COURT PROCEEDINGS.

The Case of Thomas G. DeFord.

State vs. Thomas G. DeFord, indictment for embezzlement—on trial before the court at the close of last week's report. The evidence was all in on Friday and the court held a night session for the purpose of rendering their decision, but counsel for the defense cited various authorities in support of their plea for acquittal, which the court said would be examined, and ordered an adjournment until the next morning. On Saturday morning the prisoner was arraigned, when Judge Robinson, in delivering the opinion of the court, said that in a case of embezzlement two things must be clearly established by the State in order to prove the prisoner's guilt: First, the fact that the prisoner is the agent of the prosecutor; next after having established the fact of agency it is incumbent upon the State to prove that the prisoner in the course of such agency has received money, goods or valuable securities belonging to the prosecutor and appropriated the same with a view to defraud the principal. In this case the court have no difficulty whatever in declaring that the fact of such agency has been clearly established — the written contract says DeFord is an agent in the plainest English, in the most emphatic manner; no stronger words could be employed. After his agreeing to be regarded in said contract as agent for R. J. Baker & Co., he then declares that the money, goods and notes to be received by him shall be held in a fiduciary capacity. What could be stronger? What could be plainer? This is corroborated by the evidence of a witness (W. M. Simpson), who testifies in a straightforward, unbiased manner, that DeFord clearly understood the terms of the contract and recognized fully his relation as agent to the said firm. As to the second question whether the property was fraudulently appropriated, we have carefully examined the authorities adduced by the counsel for the defense last night and many other authorities and cases not cited by them. They will not justify us in saying because DeFord had an interest in the property that he could not embezzle that part of it which belonged to his principals. As to the question of intent we can only judge a man's intentions by his acts. We give DeFord the benefit of the doubt raised by the application of certain fertilizers to Mrs. Connelly, and find him not guilty upon the first two counts in the indictment charging embezzlement of money and notes. He did receive the materials charged in the third count. Though he did not mention these specific goods in the written contract, we are satisfied from the conversation that took place at the time between DeFord and R. J. Baker & Co. that these goods were delivered to him in pursuance of the written agreement, and that he agreed to hold and account for them as agent. He disposed of them. He received the money. He appropriated it and has never accounted for it. The court therefore finds him guilty upon the third count in the indictment.

The court then asked the usual question, if the prisoner or his counsel had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced? After a formal conference it was agreed to defer sentence and the prisoner was again remanded to jail.

Before the final adjournment of the court on Wednesday afternoon DeFord was brought in and Judge Wickes (Judge Robinson having left on Monday) pronounced the following sentence:

Thomas G. DeFord it now becomes our duty to sentence you. Availing yourself of your right you elected to be tried by the court. We gave your case careful consideration. Your transaction with Mr. Bordley was carefully considered and we gave you the benefit of the doubt and acquitted you, though the transaction was suspicious throughout. But in the dealing with Mr. Hatcherson there can be no doubt that you took the raw material and used it in the payment of your own debt. There was no taking of money or note. Giving you the benefit of every doubt the court can find no difficulty in finding you guilty. There can be no doubt but that you have the sympathy of the entire community; your family, those who are dearest to you, your own courteous demeanor and open, frank manner has made upon me personally a favorable impression, and though perhaps it is one of the most painful duties I have ever had to perform, still that protection due the community demands equal administration of justice to all without favor or partiality. The sentence of the court is that the lightest punishment be inflicted upon you, and that you be confined in the penitentiary for five years from this day.

The Prisoner's Statement.

After sentence had been pronounced Mr. DeFord rose and asked permission of the court to make a statement, which was readily granted. The prisoner then said:

It is due myself and the community who have expressed such sympathy for me and mine, that I should make this statement. The Honorable bench have given to my case the careful consideration they claim — I believe they have. I am now in a different position from that which I occupied when on the stand — now tried, convicted and sentenced. I thought I would have enough money of Connelly & DeFord's to pay R. J. Baker & Co. under the contract when I used their money and property. I have until now shielded my partner, to my own detriment. The amount justly due R. J. Baker & Co. is about $1,500. Had my partner, who received some $1,800, properly accounted for this amount, there would have been enough to pay this indebtedness and I should not have been where I am to-day. I ask a favor of the court that my family and one or two friends be permitted to visit me while I remain in jail.

The court gave the necessary directions.

Other Proceedings.

MONDAY—In the case of the petition to declare Adkinson & Boulter insolvents, the Court rendered a verdict in favor of defendants with costs upon the petitioners. Hynson and Slay for defendants; Barroll for petitioners.

The case of J. N. Moffett was tried before a jury, and the verdict not guilty. Smith for State; Hynson for defense.

TUESDAY.—Robert Towson, colored, was tried before the court for assault with intent to kill Wm. H. Towser, and for assault and battery.—Guilty on second count and sentenced to House of Correction for six months. Hynson for def.

Emory Brown was tried before the Court on indictment for assault with intent to commit a rape upon Mary Bordley, a ten-year old colored girl. Guilty of assault only and sentenced to House of Correction for six months. Hynson for defense.

Chas. Adams, colored, was tried before the Court on the charge of whipping his wife, and for simple assault. Guilty of assault only and fined $5 and costs. Westcott for defense.

John E. Willis was tried before the Court for selling goods without license. Guilty; fined $20 and costs.

T. Benton Sutton was tried before the Court on a presentment for obstructing the course of justice. Not guilty. Westcott for defense.

A number of cases of appeals from registers of voters were heard by the Court on Tuesday and Wednesday. Four names of colored voters were put on in the Third district and two struck off in the Fifth district.

Chas. Fiddler, a native of Prussia, declared his intention to become a citizen.

In the case of Union Bank of Lewisburg, Pa., against James W. Patten, Court ordered judgment for defendant.

THE GREAT TEMPERANCE CENTENNIAL IN STILL POND.

LARGE GATHERING OF PEOPLE—SPLENDID SPEECHES, DINING, &c., &c.

Reported for the KENT NEWS.

Having taken somewhat copious notes of a visit to Still Pond on Tuesday last I intended to write out from these a report of the doings of the day for publication in the NEWS, but the time has been so short that I have not been able to arrange them so as to satisfy myself, and must be content with this meagre sketch for the present. The day was sufficiently bright and beautiful to tempt a valetudinarian, even though nearly an octogenarian to undertake a ride of nearly five and twenty miles when the inducement was to hear the eminent speakers for the occasion on a subject so important and to enjoy even for a single day the cordial hospitality of the warm-hearted citizens of that prosperous village.

At 10½ o'clock a respectable audience had gathered in the auditorium of the beautiful M. E. Church edifice and the proceedings were inaugurated by religious exercises conducted by Rev. E. C. Macnichol, and the writer, the whole congregation uniting in singing Charles Wesley's grand old hymn beginning "Jesus the Name High Over All" to the equally grand old tune "St. Martin's." The pastor, Mr. Macnichol, in a few appropriate words introduced Rev. D. C. Babcock, of Philadelphia, as the first speaker, remarking that what he did not know about temperance reformation was not worth knowing.

Many persons supposing that work in this field had not commenced until about 1828-30 were at a loss to conceive why this celebration should be called the 2d centennial.

The speaker taking his hearers back to 1785 showed that Dr. Benjamin Rush, the eminent physician of Philadelphia, had at that early day written copiously and forcibly of the evils of the unrestricted use of alcoholic liquors as a beverage. That while Anthony Benezot and others had previously written on the same subject and Wesley also had incorporated a restrictive clause in the rules governing Methodist societies, yet Dr. Rush was the first to take action thereon by presenting his views to ecclesiastical bodies and securing their adoption. So that the present year is really the beginning of the 2d century of temperance effort. Dividing the century into four distinct epochs, marked by definite dates and distinct steps of development Mr. Babcock gave an exhaustive history of the progress of the work down to the present time. His remarks were often relieved by flashes of delicate humor which were highly enjoyed.

Adjourning to the beautiful hall recently built by the Good Templars we found a number of tables arranged with exquisite taste and bountifully spread with a great variety of substantials and delicacies. The lady Templars taking care that the modesty of no one should prevent the gratification of his appetite.

In the afternoon the church edifice was crowded to hear Mrs. Mary H. Hunt, of Boston, who has charge of that department of the work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Association relating to the education of the youth of the country in physiology and hygiene, with special reference to the effect of alcohol on the human system. In the brief interval before the arrival of the speaker the audience was agreeably entertained by a recitation of Dr. Jewett's "Harvest of Rum," given by C. S. Mosier, the secretary of the State temperance organization. This was highly enjoyed.

Mrs. Hunt having entered and taken a seat the choir sang a spirited anthem, led by C. H. Stratton and Miss Gulie Parrott at the organ.

Prayer was offered by H. C. Mead, of New York, and Pastor Macnichol introduced Mrs. Hunt. Her physique gives proof that she is by no means neglectful of the principles she inculcates. A finer developed figure could not easily be found in this day of fashionable and health-sacrificing folly. I must reserve for a future number a sketch of her admirable address as also that of Brother Mead given in the evening.

At its conclusion the large audience again visited the hall to pay their respects to the viands so liberally provided by the ladies.

HIGH GRADE BONE FERTILIZERS.

We take pleasure in again calling the attention of farmers to our High Grade Fertilizers. It being eight years ago this spring since they were first offered to consumers under their present form; and from that time until now there has been an increasing demand for them, which is a far better testimonial to us than any letters of praise could be, although we do not want for these latter, as we are in receipt of many. It has been our aim to put up the best fertilizers we know how, and the results in the field clearly show that we have hit the mark right in the bull's eye, and we believe if consumers will take our target (American Brand, bull's head) they will ria good result every time—the bull's eye, if their aim is good.

THEIR CHARACTER.

The main characteristic of our fertilizers is that they are prepared with particular reference to the crop, and not to a chemical analysis; the latter does very well in its place, and we believe in chemistry thoroughly, but consumers are too often deceived with the idea that a chemical analysis is the main thing, and if they get a good analysis and high commercial valuation as figured out with arbitrary prices by the chemist, they must have a fine fertilizer. Now it may happen that a fertilizer, with a commercial valuation of $25 00 per ton, will give a better result on the crop than one with a valuation of $40 00 as based on a chemical analysis. And why should this be? Only because the material used in the one valued at $25 00 was better adapted to the crop than the other.

THEY ARE UNIFORM.

The goods we manufacture are uniform in composition, and are only varied in proportions, year after year, as we believe it to be an advantage to the crop. We have such large supplies of Bone, Blood, etc., from the slaughter establishments of New York, that our fertilizers are largely composed of these, and there is not that inducement for us to use cheaper material, that there might be, if we did not have this material.

BONE FERTILIZERS.

Our products are of a bone base, because we believe that is the most satisfactory source of phosphoric acid, and the large amount of animal matter our fertilizers contain makes them especially valuable in what may be considered the off or poor seasons. Some years it is noticed that almost any fertilizer will give fairly good results, but we find themost favorable comparisons for our products are in the poor years.
