to a more congenial clime at least to one more friendly to the coloured people in some respects, to procure for him a Medical education: Dr. Phelps of the Vermont University has agreed to take Mr. Gill in charge & has promised to aid him & us in his Studies. Mr. G. is not aware of my having wrote this letter & if it is not asking too much of you, I shall be pleased if you could see him immediately on the arrival of the Boston, and aid him forthwith in his journey, by directing him, as we do not wish to have him delay a moment in B. I think you will find Mr. G. an intelligent & gentlemanly young man and I hope for his own sake, as well as for the Society, and the cause of humanity, that he will conduct himself well & succeed in his Studies.
