SATURDAY MORNING..........Dec. 12, 1885.

A "Pome."

There was a young man of Galener
Who pinned to his coat a verbener;
But the pin scratched the cheek
Of his sweetheart last week,
And never again have we seen her.

The name of his sweetheart was Hanner,
And when she played on her pianner,
She meandered the keys
Whilst she sat on his knees,
And he with a toothpick would fan her.

Now and then he would be rather bolder,
Would lay her head down on his shoulder;
Would smooth her brown tresses
With gentle caresses;
And with his strong arm would enfold her.

With the last fond grip to elate her,
He would rest—unwilling rebater;
Then gracious—ah, me,
With renewed energee,
He would squeeze her around the equator.

This naughty but splendid young mister,
He kissed and he kissed and he kissed her;
Until right on the tips
Of her sweet ruby lips,
There came a tremendous big blister.

She straightway commenced for to rile—
The blister being sore as a bile—
And jumping up quick,
She gave him a kick
That propelled him two-thirds of a mile.

The scene made my face flood with tears;
It aroused both my hopes and my fears;
For he lit on his head;
And went straight away dead.
Time since?—Just seventeen years.—AMEN.

Letter From Rock Hall.

ROCK HALL, Dec. 8, 1885.

The good effect of local option in Kent can be seen everywhere, but especially around this village, where neat and clean looking cottages are seen in every direction and improvements constantly going on, and our friend Leary's lumber wagon is daily seen delivering lumber to the future homes of our young men who, in many cases, would never have had the means to secure a home had the old time whiskey shops continued as a nightly resort to play cards and drink such stuff as is usually kept at these places. Among the fine improvements just completed is a neat store in the centre of the village, to be occupied by our pharmacist, John Downey, and over it are three rooms to be occupied by Doctor Taylor, who is securing quite a good practice in the neighborhood, having been successful in curing some chronic cases of long standing that has brought our young friend into notice.

Since the election things have quieted down and the absence of free whiskey has suppressed the howl of the drunkard, or the usual disturbances following the free use of whiskey.

The great success of Tolchester Beach the past ten years and its continued popularity is largely due to the firm stand taken by Capt. Taggart and the other managers, not forgetting our friend Major Eliason, in excluding all intoxicating drinks from the boats and grounds. While all others from Baltimore have proven an utter failure, Tolchester more than holds her own, and the many improvements contemplated for the next season will no doubt prove the best season of all they have had.

Referring to the whiskey question, it may not be known to all your readers that the great State of Georgia prohibits the sale of it in most of her counties, and recently the important city of Atlanta, the capital of the State has voted for prohibition.

Several of our young men are getting ready to part with a rib, and have engaged quarters and, it is said, Romeo will lead off during the month, following the example of his sister last month.

The wind-engine and corn-mill grinder recently erected in Rock Hall works beautifully and with moderate winds grinds two bushels an hour and will at the same time pump abundance of water. The tower is 10 feet square and thirty high, with tank and feed room in 2nd and 3d story. The mill was built by the Marseilles Manufacturing Co., of Illinois, who had one on exhibition at our late fair. The handling of these superior mills in Kent has been given to W. W. Cosden, of Lankford, and by all means he should advertise them in the KENT NEWS, as many farmers are talking of getting wind mills.

OCCASIONALLY.

Letter from Cambridge.

December 3, 1885.

DEAR NEWS:—Your weekly visits are greatly appreciated and anxiously looked for by the members of the family in this ranche.

I could scarcely believe that so long a time had intervened since you had heard from your correspondent from the lower regions, but such is the rapid flight of time, it moves noiselessly on without bells to its steeds to give warning of approach or departure.

The American "Bard" represents time as an aged traveller, with hoary locks, making long and steady strides from the eternity of the past to the eternity of the future, leaving scattered all along his track vast fragments of wrecked characters, blighted hopes and blasted prospects. I hope that while he has so rapidly sped onward he has not dealt so harshly with your many readers, but instead has brought and left fortunes, prosperity, peace and happiness to all.

But I started with the intention of furnishing you such items as might be of interest to your patrons: First, I would say that Thanksgiving Day was observed more generally in this town than ever before, by the closing of places of business and by the attendance upon religious worship in the Prot. Epis. and Meth. Epis. Churches, appropriate sermons being delivered by the respective pastors.

Rev. J. S. Bowers, a native I presume of your town, and now pastor of the M. P. Church at Stewartstown, Pa., and former pastor in this, is on a visit to his old charge and friends here.

The Revs. H. S. Thompson of Easton, and J. E. Bryan of Cambridge, exchanged pulpits last Sabbath, Nov. 29th. I think if this were done more frequently not only by ministers of the same denomination, but by those of different denominations, it would greatly tend to a more fraternal feeling and would no doubt be enjoyed by the various congregations.

The oyster trade, which is the basis of all business activity in this community, is not booming as both oyster and other business men had hoped it would. Prices have been very low and unremunerative. Indeed there was a week last month when it was said that there were fifty thousand bushels in our harbor, for which only ten cents per bushel were offered. Of course men can't live at such prices for their labor, but fortunately this was exceptional, though prices rule very low. We hope for the better.

Mr. Cromwell our enterprising shipbuilder has laid the keels of two whalers, the first of the largest class ever built at this port, and it is said the only ones ever built on the Chesapeake or tributaries.

The corn crop of this neighborhood is all garnered I presume and wheat looks well.

The pork crop is being barrelled, this over, stock provided with shelter and then the farmers will have a good time. A little too much muchness in this article. From yours. DORSET.

HIGH GRADE BONE FERTILIZERS.

We take pleasure in again calling the attention of farmers to our High Grade Fertilizers. It being eight years ago this spring since they were first offered to consumers under their present form; and from that time until now there has been an increasing demand for them, which is a far better testimonial to us than any letters of praise could be, although we do not want for these latter, as we are in receipt of many. It has been our aim to put up the best fertilizers we know how, and the results in the field clearly show that we have hit the mark right in the bull's eye, and we believe if consumers will take our target (American Brand, bull's head) they will a good result every time—the bull's eye, if their aim is good.

THEIR CHARACTER.

The main characteristic of our fertilizers is that they are prepared with particular reference to the crop, and not to a chemical analysis; the latter does very well in its place, and we believe in chemistry thoroughly, but consumers are too often deceived with the idea that a chemical analysis is the main thing, and if they get a good analysis and high commericial valuation as figured out with arbitrary prices by the chemist, they must have a fine fertilizer. Now it may happen that a fertilizer, with a commercial valuation of $25 00 per ton, will give a better result on the crop than one with a valuation of $40 00 as based on a chemical analysis. And why should this be? Only because the material used in the one valued at $25 00 was better adapted to the crop than the other.

THEY ARE UNIFORM.

The goods we manufacture are uniform in composition, and are only varied in proportions, year after year, as we believe it to be an advantage to the crop. We have such large supplies of Bone, Blood, etc., from the slaughter establishments of New York, that our fertilizers are largely composed of these, and there is not that inducement for us to use cheaper material, that there might be, if we did not have this material.

BONE FERTILIZERS.

Our products are of a bone base, because we believe that is the most satisfactory source of phosphoric acid, and the large amount of animal matter our fertilizers contain makes them especially valuable in what may be considered the off or poor seasons Some years it is noticed that almost any fertilizer will give fairly good results, but we find the most favorable comparisons for our products are in the poor years.
