SATURDAY MORNING............JUNE 5, 1886.

SETTLERS WHO WILL SUCCEED.

LAKE HELEN, May 25, 1886.

If a person wants to make a home here in Florida, his chance is good. The State has a matchless climate and a diversified soil, that needs only to be understood and rightly managed to produce great results. There is no part of it in which he cannot make a good living by the exercise of ordinary industry. But he should not come here empty-handed, expecting to find a man waiting on the corner by the Jacksonville depot to give him a good job at big wages, nor should he expect to find a bearing orange grove with a fine residence in the city suburbs that can be bought for a song. He should come here just as he would go to any other new State to settle. If he wants a farm, let him come here and look one up. If he wants to take up new land and make for himself a good comfortable home, let him come prepared with funds to buy and good muscle to rough it for a few years. In other words, no man need come to Florida expecting to find the same soil, or the same conditions of climate as at the North, nor will he find money growing on the bushes by the wayside, nor orange trees growing into bearing groves in two or three years from the seed.

If he comes only for his health, he will find plenty of beautiful and healthy places to stop, in which he can get all the comforts and luxuries of life, but he will have to pay for them just as he would anywhere else. If he wants to farm, he must study the soil and the nature of subtropical products and be content to learn something from the experience of his neighbors. If he wants to go into business or set up as a mechanic he must do just as he would "up North." Look out a place where there is business to be done and let it be known that he has the facilities and the ability to do business. Men of this character will succeed here, for this State has wonderful capabilities of climate, soil and production, but it needs money, common sense and common industry to develop them. It affords better chances for the hardy pioneer than any other State in the Union, and there is no other State in which money can be so safely invested in diversified farming and growing of citrus fruits and vegetables. A farm of twenty acres properly located in this State is equal to a farm of sixty or a hundred acres in the North in producing capacity and no part of the farm or labor is necessary to sustain either family or stock in unproductive seasons as there are no unproducing periods from January to January. The strawberries in this section began to ripen in February and they look now as if they would continue for over a month yet. There is some corn that is nearly fit for the table and the tomatoes are almost ripe. White potatoes have been ripe since 1st of April. The watermelons are looking well. I saw some yesterday as large as a goose egg and a man told me they were a month later than they usually are. There is near fifty acres planted in watermelons in this section, and one store sold over seventy-five pounds of watermelon seed and could have sold more if they could have got them in time.

It is very warm here at times, but the heat does not seem to be so oppressive as it is in Kent, at times. I have seen the thermometer stand at 125° out in the sun and a man could work without seeming to suffer much from the heat. The mosquitoes and flies are bad at times, but I have seen them just as bad if not worse in Chestertown than they are here and I think when we get rid of these pine forests around here the insects will in a great measure disappear. The Colorado potato bug is unknown here.

Respectfully, CRANK.

Don't Undervalue the Boy.

The following sound reasoning we find in the American Agriculturist. It would be a benefit to both fathers and their sons if its precepts were more often regarded.

Too many men make their boys feel that they are of little or no account while they are boys. Lay a responsibility on a boy and he will meet it in a manful spirit. On no account ignore their disposition to investigate. Help them to understand things. Encourage them to know what they are about. We are too apt to treat a boy's seeking after knowledge as mere idle curiosity. "Don't ask questions" is poor advice to boys. If you do not explain puzzling things to them, you oblige them to make many experiments before they find out; and though experimental knowledge is best in one sense, in another it is not, for that which can be explained clearly does not need experimenting with. If the principle involved is understood, there is no further trouble, and the boy can go ahead intelligently. Do not wait for the boy to grow up before you begin to treat him as an equal. A proper amount of confidence, and words of encouragement and advice, and giving him to understand that you trust him in many ways, helps to make a man of him long before he is a man in either stature or years.

The Boston Journal of Commerce also makes a good suggestion to parents apropos to the above.

Give him tools, says the writer, and let him find out for himself whether he has got any mechanical taste or not. Do not discourage him, as parents are apt to do, by saying: "Oh, it is no use for you to try to do anything with tools. I never have any taste that way, and of course you have not." If a boy finds he can make a few articles with his hand, it tends to make him rely on himself. And the planning that is necessary for the execution of the work is a discipline and an education of great value to him. The future welfare and happiness of the boy depends on the surroundings of his youth. When he arrives at that period in his life when he is obliged to choose what profession or what line of business to follow, it is highly important that he should take no false step. And if in his youth he has cultivated a taste for any particular branch, the choice of a profession or business will be made more easy.

A Wise Father.

The crown prince of Prussia was always a very sensible man in the management of his household, and he is ably seconded by his wife. On one occasion the governor of his children came to him and said:

"Your Highness, I must complain of the little prince; he refuses to have his face washed in the morning."

"Does he?" answered the crown prince. "We'll remedy that. After this let him go unwashed."

"It shall be done," said the governor.

Now the sentries have to salute every member of the royal family—children and all—whenever they pass. The day after, the little four-year-old prince went out for a walk with his governor. As they passed a sentrybox where a grim soldier stood the man stood rigid without presenting arms. The little prince—accustomed to universal deference—looked displeased, but said nothing. Presently another sentry was passed. Neither did this one give a sign of recognition. The little prince angrily spoke of it to his old governor, and they passed in. When the walk was finished, and they had met many soldiers, and as none of them saluted the prince, the little fellow ran into his father exclaiming:

"Papa—papa—you must whip every man in your guards. They refuse to salute when I pass them."

"Ah! my son," said the crown prince, "they do rightly; for clean soldiers never salute a dirty little prince."

After that the boy took a shower bath every morning.

OUR FORE-FATHERS SOAP

FAC-SIMILE OF THE LABEL ON THE WRAPPER.

Ask Your Grocer For It.

NO MORE A MYSTERY.
WHY DOES THE CLOTHING TEAR SO EASILY?
THE REASONS GIVEN.

ANSWER.—From the use of strong and impure Soap, made up in salable forms and shapes, with which the market is flooded. If you want to be right sure use ECKERS' OUR FOREFATHERS' SOAP—three connecting 4-inch cakes, making each bar one foot long; weight 22½ ounces—recommended by the Best Families, Hotels and Institutions throughout the country. It is prepared by the Grecian Purifying, Boiling and Settling Process, from fresh, clean and selected butchers' tallow. By its use you run no risk of contracting any skin disease; no stiffness of the arms or wrist. A great saving of time and labor. WASHING CLOTHES WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING. You can use it as you wish, but to wash without boiling or scalding observe these directions: Take lukewarm water, rub with soap particularly on dirty spots, soak half an hour or more, gently rub on board and your clothes will be clean. Try it for one month and you will be convinced of its great advantages. VERY IMPORTANT TO KNOW.—That the best remedy for washing flannels to keep them from shrinking—wash in lukewarm water with FOREFATHERS' OR ECKERS' BOARD OF HEALTH SOAP (the greatest disinfectant known), and dry in a warm room; cold water hardens flannels and drying in cold air shrinks them. Ask your grocer for it. ECKERS' SOAPS WILL WASH WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING.
