SATURDAY MORNING.....MAY 1, 1886.

A WAR INCIDENT RECALLED.—The recent visit of the Seventh New York Regiment to Washington has recalled to the mind of Mr. Wm. R. Smith, superintendent of the Botanical Gardens, an interesting incident at the time of the arrival here of the regiment in 1861. On the day that the regiment reached Washington from Annapolis and marched up Pennsylvania avenue, Mrs. Robt. E. Lee and her daughter Mildred came over from Arlington and went to the Botanical Gardens for some flowers and plants, which they wished to set out at Arlington. They had an order from Senator James Alfred Pearce, of Maryland, who was chairman of the Senate committee on the library, and who was the only one whose orders on the gardens were recognized at that period. While the ladies were selecting their plants the band of the Seventh was heard, and Mr. Smith remarked jocularly to them that he supposed they would run away from home now. Mrs. Lee replied, Oh! no, that the troops were only summoned to the defense of Washington, and it was well understood they were not to cross into Virginia. This, it will be remembered, was two weeks after Sumter had been fired upon, and is another strong evidence of how hard it was at the time to realize the dreadful struggle which was impending. The Sunday afterwards Gen. Lee, with his family, attended as usual the services at Christ Church in Alexandria. At the conclusion of the services Mrs. Lee and her children drove back to Arlington, and General Lee took the train for Richmond.

CHIEF ARTHUR'S ADVICE TO LABOR.—Chief Arthur, of the Locomotive Brotherhood, in his address at Harford a few days ago, gave expression to views in regard to the relations of employers and employees that are worth considering. "No man," he held, "has the right to say to another, 'thou shall' or 'thou shall not,' and in the violation of this principle is where the trouble lies among the workingmen today." A man has the right to belong to any organization not forbidden by law, and no one has the right to say that he shall not. At the same time the member of an organization has no right to prevent a man who is not a member from making a living because he does not happen to agree with him. There is no necessary antagonism, Mr. Arthur declares, between capital and labor. "We cannot do without either; both are essential to the prosperity of the country." The fusion of these seemingly opposed interests, according to the chief of the Locomotive Brotherhood, is not difficult to accomplish. "Let the employer," he says, "give the men under him to understand that he is interested in their welfare, and not that he considers them senseless machines." Where mutual respect and consideration prevail strikes and other crude methods of settling differences can hardly occur.

MEDICAL PRACTITIONERS AND LICENSES.—President Quinan, of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, made a stirring revelation at the annual session of the Faculty in Baltimore on Tuesday, upon which he based the claim that an irrepealable contract existed with the State, under which the faculty has the right to prevent any one within its limits from practicing medicine or surgery without first obtaining a license from that body. This will be interesting to practitioners who may feel unable to stand such examination as the faculty may prescribe.—Quackery was unpopular, it seems, at the close of the last century, and the Legislature of that time undertook to put the people into safe hands by endowing the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty with large powers. It is held that the contract under which this was sought to be done is still in force. It has not, it is claimed, been forfeited by abuse or voluntary abandonment on the part of the faculty. Dr. Quinan backed his speech with the legal opinions of Amos H. Evans and Francis P. Stevens, two well-known lawyers, as to the right of persons to practice medicine and surgery in the State. A committee was appointed to take the matter into consideration and report to a meeting of the faculty called for the purpose.

CAPT. ALFRED BROTHERTON, on the second trail in the United States District Court at Baltimore, was on Tuesday found guilty of conspiring on the high seas to cast away the brig O. B. Stillman, of which he was master. Sentence was reserved. The crime is a grave one, and calls for a maximum sentence of ten years at hard labor in the penitentiary and $10,000 fine. There is no minimum, however, and the punishment below ten years is entirely in the discretion of the court. The Stillman left Charleston in September, 1884, and was reported lost shortly after, and the insurance on the vessel and freight was paid. The vessel was picked up and towed into Bermuda in April, 1885, having floated about the ocean for about six months. Her foremast was gone, her ports knocked out, and there were three auger holes in her bottom below the waterline. Brotherton and the mate, George W. Brown, were arrested in Baltimore in September, 1885, together with F. L. Clayton, one of the owners, charged with conspiracy. Clayton was found not guilty by the United States Commissioner. The mate confessed a plea of guilty, and turned State's evidence, and it was on his testimony principally that Brotherton was convicted. He said the captain induced him to bore the holes and knock out the ports.

A DESPERATE BATTLE WITH MOONSHINERS.—A special from Manchester, Coffee, county, Tenn., says about ten days ago United States Deputy Marshal Webb Purdon accompanied Deputy Marshal Hughes on a raid among the illicit distilleries of Grundy county, Tennessee, and destroyed several stills. A few days afterwards fifteen moonshiners rode into Manchester, determined to have Purdon's life. Seven broke into his house, and the balance surrounded it. Purdon met them as they entered with cocked revolvers, and a terrible battle ensued. Two moonshiners fell to the floor mortally wounded, and the gang retreated, but they had succeeded in fatally wounding Purdon. Disabled as he was, he jumped from the bed, seized a double-barreled shotgun and fired into the retreating gang, and two more fell mortally wounded. Purdon then fell dead beside the body of one of his victims. One of the moonshiners killed was named Clark.

THE EASTERN SHORE OF VIRGINIA.—The Hon. Wm. L. Scott, member of Congress from the Erie (Pa.) district, in a letter to a citizen of Accomac county, Va., writes: "The counties of Accomac and Northampton have a brilliant future. A little time may be required for their development, but the industrious habits of your people will soon surmount all opposing forces, and in but a few years will stand second, perhaps, to no like area of our country in the development and growth of garden products and valuable fruits. I feel a deep interest in your future. The thrift and development of your section will excite in me a pride second scarcely to my native home. Your country is exceptionally inviting to seekers of new Southern homes—none more so. This will have the happy effect of dividing your lands into smaller tracts, thereby adding dollars upon dollars to your material wealth that you do not now possess.

THAT a tramp is good for something was demonstrated a few nights since, when one of these unknown wanderers saved a night express on the Cincinnati Southern Railroad, and nearly two hundred passengers from a terrible fate. The tramp was walking up the track on a mountain defile when he found a large steer wedged into a cattle guard on the track. The animal was lying across the rails in such a way that it would certainly have wrecked the train and sent it crushing down a steep embankment. Just as he reached the spot the, tramp heard the night express thundering through the mountains. He lighted a torch and started down the track before the approaching train, waving his flambeau, and succeeded in stopping it, at the imminent peril of his own life, and almost at the point of danger that threatened its destruction. He was generously rewarded.

THE contest over the will of Gustavus Nicholson, a Baltimore banker, developed the fact that the old man was a great lover of cats. He kept a regular free boarding house or asylum for cats. He had over a dozen of his own tabbies, and these were permitted to invite their friends, so that hosts of the feline species were entertained at the banker's home. He took the cats to bed with him, and sometimes a matronly cat would provide a nest in his comfortable feather-bed, and there a litter of kittens would be born and raised. The old gentleman always had several cats sleeping with him. The servants testified that at one time he had six Maltese cats living in his rooms; these were the favored ones. He loved his cats, and grieved when any died.

DEATH OF A CENTENARIAN.—David Close died at Bayonne, N. Y., a few days ago at the age of 101 years and nearly four months, having kept his mental powers to the last. He served in the war of 1812 and came out as lieutenant. He used to talk of having seen George Washington, and it was one of his distinctions that he knew intimately the original of Cooper's Harvey Birch in "The Spy." He leaves three sons of 78, 76 and 74, two sisters of 90 and 70, besides 22 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. As an authentic centenarian he deserves remembrance.

PRETTY Nellie Dusey, of Grand Rapids, fell in love with a gambler named Hiskock, and as she had $8,000 he married her. After spending her money he deserted her. She followed him, and the other day met him on the street in St. Paul. He roughly repulsed her, and she fell dead at his feet.

The Eastern Shore Picking Up.

George Alfred Townsend (Gath.)

Mr. Gibson, the Democratic member from the Eastern Shore, is often pointed out in Washington to Northern and Western members as a stylish representative of a district long considered old-fashioned. "Who is that do you think?" asked one person of another in my hearing, pointing Gibson out. After waiting for a reply, the query was continued: "Never mind, he's a Congressman. Now, what State do you think he comes from?" "He looks a little like a society fellow from Newport," said the other. "No, sir," concluded the first person, "he represents the Eastern Shore of Maryland." "Well," said the other man, "the Eastern Shore must be picking up." Nevertheless, a good many forcible men have come from the Eastern Shore.

THE Easton Water Company has four flowing artesian wells bored on their grounds at the north of Easton. The water is delicious, it comes from under a strata of rock which lies 98 feet below the surface. The water has been analyzed, and the chemist says it is almost identical with the celebrated Buffalo Lithia water which possesses wonderful remedial properties. Easton may yet become a great summer watering place.—Star.

WHAT disgusts the organs is that the eighteen corrupt New York Aldermen are equally divided between the Republicans, the County Democrats and the Tammany What-is-Its. It's an awful shame that the rascality of this country can't be fastened on any one party.—Philadelphia Times.

OUR FORE-FATHERS SOAP

Ask
Your Grocer
For It.

FAC-SIMILE OF THE LABEL ON THE WRAPPER.

NO MORE A MYSTERY. WHY DOES THE CLOTHING TEAR SO EASILY? THE REASONS GIVEN.

ANSWER.—From the use of strong and impure Soap, made up in salable forms and shapes, with which the market is flooded. If you want to be right sure use ECKERS' OUR FOREFATHERS' SOAP—three connecting 4-inch cakes, making each bar one foot long; weight 22½ ounces—recommended by the Best Families, Hotels and Institutions throughout the country. It is prepared by the Grecian Purifying, Boiling and Settling Process, from fresh, clean and selected butchers' tallow. By its use you run no risk of contracting any skin disease; no stiffness of the arms or wrist. A great saving of time and labor. WASHING CLOTHES WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING. You can use it as you wish, but to wash without boiling or scalding observe these directions: Take lukewarm water, rub with soap particularly on dirty spots, soak half an hour or more, gently rub on board and your clothes will be clean. Try it for one month and you will be convinced of its great advantages. VERY IMPORTANT TO KNOW.—That the best remedy for washing flannels to keep them from shrinking—wash in lukewarm water with FOREFATHERS' OR ECKERS' BOARD OF HEALTH SOAP (the greatest disinfectant known), and dry in a warm room; cold water hardens flannels and drying in cold air shrinks them. Ask your grocer for it. ECKERS' SOAPS WILL WASH WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING.
