, was assaulted by a colored man named Watson on Saturday last. Watson was working for Mr. Emory, and while the latter was in his office on his home farm, "Poplar Grove," Watson appeared at the door and asked him for money. Mr. Emory told him he had no money about him at the time, but would pass him the money the coming week. Watson went away, but returned in a short time and again demanded his money, remarking he would not leave until he got it. Mr. Emory took an empty gun down and told him to leave, but he had scarcely uttered the words before Watson sprang upon him and dragged him out of the office to the pavement and struck him several times, inflicting severe injuries. One of the wounds was inflicted with a husking peg, the sharp point entering his nose. Mr. Emory called for help and Watson went off. Mr. Emory is not seriously hurt, although he is considerably bruised and cut.

Passing a Bogus Check.—A forged check on the First National Bank of Syracuse, N. Y., was passed on the Centreville National Bank last week. It appears that a young man, who gave his name as Matthew Frayel, arrived in Centreville on Monday of last week and stopped at the P. E. rectory, where he represented that he had been sent by Rev. Mr. Burk, of Easton. He was invited into the house and given quarters. He remained in town some time, and during the day presented a check for $75 at the Centreville National Bank, the payment of which was declined on account of want of identification. He went out and returned within an hour with the forged indorsement of Rev. James A. Mitchell on the check. The forgery being well executed the teller of the bank cashed the check. The check was sent to the Syracuse Bank, which pronounced it a forgery. The matter has been placed in the hands of detectives.

Mr. William Boyle, of Queenstown, drilled 55 acres of wheat in two days, from sunrise to sunset being taken as a day. The field was surveyed by Mr. James W. Thompson, the oldest surveyor in Queen Anne's, who platted it as 55 acres.

Wm. F. Pattison is announced as the republican candidate for clerk in Dorchester county.

Personals.

Mr. S. H. Blackiston, deputy-clerk of our circuit court, mentioned last week as having been stricken with paralysis, has grown gradually worse for several days past, and at noon yesterday his physicians had given up all hope of his recovery. Mr. C. W. Warren, of Kennedyville, whose critical condition was also referred to last week, was worse yesterday and thought to be sinking.

Capt. Thomas DeC. Ruth, of this town, now assistant customs weigher, fell through a hatch on the British steamship Baltimore, lying at pier 31, Locust Point, Baltimore, last Monday, and severely injured his left arm.

Rt. Rev. H. C. Potter, D. D., assistant Bishop of New York, has accepted the invitation of the standing committee to deliver the commemorative discourse at the memorial services to be held in Christ Church, Easton, November 18.

David Davis, one of the judges of the Orphans' Court for Cecil county, was in Chestertown on Tuesday; also Henry S. Cowdon, Esq., of Cecil, and Senator Turpin, of Queen Anne's, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Mathiot will celebrate the 20th anniversary of their wedding on next Tuesday evening, the 27th instant.

Mr. Rich'd H. Phelps, of East Granby, Conn., died in that place on the 15th instant, aged 72 years. The deceased was the father of Dr. Wm. G. Phelps, of Galena. He was a leading democrat in his section of the State, had filled a number of positions of honor and trust, and the papers speak of him as a man of broad and generous impulses and the strictest personal integrity.

Barroll—Lewis.

Mr. J. Leeds Barroll, formerly of this town but now of Philadelphia, was married on Thursday last, 22d inst., at high noon, to Miss Maria S. Lewis, of that city, at the residence of the bride's mother, 1830 Pine street. Miss Lewis is the daughter of the late Francis A. Lewis, who was one of the most prominent and able lawyers of the Philadelphia bar. On account of the recent death of the bride's father the wedding was a quiet one, only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom and the most intimate friends of the families being invited. There were over one hundred present including a number from Maryland. The presents to the bride were elegant and numerous—numbering over one hundred. The bride has been a belle in Philadelphia society and is a niece of Wm. H. Reed, of Baltimore. She was dressed in embroidered white silk. The groom wore conventional black. He is a son of the late J. Leeds Barroll and brother to Hope H. Barroll, Esq., of the Chestertown bar. The happy couple after partaking of a wedding breakfast started for the North, where the honeymoon will be spent; they will also visit West Point, at which place Morris K. Barroll, another brother of the groom, is a cadet.

Catlin—Merryman.

Balt. American of Wednesday.

Miss A. Virginia Merryman, daughter of Mr. Oliver P. Merryman, and one of the most popular young ladies in society in Northwest Baltimore, was married yesterday at 11 A. M. to Mr. R. J. Catlin, of Queen Anne's co. The ceremony took place at No. 141 North Arlington avenue, Lafayette Square, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. V. Gaddess. Mrs. Gaddess is a sister of the bride. Rev. Dr. J. Pleasanton DuHamel, of Queen Anne's county, tied the knot, assisted by Rev. Dr. Campbell Fair, rector of Ascension Church. Following the ceremony was a reception, which was attended by a very large number of the friends of the couple. Many presents were sent, among which were a chamber set from the bride's brother, Mr. C. H. Merryman, a horse and carriage from the groom, and two vases from Dr. Fair. The bride was dressed in a full dress of white lace and satin, trimmed with chrysanthemums and dahlias. Her dark locks were adorned with a wreath of flowers and a trailing jassamine vine. She is a beautiful brunette, and has been much admired. The couple left in the afternoon for the Eastern Shore, which will be their future home.

A Remarkable Cluster of Oysters. — Capt. J. B. Willson brought to town on Monday and left at our office a clump of about half-grown oysters, sixteen in number, which have their formation on two old shells. The cluster was taken with tongs in Gray's Inn creek and is supposed to be about one year old. This is another proof of the well-established theory that shells serve as an admirable medium for the propagation of oysters.

The festival at the town hall by the "Young People's Association" of the M. P. Church, for several evenings this week, has been very successful in every respect. The most important part of the affair has been the splendid suppers served under the supervision of Mrs. S. A. Dodd. A novel feature, which attracted large patronage and was greatly enjoyed, was the 'Art Gallery' under the management of Mrs. Avis Vannort.

Gunners will be wise if before starting upon their sporting expeditions they consult the caution notices in another column. Be careful not to go upon premises where the owners or occupants forbid such trespass. You have no right to gun upon any lands against the consent of the rightful occupant.

Visiting Attorneys.—The following visiting attorneys have been in attendance during the present sitting of court: John J. Donaldson, Baltimore city, W. T. Warburton, H. Arthur Stump, Albert Constable, John S. Wirt, Alex. Evans, of Elkton; Edwin H. Brown, Centreville; Col. J. W. Bryant and Urie Townsend, Denton.

Property Sold.— William M. Slay, Esq., as trustee, offered last Tuesday the Carroll property on High st., occupied by C. W. C. Johnson, Esq., and the lot on Kent street, but withdrew the same for want of a satisfactory price. The property has since been sold to W. B. Usilton.

Sale of a Farm.— Mr. Wm. T. Stanley and wife have sold to Mr. Jas. T. Ireland the Stanley farm at Stanley, in Still Pond Neck, containing about 130 acres, for $3,500.

A number of our county farmers have already slaughtered their pork, preferring to risk the curing in early fall than the danger from the hog disease. A light hog saved is better than a heavy one lost.

The all-day centennial temperance meeting comes off at Still Pond next Tuesday, the 27th instant. Distinguished temperance speakers are advertised to be present. Of Mrs. Hunt, one of the speakers, John B. Gough says: "Mrs. Hunt has the rare faculty of securing the attention of her audience and retaining it with increasing interest to the end. In my opinion, she has remarkable power in 'putting things' in an original and attractive manner — and an hour with her in the lecture-room cannot fail to be one of delight and profit."

CATLIN, of Queen Anne's county, Md., and Miss A. VIRGINIA, youngest daughter of O. P. Merryman, Esq., of Baltimore city.

At Green Point, October 10, 1885, JOSEPH C., the youngest son of Perry and Sarah V. Biggs, aged 11 months and 29 days.

Oh, how sorrowful it is to part
From little Clinton so dear;
The sting to us doth pierce the heart
Although he's in the Saviour's care.

We lay him in the silent tomb,
Sweet blossom of a day,
We just began to view thy bloom
When thou wert called away.—Sister.
