SATURDAY MORNING.....MAY 8, 1886.

The Evangelists in Baltimore.

The two Southern evangelists, the Rev. Saml. P. Jones, of Georgia, and the Rev. Saml. W. Small, of Tennessee, made their first appearance in Baltimore on Sunday last at the skating rink on Biddle street, and they are now engaged in a series of daily services which are to continue during several weeks. The rink has capacity for seating 4,000 persons and is filled at every meeting. The name of Mr. Jones, popularly called Sam Jones, has been familiar to newspaper readers for some years past. His power, says the Sun, lies in saying commonplace things in a striking way and of illustrating his theme with quaint analogies drawn from the life of the people, idiomatic largely, and, if not elegant, picturesque and to the point. His sermons bristle with these peculiarities of speech, often rough, but never dull, for they partake of the earnestness of the man. Of his courage in exposing the frivolities and rebuking the vices that in these days, as in days long past and gone, have been common enough, there can be no question, for apart from the queer illustrations and comparisons drawn from the life and occupations of the people there is a certain boldness required in a man to stand up in the pulpit and denounce congregations for dancing and card-playing, and for their addiction to those worldly pleasures that make their religious professions questionable. If his faculty of rousing sinners could be described in a single phrase, a Texan cowboy would say he was "whooping them up." His sermons on Sunday and yesterday were full of these whoopings up, and the sharper his comments were, and the more personal they were, the more they seemed to be liked. In one of them he said, "Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation.' When God's dinner bell rings all you want is an appetite, and you can walk in and there's a place for you. You've got curiosity with you to run to a meeting like this. God help you to mix a little prayer with this curiosity.' Christ, he said, is a living principle. "You may run Confucianism with a dead Confucius, you may run Mormonism with Joe Smith in his grave, but you must not only have a risen and ascended Christ, but a descended Christ." Certain churchmen he described as "Christless members," and added: "The great curse of the world today is not out of the church, but in it. * * * It would be healthy if every member of the church should ask himself these questions: 'Suppose every member was like me, how would the spirit of prayer succeed, how would the expenses be paid, how much sympathy would the pastor receive?' It wouldn't be long before you came to the conclusion, 'Here is the biggest humbug that God Almighty allows to live in the church.' I can stand a railroad humbug, a business humbug, a newspaper humbug, but God deliver me from a religious humbug." He makes, however, this distinction, putting it in the form of a question, as thus: "Do you live right before God? Are you clean and chaste in your habits? Do you do your duty to your family? If he replies yes, I will get down on my knees and ask his pardon before 10,000 people. But if any of you Pharisees think that you are going to get any pardons out of me you don't know me. The world goes to church with you, and you go with it to the theatre and to progressive euchre parties. It goes with you to prayer-meetings, and you both will go to hell together if you don't take care." * * * "The power of the pulpit," he went on to say, "must be determined by the prayers of the pews." Then followed the strong blow at the churches: "Some congregations want a preacher popular with other denominations; some popular with everybody. I wouldn't wipe my feet on him. But we seldom hear of those wanting a preacher popular with God. You have enough preachers in this city to bring all to Christ in thirty days, but the pews are at fault. You pack a preacher in an ice-box, and then abuse him all the year because he don't save. We are a little too decent to be Christian anyhow. We've got to come down a little in humility." In another sermon he touched on the same theme. "I have met with hard old sinners," he said, "who have said that church members have stood in their way. I don't wonder at it. Why, some church members gouge each other. Some borrow money from each other and never pay it back. Some backbite each other. No wonder they go for old sinners. I never call my names, brothers, but each fellow knows his number when I hit him. Let's get right, and here will be found enough water in the fount of life to wash away every speck of dirt."

EXTENT OF THE EIGHT-HOUR DEMAND.—An extended inquiry by Bradstreet's as to the details of the efforts being made by labor unions to secure the adoption of the eight-hour day shows that the agitation has enlisted the support of a great part of the organized labor of the larger cities and manufacturing centres of the country. The figures obtained, which with few exceptions refer to Thursday of last week, indicate that the number of men who have made their minds to strike to enforce their demand is 75,000. Of this number 80,000 ask for eight hours, the remainder for nine hours. Some 8,000 men are now on a strike for eight hours, and the eight-hour day has been conceded to 32,000 employes at various points. About 75,000 men have asked for the eight-hour day, but have not stated that they will strike. The entire number of workers supposed to be actively interested in the movement is estimated at 225,000. The furniture-making, woodworking and building trades' unions are most prominent in the demand for fewer hours of work per day. In numerous instances compromises have been offered on the basis of nine hours' work at ten hours' pay, and in many cases the offers have been accepted. Bradstreet's thinks it probable that the large proportion of the employes' demands will be settled by compromise or mutual concessions. The nine-hour compromise at the ten-hours' wages, amounting to an advance of only ten per cent. in pay will naturally be much preferred by employers to the extreme demand for an eight-hour day with ten hours' wages, inasmuch as the latter means a 25 per cent. advance in wages. It is to be noted that at many points, notably at Pittsburg, where the piece-work system obtains largely, the eight-hour question has not as yet become an active issue. This points, perhaps, to a solution of the time problem in some of the dissatisfied trades at least in a way likely to be satisfactory to both employers and employed. Piecework already prevails in a number of trades, and with the best results to employer and employees, but there are other trades where it would be unwieldy and impracticable.

FRED. DOUGLASS' LOST OFFICE.—A Boston paper having recently stated that Mr. Frederick Douglass was "summarily ejected" from the office of recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, Mr. Douglass has written a letter to a friend in Boston, in which he says:

"There was nothing summary or unpleasant about it. I am a republican, and did all I could to defeat the election of Mr. Cleveland. He is under no political obligations to me whatever, yet I held the office of recorder nearly a whole year under his administration, an office he by right held, not for any term, but solely at the pleasure of the President. He could have removed me at his pleasure at any time after his inauguration. When he asked for my resignation, he simply asked me to set a time when it would be agreeable to me to tender it. I did set the time, and when that time arrived I sent in my resignation. His manner toward me was in every way courteous, and I have nothing whatever to complain of. While in office President Cleveland treated me as he treated other office-holders in this district. He was brave enough to invite me, Douglass and myself to all his grand receptions, thus rebuking the timidity—I will not say cowardice or prejudice—of his predecessor. I am a republican, and, if living, shall do all I can to elect a republican in 1888, but I honor liberalism wherever I find it, and I found it in President Cleveland, and I should despise myself if I should let anybody think otherwise. Were I else he may be, he is not a snob and he no coward."

COMPLETING THE SUSQUEHANNA BRIDGE.—The last span of the great Susquehanna bridge of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has been put up and the work of swinging the structure is in progress on Tuesday. The laying of the bridge flooring will take several days, but it is expected that by the close of the week the bridge will be completed and the tracks laid. The line will have a continuous single track from Baltimore to the west bank of the Schuylkill at Philadelphia. The second track is being put down on the line. The track was to be joined up with the west bank of the Schuylkill. It is within the range of probability that the line may be opened the present month for through freight traffic by way of the Philadelphia and its Jersey Central connection to New York. But it is said arrangements to that end have not been made as yet at least. The span the east side Schuylkill bridge are being pushed the structure will be completed in three month, when the line will be fairly into city of Philadelphia.

It appears to be settled, says a Wilton paper, that the democratic gubernatorial contest between E. R. Cochran and Ben T. Biggs, both of St. George's hundred, sets are two to one that Cochran will carry own hundred, and every other hundred the county except Wilmington, White Clay and possibly Brandywine. If he does he will be the next governor.

BALTIMORE MARKET.—The Baltimore of yesterday quote as follows:

WHEAT—Longberry 95c@98c. Fultz, 93@95c. for fair to good. CORN—White, 45@48; yellow, 47@48. OATS—38.

STILL POND CLUB.

STILL POND, May 1, 1886.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The Still Pond Agricultural and Horticultural Club met today and after reading the minutes of last meeting and calling the roll all further business was postponed till next meeting in order to listen to addresses of visitors present. Professor Webb, of Delaware College, first occupied the floor and delivered a most excellent address on the importance and feasibility of organizing a horticultural society for this peninsula, and elaborately discussed the cause and cure of pear blight. The professor was listened to with deep attention. His style is forcible, cogent and convincing.

The next to take the stand was Mr. J. W. Hickman; subject, 'The advancement in Agriculture during the past 100 years,'' who managed his subject with skill and interested his audience with many amusing and historical facts of rare interest.

Last and not least was the address of Mr. A. N. Brown, Secretary of the Delaware Fruit Exchange, who discoursed at some length upon the importance of the fruit growers of Kent county joining with those of Delaware in organizing a systematic arrangement by which our fruit can be sold at our very doors, as it were, at a cost of less than ½ cent per basket, for cash before removal. Mr. Brown is a plain, practical, sensible gentleman, and handled his subject with ability and fairness, with no display or flourish, but talks like one who knows what he is about.

OBSERVER.

GRADUALLY the Chinamen are becoming civilized. Only a week ago they exploded a can of dynamite under the shanty of a lot of Oregon hoodlums who had several times tried to blow them up, and now they have combined to defeat the so-called ends of justice in Baltimore. In that city a number of the almond-eyed citizens were recently arrested for keeping opium dens, but several white men and several other Chinamen who did the same kind of business were somewhat overlooked by the police. This partiality the remaining one hundred and eighty-three Baltimore Chinamen propose to resent and their resentment has been carried to the extent of an assessment for defense which netted $1,800. With a pointer or two on how to "fix" a jury and prove false alibis in the event of detection the Chinaman will be far enough advanced to run ward caucuses and sit in the average Legislature. The world moves and the Chinamen are doing their best to keep up with the procession.

AT LEAST a dozen men in this State alone have committed suicide because of business depression, created by the unsettled condition of industrial affairs, and to the responsibility for the suffering in families by strikes it is now suggested that the responsibility for these deaths must also be added. To do this unreservedly would not be either wise or just, for the financial affairs of some men would be depressed under almost any circumstances, and doubtless this is the class of men that swells the number of suicides. But in its indirect relation the subject is serious and relevant enough for consideration. In fact, the more the question of strikes is incomprehensively considered the more justification Mr. Powderly receives for declaring them pardonable only as a last resort. Undoubtedly the world would be better off without them.—Phila. Times.

THERE is a decided sentiment in Washington in favor of changing the inauguration day from the 4th of March to the 30th of April. This would be going back to the old date, and it would prove advantageous in several respects. The season would be better adapted to the exercises of the day, and the last session of Congress would have two months more for work, and would be enabled to do a great deal more than is possible under the present arrangement. There is a bill in each of the two houses providing for the necessary amendment to the Constitution, and there is no doubt that if it is passed and submitted to the States it will be promptly endorsed.

Eight Hours a Day's Work.

Cecil Democrat.

Our own experience, which we believe has been confirmed by all honest laboring men, is that the fellow, whoever he may be, who is always clamoring for higher wages or shorter hours, is too lazy to earn what he now receives and too worthless to profit by the leisure which shorter hours would afford.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN CHARLES SMITH.—Captain Charles Smith, who has handled the steamer Nelly White so nicely for the past two summers, died at his home in St. Michael's on Sunday night, after a sickness of two months. He leaves a wife and four children. The Tolchester Company had its flags at half-mast on Monday. Captain Smith was a popular captain, and leaves many friends.

IT is said that the voice and manner of preaching of the Rev. Charles Hill and his son Charles, resemble each other so closely that an old member of the church at Elkton, who had not his spectacles, listened to the latter preach on the night of the 19th ult., and left the edifice under the impression that he had heard another excellent sermon from the presiding elder.—Wilmington Republican.

IN the United States Senate on Monday the joint resolution providing for a constitutional amendment making May 1st the beginning of the presidential term and the congressional term was reported favorably. In the House of Representatives Mr. Findlay offered a preamble and resolution removing the internal revenue tax from tobacco.

IT is proposed to hold an old fashioned 4th of July celebration in Easton this year, including military drill, salute of 13 guns, the reading of the Declaration of Independence and an oration. It is a long time since such a celebration took place here.—Star.

FAC-SIMILE OF THE LABEL ON THE WRAPPER.
NO MORE A MYSTERY. WHY DOES THE CLOTHING TEAR SO EASILY? THE REASONS GIVEN.
ANSWER.—From the use of strong and impure Soap, made up in salable forms and shapes, with which the market is flooded. If you want to be right sure use ECKERS' OUR FOREFATHERS' SOAP—three connecting 4-inch cakes, making each bar one foot long; weight 22½ ounces—recommended by the Best Families, Hotels and Institutions throughout the country. It is prepared by the Grecian Purifying, Boiling and Settling Process, from fresh, clean and selected butchers' tallow. By its use you run no risk of contracting any skin disease; no stiffness of the arms or wrist. A great saving of time and labor. WASHING CLOTHES WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING. You can use it as you wish, but to wash without boiling or scalding observe these directions: Take lukewarm water, rub with soap particularly on dirty spots, soak half an hour or more, gently rub on board and your clothes will be clean. Try it for one month and you will be convinced of its great advantages. VERY IMPORTANT TO KNOW.—That the best remedy for washing flannels to keep them from shrinking—wash in lukewarm water with FOREFATHERS' OR ECKERS' BOARD OF HEALTH SOAP (the greatest disinfectant known), and dry in a warm room; cold water hardens flannels and drying in cold air shrinks them. Ask your grocer for it. ECKERS' SOAPS WILL WASH WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING.
